North Vietnamese Have 5 Regiments In South Viet Nam

Communist Sector Buildup Reported During Battle Lull

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. military authorities said today that five regiments of the North Vietnamese army — normally about 7,500 men — are now fighting in South Viet Nam.

The announcement confirmed the presence in the country of two new regiments. In July military authorities said one regiment was known to be in South Viet Nam, probably a second was present and possibly a third.

Word of the North Vietnamese buildup came as a lull was reported in ground action across the country. But the growing U.S. military forces continued their patrols and sweeps, some of them in areas where the North Vietnamese units are believed operating.

Nine Killed

Nine persons, all of them believed to be Americans, were killed when two U.S. Army helicopters collided in the air 250 miles northeast of Saigon near the headquarters at An Khe of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division.

Military officials declined to say whether they thought more North Vietnamese were moving into the country in response to the buildup of American forces.

It had been reported earlier that military men in the central highlands felt the number of North Vietnamese regiments had increased from three to four and possibly five. One new regiment was reported to have taken part in the recent fighting around the Special Forces camp at Plei Me.

The spokesman said the regiments now in the country are the 18th, the 95th and the 101st, all of the 325 division, and the 32nd and 250th regiments.

The 32nd and the 250th are the new arrivals.

No Comment

Military authorities would not comment on how these two regiments came into the country. They said they had come in since midsummer and were operating in the western part of the 2nd corps area, in the central highlands near the borders of Cambodia and Laos.

A U.S. spokesman said the presence of the North Vietnamese units had been confirmed through interrogation of prisoners and captured documents and from persons who had come over to the government side. He said there was no evidence that the North Vietnamese regiments are operating together.

Spokesmen said little significant contact with the Viet Cong had been reported throughout the country in the past 24 hours.

Officers said they had few details of the helicopter collision. The two helicopters were en route to An Khe from the Plei Me area, where troops of the 1st Cavalry have been hunting down Communist troops since the siege of the Plei Me camp was lifted 11 days ago.

Operation Zone

It was not known whether the helicopters were returning troops from the operation zone.

An eyewitness said one of the helicopters caught fire, hit the tail of the second and both then crashed and burned.

Vietnamese army troops swept an area of the Boi Loi Forest about 35 miles northwest of Saigon following up three bombing attacks by U. S. B52 bombers. They reported finding

Rusk Says U.S. Progressing in Viet Nam War

But 'Severe Fight' Lies Ahead, News Conference Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the U.S. struggle against Communist conquest of Viet Nam "has been progressing well" but "severe fighting" still lies ahead.

Rusk told a news conference "we do not yet see," in the behavior of the Communist North Vietnamese, evidence "of the crucial point that they are ready for peace."

On the contrary Rusk noted that they said Thursday that a pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam would not bring peace talks. He also said Communist recruiting of guerrilla fighters in South Viet Nam and heavy infiltration of troops from North Viet Nam continue.

Progressing Well

"Our efforts there have been progressing well," Rusk declared, reflecting the official view that the massive buildup of American forces is turning the tide against the Communists.

"They will not succeed, but there will be difficult times ahead. Severe fighting lies in front of us."

On other subjects, Rusk said:

1. It would be wrong for the U.S. government to try to restrict demonstrations against its Vietnamese policy in any way. He declared there must be "debate and dissent" in a democracy. Yet he said the United States has a dilemma on this issue because the Communists are misled by evidence indicating people are critical of U.S. government policy.

NATO Forces

2. Integration of NATO forces in Europe is required by the hard facts of the situation there, where American troops hold defense positions "surrounded by a sea of foreigners." Rusk thus took sharp issue with French President Charles de Gaulle's call for an end to

Legislature Finishes 5-Week Fall Session

Housing Bill Victory for Knowles

By JOHN IGLEHART
Associated Press Writer

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles could claim today an important personal victory in passage of an open housing bill, but couldn't count himself a big winner in the Legislature's fall session.

The Republican chief executive stepped out of his normal hands off role with legislators and swung enough weight in the GOP - dominated Senate to gain passage of what will become Wisconsin's first open housing law.

The five-week session, which ended Thursday night, received its instructions in a speech by Knowles on the opening Tuesday. The broad seven-point program included bonding proposals to accelerate highway construction and the development of state recreational land.

Other Measures

Knowles also championed measures in the areas of highway safety, water pollution and open housing. Most of the proposals were laid aside until spring.

It took four amendments, personal persuasion by the governor and 15 hours of talk extending over three days to pull the housing measure through the Senate.

The 18-14 roll call was recorded Saturday and three days later the Assembly concurred in the Senate changes, completing action on the subject that produced more words than any other.

The bipartisan bill would prohibit racial or religious discrimination in the sale, rental or financing of private housing. It also would broaden Wisconsin's public accommodations law.

Other Exemptions

A homeowner, selling or renting the house in which he lives, would not be subject to the bill. Owner - occupied apartments and rooming houses of four units or fewer also would be exempt.

Newly constructed houses are automatically included under the bill which was originally drafted by two Assembly Republicans, William Steiger of Oshkosh and Thomas Barland of Eau Claire.

Fighting Mood

The bill would liberalize the State Public Accommodations law. It would prohibit discrimination in public places such as hotels, motels, resorts, restaurants, taverns, barbershops, nursing homes and cemeteriose.

To the thinking of the Legislature's only Negro, Assemblyman Lloyd Barbee, D - Milwaukee, this section is the most important. It was virtually ignored throughout the long months of debate.

The Legislature returned

Lawmakers In Recess Until May

By HARVEY BREUSCHER
Associated Press Writer

MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Legislature put a finishing flourish to its fall session Thursday night that made the five-week meeting more productive than predicted.

The state lawmakers won't return to Madison until May 2 and legislation left dangling during the seven - month recess will provide the fuel for a heated election year session.

Most of the important action awaited the last three days of the fall meeting. It was the period in which legislators worked without the $15 a day expense allowances alloted during the first 110 days of the session.

Housing Bill

The period began with final passage of an open housing bill. It wound up Thursday with favorable action on proposals to add $16.5 million to university construction funds and appropriate $681,000 to four state agencies and the University of Wisconsin for a study of water pollution abatement.

For every measure that made it, there was one or more that didn't.

A last ditch effort failed to gain approval of a bill that would repeal Wisconsin's ban on colored oleomargarine and lift the 15 cents a pound tax on the uncolored product.

"If butter can't stand on its own taste and quality we better take it off the shelves," said sponsoring Sen. Casimir Kendzierski, D - Milwaukee. When it became obvious that the senator lacked the votes, he dropped his motion to withdraw the bill from the Agriculture Committee where it has rested since January.

School Aids

An additional school aids bill also was bottled up until spring. The Senate voted to boost the aids $5.6 million in the biennium. The Democratic controlled Assembly made the figure $11.2 million.

Most Senate Republicans called the increase irresponsible and the measure ended up as a special order of business on the May 3 calendar.

The last piece of legislation to clear both houses was a bill primarily of local interest. It would allow Sun Prairie and other communities north of Madison to join the capital city's sewage district and attempt to alleviate the pollution problem in Lake Koshkonong in Jefferson and Rock counties.

Quick approval was given a $462,000 appropriation to match the federal funds for the hiring of psychologists to teach mentally retarded children. The money will defray 70 per cent of local school costs.

Branch Banking

A final move to pass a branch banking bill failed and the measure was laid over until spring.

Sen. Richard Zaborski, D-Milwaukee, noted that the Legislature earlier passed a bill to al-

De Gaulle Tells Candidacy; French Race Virtually Over

At Least Five Will Oppose President, but Without Hope

PARIS (AP) — The French presidential race was in effect over today, even before it officially starts, with President Charles de Gaulle generally conceded a sure victory.

The only suspense of the campaign was ended Thursday night when De Gaulle announced he is willing to be re-elected. Most Frenchmen felt he would run. But De Gaulle has been unpredictable in the past, and no one could be completely sure until he spoke.

At least five candidates will oppose De Gaulle. All have been campaigning vigorously for several weeks, but each admits privately that he has no hope of winning. Unofficial soundings have indicated that De Gaulle might get as much as 65 per cent of the total vote.

Only Hope

The only hope of the opposition candidates is to corral 50 per cent of the vote in the Dec. 5 election. Then there would be a runoff on Dec. 19 between the two top men. De Gaulle's ego might be bruised by failure to get a majority on the first round, but his victory on the second ballot probably would be certain.

The closing date for candidates to file is Nov. 16, and the campaign will not officially open until the next day. In addition to the six principal aspirants, several political unknowns have said they would file.

Party Backing

De Gaulle apparently intends to run with no formal party backing, underlining his often-expressed contempt for the political parties which kept French political life so often in turmoil before De Gaulle came to power. Officials of the Gaullist Union for a New Republic have said they expect to have no part in the campaign as a party. But this will not prevent UNR members from making a maximum personal effort to get the vote out.

Opposing De Gaulle will be: Francois Mitterrand, many times a minister in the Fourth Republic, who has the backing of Socialists, Communists and other left-wing groups. Jean-Louis Tixier-Vignancour, a Paris lawyer long associated with right-wing causes and a minister in the occupation Vichy government: Paul Antier, a former agriculture minister who hopes to get votes from farmers irritated by De Gaulle's Common Market policies; Pierre Marcilhacy, a senator, and Jean Lecanuet, former national president of the Catholic Popular Republican Movement.

Hale, Hearty

De Gaulle, finishing his first seven-year term and turning 75 on Nov. 22, looked hale and hearty, firm and vigorous in his brief television address announcing his decision.

He recalled that he had stepped in 25 years ago to speak for France after the Nazis overran the country. He said he returned to power in 1958 "to avoid civil war."

Now, he continued, "I believe I must hold myself ready to carry on my task, judging fully what an effort it will be, but convinced that presently it is the best way to serve France."

It will be France's first direct election of a president, and the first time that De Gaulle's name has appeared on a ballot presented to the general electorate.

In the past, French presidents have been chosen by an electoral college made up of members of Parliament, regional councilors and municipal councilors.

Jobless Rate At 8-Year Low For October

Washington Silent, Figure Buried in Other Labor Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate dipped to an eight-year low of 4.3 per cent in October, but you'd almost think the Labor Department was trying to hide the good news.

Usually trumped at the start of the monthly job report — and sometimes even announced from the White House — the favorable figure was buried Thursday in the midst of a mass of other facts and figures.

Actually, the government is launching major effort to switch the nation's attention on its oft-criticized unemployment figures from percentages to people.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, under new management, emphasized instead that the number of jobless men, women and teen-agers totaled 2.8 million. It also reported total employment at an all-time October high of 73.2 million.

Noise Level

"Unemployment rates have become part of the noise level of society," and nobody pays much attention, said Arthur M. Ross in his first news conference as commissioner of the bureau.

"We say the unemployment rate among adult men was 'only' 2.6 per cent, but it's a million people," Ross said.

One million adult women and 800,000 teen-agers made up the rest of the jobless.

Ross said too much emphasis in the past on the monthly jobless percentage rate had created a lack of understanding around the country about what the figure really shows.

The real meaning, he said, is "who are the unemployed, what are their numbers and what are their circumstances?"

The unemployment rate means that 4.3 per cent of the total civilian labor force of 75.9 million were unemployed.

Fear Saboteurs

State of Emergency Called in Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A countrywide state of emergency was proclaimed in Rhodesia today.

The action sparked speculation in the Rhodesian capital that Prime Minister Ian Smith was paving the way to seize independence from Britain.

A surprised government official, who first heard of the emergency when handed a press statement by a newsman, said: "You don't have to read between the lines too closely to guess what is going on."

Security Threat

Rhodesia's minister of justice, law and order, Desmond Lardner-Burke, who ordered the state of emergency for three months, said it was necessary because of a threat to security in Rhodesia. He said trained African saboteurs were either at large in Rhodesia or poised in territories to the north.

"The public is, of course, well aware of incidents of arson, violence, intimidation and other subversive activities taking place in this country at present," said Lardner-Burke.

Newsmen, however, could not recall immediately any incidents of this nature in the last few weeks.

"Trained Saboteurs"

A government spokesman said there were "numerous trained saboteurs sponsored by both proscribed African nationalist organizations" — the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union and the Zimbabwe African National Union. The leaders of both have been confined to remote areas of the country.

The spokesman said some of the saboteurs were at large in Rhodesia and in neighboring countries.

Rescue Parties Search for Wrecked Plane

PANAMA (AP) — Rescue parties searching for a missing Argentine air force plane set out today for a spot in the Costa Rican jungle where helicopter pilot reported signs of an air crash.

The plane, a DC4 carrying 55 Argentine military cadets, 5 officers and 9 crewmen, disappeared Wednesday on a flight from the Canal Zone to the United States.

The helicopter, one of 36 aircraft, taking part in the search, reported that trees in the jungle 25 miles east of San Jose, Costa Rica, appeared to have been felled by a crashing plane.

The missing plane had reported one engine on fire. It was one of two DC4s that took off from the Canal Zone for a scheduled refueling stop in San Salvador. The other plane reached San Salvador without difficulty.

$3 Million WSU Facility

Platteville Building Falls Injuring 16 Men

PLATTEVILLE (AP) — Sixteen workers were injured, one of them seriously, when an upper section of a $3 million building under construction at Platteville State University collapsed Thursday night, plunging them 30 feet in a flood of wet concrete, wood and steel.

Louis Correll Jr., about 21, of Platteville remained in serious condition today at a Cuba City hospital. A total of eight workmen were hospitalized, most of them at Platteville. State inspectors were called to the scene to determine the cause of the collapse.

A spokesman for the general contractor, the WSC Construction Co. of Winona, Minn., said the building was scheduled for completion in late 1966.

Police Chief Clay Mellor said 20 men were pouring concrete for the southwest wing of the Science and Engineering building when the accident occurred. Five escaped without injury, he said.

The chief said the building is so designed that there is no second floor beneath the wing that fell.

"When they brought the men out of that wet concrete, you couldn't tell one from the other," the chief said. "All were covered with the stuff and the rescuers had to wade in concrete that came to the top of their rubber boots."

After 8 p.m.

The concrete reportedly was hardening at a rapid pace, adding to the ruin of the partially completed structure still without walls.

The workmen began pouring the concrete Thursday afternoon. The accident occured shortly after 8 p.m.

A student said he heard "an awful crash and then I saw the building going down."

'Sugar Plum Lane' a Sweet Success

Christmas came early to the Fox Cities. Thursday and today the chimes rang out 'Silent Night' and a yule tree stood glowing on still green grass. It was a lovely time to have a holiday, and the weather helped make Appleton Memorial Hospital Auxiliary's 'Sugar Plum Lane' just that.

The Masonic Temple smelled piney with the season. Everywhere was the glitter of a bejeweled Christmas. From the newest in ornaments and wreaths to centerpieces to aprons and recipe boxes and sweaters to warm a child's heart, it was a bazaar to break records.

Arrived Early

Crowds were huge by 10 a.m., and those who arrived long before noon felt that they had missed the early 'sold out' items. From all around the state, women with an eye to a pretty holiday mark this bazaar as a 'must'. They came from Madison, Milwaukee, Wisconsin Rapids and all points between to shop, to enjoy the luncheon, and to take home 'Christmas', all done up in a shiny bow and spelling that special bit of magic in the home during the yuletide ahead.

Mrs. Hilton Christianson and Mrs. Robert Chase were Bazaar chairmen this year. The event represents the work of hundreds of women, and proceeds will go toward the Auxiliary's new pledge of $100,000.

Christmas Gifts Need not be grand or expensive to be pretty and enjoyed. Women of Appleton Memorial Auxiliary have learned this through the years they've sponsored a holiday bazaar, and guests are reminded every year as they find little gems of presents for friends and family. At left, are Mrs. T. H. Ascott and Mrs. Vilas Baker, both of Wisconsin Rapids. Above, tiny but intricate egg ornaments are purchased by Mrs. Bernard Reese, Madison, and Mrs. Floyd Bollman, Appleton. Margaret Truman Dated In Glare of Spotlight Too

NEW YORK (AP) — The problem of a president's daughter carrying on a girl-dates-boy relationship without everyone butting in isn't unique with Luci Baines Johnson.

Margaret Truman had to deal with the same thing when she lived in the White House.

"If I were observed eating a hamburger with a man and a month later I happened to speak to him, romance was in the air," Miss Truman wrote in a series of articles for Good Housekeeping magazine in 1956. Miss Truman was 21 when she moved into the White House.

"The press yearned to get me married or at least engaged," she said. "There were times when I may have felt wistful to go along with this program, if only because it offered the chance of becoming a private citizen again.

Determined to Wait

It was rumored this past weekend that Luci, 18, was seeking her father's permission to marry Patrick J. Nugent. Luci has refused to comment on the reports, saying she would not discuss her private life.

Miss Truman, now married to Clifton Daniel, New York Times Managing Editor, said she "made up my mind early in the game that I would not marry while I lived in the White House." She and Daniel were married in 1956.

Although it was difficult, Miss Truman said she "never brooded over my restrictions or sacrifices as a daughter of the President.

"I tried not think about it at all. If I had let myself think about it, the enormity of it would have swamped me."

She admitted she did miss the "spur of the moment dates, the icebox raiding, the phone calls, the boys who just dropped by."

Not Best Way

"While I'm not silly enough to suppose that being watched over by the Secret Service had any real effect on romance," Miss Truman said, "I ask you to consider the effect of saying goodnight to a boy at the door of the White House in a blaze of floodlights with Secret Service men in attendance.

"There is not much you can do except shake hands and that's no way to get engaged."

Miss Truman considered herself at an awkward age for living in the White House.

"If I had been older or younger, I might have taken it in my stride," she said. "But I was of an age where fantasy and fact were already intermingled and already impressions fell so thick and fast it was difficult to settle on one or the other.

"I did what I could. I kept my head."

Miss Harder Fiancee of Ronald Beyer

HILBERT — Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Harder, Sixth Street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Donna, to Ronald Beyer. He is the son of Mrs. Elmer Beyer, 326 E. Summer St., Appleton, and the late Mr. Beyer.

The bride-elect and her fiance are employed at the Aid Association for Lutherans, Appleton.

Trigere Takes Subtle Tack To Femininity

NEW YORK (AP) — Pauline Trigere, a fashion feminist if there ever was one, made a tacit pitch for womanhood Thursday with a spring collection that was sexy in a very subtle way.

There were flowers, and pearl buttons and silken bows, and rufles and ribbons and flounces, too. But with these Miss Trigere was careful not to overdo.

Take the necklines. Tubular dresses long or short wore shoestring straps, or bathing suit straps that criss-crossed in back, or jumper straps, or no straps at all. There were U-cut and cowl-necklines that traveled low, but not immodestly so.

Gentle Shirring

What helped to round out pretty bosom lines were bits of shearing at about the breastbones in the otherwise shapeless wool or silken shifts.

In chiffon dinner dresses the Trigere models figured plenty. But over their vivid floral printed sheaths were shadowy tubes of black or gray chiffon.

Instead of open side seams, Miss Trigere borrowed a man's night shirt. She used the rounded shirttail theme over and over again as torso length jackets, tunics and blouses. Out from under the shirttails flashed flounces of pleats, or swirls of chiffon.

Long-sleeved dresses with soft bows at the neckline were bias cut with flared skirts. Long, to-the-thigh-line smocks with full sleeves and button tabs topped skinny black dresses with nearly-bare shoulders.

Party gowns were pure and simple white or black crepe with tiny little shoulder capes, or flamboyantly printed, floaty chiffons done up as dress and stole, or dress and coat costumes.

Wash Woodwork

To keep varnished or shellacked woodwork clean, wash it with a cloth wrung from warm soap or detergent suds. Then rinse with clear water. When dry, rub the woodwork lightly with furniture polish, if desired.

Gelatin and Fruit

Drain canned fruit extra well when you are planning to use it in a gelatin salad or dessert.

'Fringe' Benefits for Wives of Delegates

A Saturday brunch and style show at Alex's Manor House will be one of the featured convention activities for the wives of barbershop harmony members of the Land O'Lakes District of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA).

The district group opens its 21st convention tonight at the Conway Motor Hotel. Women's activities have been planned by co-chairmen Mrs. Jack Hermsen, Little Chute, and Mrs. Clayton Kohl, Appleton, assisted by other wives from the two host organizations, Appleton and Kau-Little Chute SPEBSQSA Chapters.

Welcome Planned

Wives of delegates and members from 70 district chapters will be welcomed Friday evening from 8 to 10 p.m. Friday evening in the special hospitality room in the Conway's Lake Michigan room.

Saturday's brunch will begin at 10 a.m. with a s i n g i n g program by the Kimlarks of Kimberly and the fall and winter style show presented by H.C. Prange Co.

Mrs. Jerry Miller, Neenah, will serve as the mistress of ceremonies at the brunch.

Princess Margaret Determined To See All Sides of America

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Britain's Princess Margaret, a woman with a mind of her own, makes it clear she intends to see all of it — the United States — not just the high-society side.

"I've longed to come to this country for ages," she said on her arrival from London Thursday, "and I'm so glad it's become a reality."

Accompanied by her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, she said at her first news conference: "We both look forward to seeing as much as we can of the United States and meeting all people in all walks of life."

Her husband, photographer Anthony Armstrong-Jones before their marriage, stood in the background at the conference in the San Francisco Press Club.

A London-style peasoup fog had socked in San Francisco International Airport but cleared before their arrival. The royal pair had a glittering view of hilly San Francisco by night.

The princess and her husband went out of their way to be cooperative.

Obliged Cameras

At the airport, Lord Snowdon walked through the reception line with frequent smiles for the news photographers making pictures of him and his wife.

"Hey, princess," a photographer shouted as Margaret shook hands in the reception line, "How about turning around for a picture?"

The princess, sixth in line to Britain's throne, made a full about-face to pose. She wore the same biege tweed wool coat and yellow silk dress in which she traveled and her only jewelry was a double row of pearls, matching earrings and a gold brooch pinned to a shoulder.

She did not wear a hat on arrival, something most San Francisco women do wear.

After the press reception, although it was 14 hours since she'd left London, Margaret agreed to tour the club's upper floors including areas usually barred to women and non-members.

When she descended, one of her hosts said to the crowd: "Let's give a big hand for the little lady." The crowd did.

Lord Snowdon, 5 ½ months older than his 35-year-old wife, walked a few steps behind the princess throughout their tour. He grinned frequently.

Princess Margaret of Great Britain looks closely at a memento given her by the San Francisco Press Club Thursday evening after a brief press conference at the club. This was her first stop in her four-day tour of the Bay Area. The memento is a stone reproduction of the big black cat, traditional insignia and mascot of the press club. Behind her is British Minister Michael Stewart. (AP Wirephoto)

As a souvenir the club gave the princess a silver model of a black cat named "Tombstone." The cat, symbol of the club, was the work of sculptor Benjamin Bufano, a member.

Not Offended

The princess didn't even seem to mind when actress Carol Channing, a San Franciscan, "Hello, Dolly," had to leave a post-news conference reception early to make the opening curtain.

Carol, who arrived before the princess, was a little more worried about royal manners. Miss Channing, a San Franciscan, asked reporters, "Am I supposed to curtsy?" She didn't.

After meeting Mayor John F. Shelley at City Hall and attending a benefit luncheon, the princess and her husband dine tonight at the Telegraph Hill home of Whitney Warren, who made a fortune in California ranching. Warren's father, the late Whitney Warren, was the architect who designed New York's Grand Central railroad station.

Warren's home commands a magnificent view of San Francisco and its bay.

Warren served in the French army as a teen-ager in World War I and won decorations for bravery under fire.

Promises Given in Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — James Rademaker claimed Miss Charlotte Bohm as his bride at 4 p.m. Thursday at Holy Cross Catholic Church. The Rev. Andrew Quella officiated at the double ring nuptial rite.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Bohm, 601 Gertrude St., are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rademaker, 904 Metoxen Ave.

Maid of honor was Miss Marie Bohm, an aunt of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Sherry Dietzen, Miss Judy Biselx and Miss Kathryn Rademaker.

Ronald Skalmusky attended as best man. Groomsmen were James Lorenz and Leo Mitchell. Guests were ushered by Matthew Andrews and Howard Veldman.

The newlyweds were honored at a reception at Van Abel's Restaurant, Hollandtown.

Mrs. Rademaker is employed at Zwicker Knitting Mills, Appleton. Her husband is with Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co.

After a wedding trip through northern Wisconsin, the couple will reside at 1361½ McKinley St.

Lawrentians Come Home

The sun shone on Lawrence University's Homecoming last weekend It set the mood for old friends meeting again after years of separation for a rah-rah football mood, for house decorations, pep rallies and presentations of players, for the annual Friday evening skits and the freshmen-sophomore tug-o-war

After the Saturday afternoon game against Grinell, the only disappointing score of the weekend, returning alumni met at a 5 30 to 8 p m. reception at the Conway Hotel Dormitories and fraternities held open house for guests after the game

"Caught at the Pass" was the western theme of the homecoming dance at the Country Aire Club. Miss Marcia Rogers, Madison, and Charles Norseng, Chippewa Falls, headed the homecoming committee Miss Lee Galda, Grosse Point Farms, Mich , and Chase Ferguson, Deerfield, Ill , were dance chairmen.

Alumni and Friends of Lawrence University met after the game at a reception at the Conway Hotel. Chatting above are Mr. and Mrs LeRoy Moeller, South Bend, Ind , and Mr and Mrs. Chris Larsen, Appleton At right, at the homecoming dance, Marilyn Jesse, Appleton, has her program signed by Douglas Gruehn, also of Appleton. Buying Diet Foods

A lovely writes I am confused about foods packaged for reducers My neighborhood market has a small section under the heading "Dietetic and Reducing Foods" Some labels read "No Salt," others "No Sugar." Sometimes the calorie count appears, sometimes not Too, the choice is limited Yet, in one of your columns, you listed a wide variety Will you please explain the labeling and tell me where to find a larger selection

The Anser. Originally dietetic foods were packaged for people with illnesses that limit the intake of various elements, such as salt. Now the products have been expanded to include reducing foods Consequently all dietetic foods are not low-calorie and, for their purpose need not be The safe choice for reducers is clearly labelled "Low-Calorie"

Accessability of such products increases as markets become aware of the demand Few are able to stock all available items, however It is a good idea, therefore, to shop all nearby markets

Health food shops are another source of low cal products. They also supply interesting seasonings and herb teas—the sort of thing that adds zest to a diet without adding calories You may find a special diet shop in your vicinity There are over 1000 around the country and their number grows

Your Problems

Wife's Snoring Causes Mate To Use Unreasonable Methods

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS What do you think of a husband who wakes his wife up at 2 a m. to tell her to stop snoring? Clem started this a few months ago when he retired from his job I am not retired, however. Clem can sleep late in the morning but I can't.

Last night when Clem woke me up I got real mad. I asked him what in the world he thought he was accomplishing. He said, 'Nothing is more annoying than being kept awake by a snorer The snorer should stay up and keep his victim company"

Isn't this the meanest thing you ever heard of? I do not snore on purpose If I could stop I would What can I do?—Pooped

Dear Pooped: First see a doctor and learn if he can do anything about your snoring. Sometimes minor surgery will eliminate the problem. If the doctor says it is more complicated in your case, buy a cot and sleep in another part of the house.

DEAR ANN LANDERS I am a member of America's most persecuted minority, an ex-convict.

Now that I have served my time, I can't get a job First I was truthful and owned up to my record The answer was, "We appreciate your honesty, but we can't hire you It's against company policy" after several such experiences I wrote "no" under the question, "Have you ever been convicted of a felony?" Twice the truth came out and I was fired

How can a person survive if he is unable to earn a living? I am 39 years old, in perfect health and willing to do any kind of legitimate work I am a bachelor and can work 14 hours a day, six days a week I will move anywhere.

I keep reading that at least two-thirds of those with records return to jail within 90 days,

Lander

I'm sure many of them would have preferred to go straight but society would not let them. When a man finds all doors closed he loses his courage and dignity Please, Ann Landers, I am begging you—help me to be a useful citizen —Willing But Unemployable

Dear Willing: I am printing your letter and addressing my remarks to employers all over the U.S.A.:

Where would you be today if nobody gave you a second chance? Put yourself in this man's shoes. I am asking you to give a break to men who have records. Some will fail you, but the ones who come through will have been saved for all time. And such a man can well turn out to be the best employee you could have. In my book it's worth the chance.

DEAR ANN LANDERS I am going with a gentleman who is separated but not divorced, Kenny and I are together Monday through Thursday On Friday he moves right in with his estranged wife and children—suitcase and all

Yesterday I told him to go back to his family full-time or stop sleeping over there. He answered, "I can always get another girl friend but I can never replace my wonderful children"

Why doesn't this dumb jerk realize that one day his "wonderful children" will get married and have lives of their own that don't include him? By that time he will have passed up a chance to make a new life for himself. Should I make Kenny choose between me and his family?—Sweet Adeline

Dear Adeline: Wake up and smell the coffee, Lady. He has chosen them. I'll bet an old Dewey button if you told Kenny to flake off he'd go back to his family on a full-time basis. If it's marriage you want, forget him. You are a sometime thing.

SEAMS TO ME

By Patricia Scott

Hostess Aprons

An active hostess can't have too many pretty aprons for her evenings of entertaining Here are two you can make for your coming holiday parties The basic apron is very simple and can be made in serviceable fabrics for everyday use, too

Pat Scott

STRIPE APRON·

You'll Need

One yard of candy-striped fabric 36 inches wide, 1½ yards of eyelet ruffling two inches wide, 1½ yards of jumbo rickrack to match stripe

TO MAKE

1 For the basic apron make a narrow hem Stitch the eyelet under the hem and the rickrack over the hem edge Make a ½ inch hem on the pockets, add eyelet and rickrack, and stitch to the apron Gather the waist edge of the apron Fold waistband (WB in diagram) in half lengthwise and press Turn the long raw edges of the band under ¼ inch and press Place over the gathered apron edge with apron between waistband, and top-stitch to apron Make narrow hems along edges of ties, leaving raw edge at one short end of each Fold the waistband raw ends under ¼ inch Form a pleat at the raw edge end of each tie Slide raw ends of ties into folded ends of band and stitch

GILT ROSEBUD APRON·

You'll Need

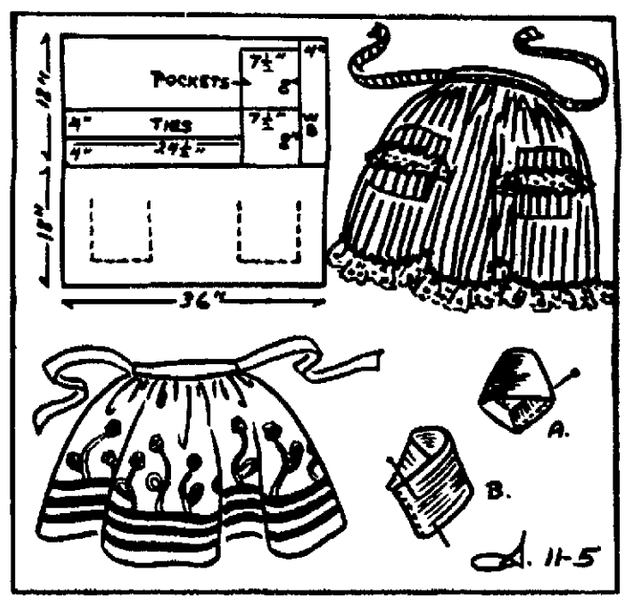
One yard of organdy in green one yard of military braid, ¼ inch wide in gold; 6 yards of soutache braid in gold.

TO MAKE·

1 Make the basic apron, this time using a 3-inch bottom hem and omitting the pockets

2 After the apron is made, top-stitch the soutache braid to it 12 stems and leaves, along the waistband and apron joining and along the border of the hem in three rows evenly spaced

3. Following the diagrams "A" (wrong side) and "B" are two you can make for your (right side), make 12 buds from the military braid by cutting 3-inch strips Crisscross the ends, fold under the raw end and pin



4 Stick each bud to each stem as shown in sketch

5 For the Christmas holidays, you can design your own trim. Try a tree made of metallic and colored rickrack, a candy cane made of crisscrossed (or interwoven) rickrack, tree decorations etc

Tourney Player Goes For Broke

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Fear is a very useful thing because it keeps the average sensible person out of trouble. According to a recent scientific survey, the only rational beings that don't know the meaning of fear are tournament bridge players.

The rubber bridge player would not find himself in South's predicament in today's hand, taken from the new

"Complete Book of Duplicate Bridge." He would let West play the hand at two hearts. West would make his contract with 100 honors and perhaps with an overtrick.

The tournament player bids two spades in the hope of driving West to three hearts. Instead West doubles, and South is in serious trouble.

South ruffs the third round of hearts and takes dummy's top trumps. He then gets to his hand with the king of clubs and must make a key decision. Should he lead a third trump?

Big Risk

If West started with four trumps to the queen-ten, a trump lead will allow him to draw trumps and run the rest of the tricks. South will be down four. If West started with only three trumps, a trump lead is the surest way to keep the penalty down to 100 points.

A rubber bridge player would abandon trumps and run the clubs. At worst this will allow the opponents to make two trump tricks as well as two hearts and three diamonds. The rubber bridge player is willing to settle for 300 points.

The tournament player leads a third trump without fear. He knows that 300 points will be just as severe a loss in tournament bridge as 700 points. If Gertrude Stein had written a book on tournament bridge, she would have said: "A bottom is a bottom is a bottom." As it happens, South gets out of the trap for a loss of only 100 points, earning a very fine tournament score instead of a bottom.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes. You hold: S 10 5 3, H Q 6 2, D A J 8 3, C 8 7 4. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond. This promises no greater strength than a response of one notrump would, and has the merit of showing where the bulk of your strength is located.

Quiz Aspirants To La Crosse University Post

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Candidates for the presidency of Wisconsin State University-LaCrosse were interviewed Thursday by a special committee of the board of State College Regents. Interviews were expected to continue for several days, with more than a dozen aspirants scheduled to present their qualifications for the appointment to succeed retiring President Rexford Mitchell.

Mitchell will retire Feb. 1, an dthe regents' office here said a recommendation on his successor will probably be before the full board of regents at its meeting in December or January.

All of the candidates are now faculty members or officials of Wisconsin institutions of higher learning. Generally, the board promotes someone within its system, although it does not have a rule to that effect. Chairman of the selection committee is Regent Eugene W. Murphy of LaCrosse. Other members are John J. Dixon, Appleton, W. R. Kopp, Platteville, Robert W. Pierce, Menomonie, and Mrs. Robert Williams of Stevens Point.

State History Appears With Revised Format

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — "Badger History," a periodical devoted to Wisconsin history and edited for grade school children, is appearing in a revised format.

The magazine is published by the State Historical Society and its current edition features stories about major ethnic groups that settled Wisconsin, including the French, Cornish, Norwegians and Swiss.

Mrs. Gordon Desmond Opens mail in the Arlington, Va., office of the Federation of Homemakers of which she is president. She spends much time reading scientific reports on foodstuffs and writing to government agencies in a campaign to improve the standard of manufactured foods. Housewife Campaigns for Higher Quality Foods

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I do believe, Gordon," said Mrs. Gordon B. Desmond, looking up from the chemical dictionary she was reading, "I do believe I would like a mink stole for Christmas."

"Why?" asked Desmond, a retired Army major.

"So I can wear it when I go lobbying for good old-fashioned foostuffs."

"Ha, ha," remarked the major. "I do believe that is the funniest excuse a woman ever gave for requesting mink."

But he bought it.

That was last Christmas and, heartened by mink, Ruth Desmond has been redoubling her efforts ever since — for more peanuts in peanut butter, for baby food minus sodium carboxmethyl, for the banishing of sodium nitrite from junior frankfurters and for the defeat of pending legislation which would permit the use of cotton fiber cellulose in jelly beans.

Mrs. Desmond, a grandmother, is president and guiding light of the Federation of Homemakers.

Organized One Year

This one-year-old organization has its headquarters in nearby Arlington, Va., in a small suite of offices cluttered with mail, government reports on food, and such formidable volumes as "Gleason's Toxicology of Commercial Products." The latter was a birthday gift to Mrs. Desmond from the major.

Mrs. Desmond declines, for strategic reasons, to say how many members the federation has. But she announces proudly that it has enlisted 800 new ones in the last five months (dues $3, sponsoring membership $10.)

Currently, her efforts are centering on the Food and Drug Administration's hearings on whether it should go through with its proposed rule that peanut butter must contain at least 90 per cent peanuts.

To be called peanut butter, she tells FDA, the product should contain 95 per cent peanuts, a standard which would alter the composition of much of the peanut butter now on the market.

Worked for Scouts

Mrs. Desmond, a native Washingtonian and an alumna of American University, was a legal secretar ybefore her marriage. While her daughter (now Mrs. Kenneth D. Cobb, wife of an Army lieutenant at Huntsville, Ala.) was growing up, Mrs. Desmond's hobbies were good works for the Brownies and Girl Scouts.

New Superintendent Named for Boys School

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Paul D. Prast, associate warden for security at Wisconsin State Reformatory in Green Bay, has been appointed superintendent of the Kettle Moraine Boys School near Plymouth, it was announced Wednesday by Sanger B. Powers, director of the division of corrections of the state Department of Public Welfare.

Prast succeeds Marvin R. McMahon who will retire at the end of this month as school superintendent.

A 1950 graduate of St. Norbert College, Prast received a master's degree in social work from the University of Wisconsin in 1959.

No Rain Seen For Areas Hit By Forest Fire

Heavy Precipitation Continues in Pacific Northwest, Eastward

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More rain splashed areas in the Pacific Northwest and in scattered sections of the South today but no rain was indicated in eastern areas hit by forest fires.

Rain fell along the Pacific Northwest Coast for the fifth consecutive day. Heavy amounts were reported in the lower Columbia River Valley during the night.

Rain continued in south central states from eastern Oklahoma and Arkansas to the West Gulf Coast. Heavy rain doused an eastern and southern part of Texas. At least seven persons have been killed in traffic accidents on rain-slicked streets. Some 8 inches of rain drenched Hallettsville in southern Texas and 5½ inches soaked College Station.

Temperatures Drop

Cool air spread into the Northeast and temperatures dropped to the 30s and 40s in many areas and freezing in northern sections. Readings were as much as 35 degrees lower than Thursday morning in some cities.

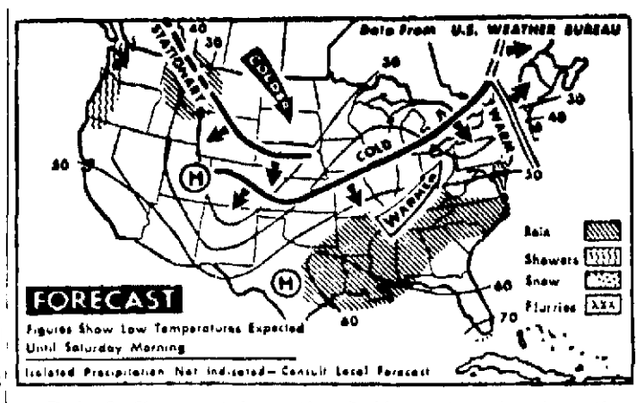
More than 200 forest fires were reported in New England Thursday. Strong winds swept the tinder-dry forest lands.

Donald C. Mathews, director of Connecticut State Parks and Forests, said forest fire danger was high in the state, with dry weather, high winds and low humidity indicated for the next five days. There have been several grass and brush fires but no major fires.

New Jersey Fires

A forest fire, fanned by winds of 25 m.p.h., cut a 5-mile path through Ocean County in central New Jersey Thursday, scorching 2,000 acres of pinelands, threatening hundreds of homes and a propane gas plant 7 hours before it was brought under control.

A warm stream of air spread northward through the Plains and temperatures were some 20 to 25 degrees higher than Thursday morning in some areas. Early morning temperatures across the nation ranged from 23 at Watertown, N.Y., to 75 at Miami, Fla.



Rain Is Forecast from the Gulf coast region into the Tennessee valley and the Carolinas tonight. Periods of rain or snow are expected in the northern Rockies while showers will occur along the northern Pacific coast. Colder air will cover the area from the northern Rockies to the upper Mississippi Valley. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

Bad. Little children fail all the time, as they begin to learn how to handle themselves and the things in their world. The important thing is not that a youngster fails, but that he get enough feeling of success so that he can take his failures without becoming discouraged. If you have ever watched a tiny tot learning to walk, you have seen how many tumbles he takes with good grace. Only as he picks himself up and tries again is he able to do it. This is a principle of all learning. A more detailed treatment of this matter can be yours in the booklet, "Your Child's Emotional Health." To get a copy, send 25 cents and your name and address (including ZIP Code) to this column, care of The Post-Crescent, Appleton, Wis., 5491.

Do brides want extravagant honeymoons?

Yes —— No ——

No, most of them don't. An investigation of honeymoons of recently married students on a university campus found that the majority of the wives felt, "Don't spend more than you can afford," "Keep some money for use when you get back home," and "The lavish spending of money on a honeymoon cannot impress anyone and it may give the couple a false idea of married life." A few girls feel that their honeymoon is the only chance they'll ever get to spend money freely. But most honeymoons are anything but extravagant.

PSC Chairman Will Seek Veto Of Water Bill

Claims Measure Would Allow Cities To Discriminate

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The chairman of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission says he will advise Gov. Warren P. Knowles to veto a bill which attempts to authorize cities to set limits for their municipal water service extensions across their corporate boundaries.

Arthur Padrutt of the agency claims the measure would raise the opportunity for cities to discriminate unfairly in such service extensions.

The assembly bill, sought by Appleton and other cities, was approved in the senate, but only after a spirited debate in which some suburban area representatives asserted the legislation was a "plot" to force annexation upon unwilling residents of unincorporated areas.

Gov. Knowles vetoed an earlier version of the legislation upon the advice of the commission, and undoubtedly will consult the agency again when the new measure reaches his desk.

Not Objectionable

Padrutt said the first section of the bill which would authorize cities to fix by ordinance the areas within which service in unincorporated territory will be provided is not objectionable. That is the "unwritten law" today, as the commission interprets it, he explained.

But he said a second section, which selects property to be served in such situations as public, educational, industrial or elementary may provide an avenue for discriminatory treatment of customers.

He pointed out that the bill sponsors described their purposes as to aid in the industrial and economic development of their areas by providing service to particular customers who located outside municipal boundaries for legitimate reasons. But a "commercial" establishment ought to qualify as readily as an "industrial" customer in such situations, the official said.

Boost Development Of Forestry School

Site at UW's Madison Campus Determined Best by Committee

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—A plan for a state college of forestry is not yet out of the woods, but it was given a strong push at a meeting here Thursday of the forestry advisory committee of the State Conservation Department.

Committee Chairman A. E. Swanke, Tigerton, Shawano County, pointed out that a study five years ago by the group recommended against such a school. "But conditions and times change," he said, "and we want to take another look at the problem."

Since then the 1965 legislature has shown interest in the idea of a school of forestry and a wood utilization curriculum in the state. The Swanke committee is expected to recommend the establishment of such a professional school, informed sources say.

The Madison campus of the University of Wisconsin got a boost as the site for the facility at the meeting here, although the discussion specifically did not include site consideration.

Suggest Sites

Previously suggested locations for the professional training school are Stevens Point State University and the Marinette freshman-sophomore center of the UW, although center system and UW officials have said that the latter site is not suitable.

The committee was told by Frank Kaufert, dean of the University of Minnesota School of Forestry, that a complete undergraduate and graduate offering in the field, accompanied by related research, might cost as much as $1 million annually Later he amended his statement to point out that the UW Madison campus already has a staff of forestry researchers and a graduate level training program.

Jacob Shapiro of Oshkosh State University supported the idea of a new school.

"We have all the makings of a fine forestry program if we can put the parts together, with the UW graduate program and the undergraduate conservation programs at Stevens Point and Oshkosh state universities, and the state university summer camp at Pigeon Lake. What we need now is a strong administrative staff to coordinate and control it," he said.

John Beale, chief state forester and assistant director of the State Conservation Department, said that a forestry school must be established in the state to anticipate future needs.

Major Goals

He said that major goals of such an educational program should be assuring the maximum production of the state's 15 million acres of forested land; to fully develop all tree species in the state by means of research oriented to Wisconsin's problems; to work for the development of markets and marketing methods for the state's forest products; and to aid in the development of efficient and economical forestry and harvesting methods.

A forestry school in Wisconsin with a full program is one of the key elements needed for such a development of the state's forest - related industries, he added.

Kaufert also stated that he felt that Wisconsin has the best resources to support a strong forestry school of any of the middle western states. He pointed to the already existing wood products industry, the dense student population, the strength of the State Conservation Department, and the existence of the U.S. Forest Products Laboratory in Madison, headquarters of federal forest research, as support for his arguments.

R. L. Youngs of the laboratory staff said that if the professional school is established in Madison, it would be an aid to the nation, the state and to the research facility itself. Already existing programs place UW graduate students in natural sciences allied to forestry in the laboratory for part time, UW approved thesis-research projects and such a program could be expanded to include students in a forestry school, he said.

More Students

The number of graduate level students in forestry science must be doubled and trebled in the next few years, Youngs said, to meet demands in growing private industry and public research institutions.

The main objections to the creation of a school are that on the level of undergraduate training there is no shortage of foresters; that neighboring states offer five different forestry schools for Wisconsin residents to attend; and that recently - enacted legislation allows for partial payment by the state of tuition for a student attending college out of state for courses not offered in Wisconsin, it was pointed out.

Parents' World

Dr. Jones Rises to Defend Today's Pop Song Singers

BY DR. EVE JONES:

Dear Dr. Jones: Have you ever had the opportunity to examine one of these nuts that call themselves pop singers. They sound like cats and look like girls. I just wonder what makes someone like that behave that way. How can we as parents protect our children from such evil influences? Mrs. F. G.

By strange coincidence, I had the opportunity to watch one of today's "big" singers grow up. Nothing I observed in over 12 years suggested that he's evil or much different from other people his age. Popular artists want to please the audience they aim at, so they're seldom extremely different except in some unimportant ways that call attention to them — the way they dress or the way they wear their hair, for example.

Real and important dangers your children need protection from are the ones resulting from ignorance, bigotry, and neurosis; you're spinning your wheels to get worried about a few guys twanging buitars.

Dear Dr. Jones: How can I convince my son that the grades he makes now in his first year of college will be important when the time comes for him to apply to law school? He says that no one expects students to do well the first year, particularly in courses that are required but that aren't part of their interests (like math and science courses for him) and that the important thing is to learn how to get along with new people and enjoy himself. The net result is that he has gone from being a top student in high school to making all C's on his mid-term exams.

I realize that he's too old for me to influence much any longer, but what can I do? My heart aches at the thought that he may be hurting his chances for the career he wants by not keeping up his grades now. Can it be possible that this really means he isn't sure he wants to go to law school? Mrs. T. B.

As tough as it is for you to keep out of this, confine your efforts to reassuring him that you'll let him handle this for himself, so long as his dean doesn't believe he's wasting his chance to get some good education out of his college years. Many schools disregard first year grades if the rest are good and if the student presents other evidence of outstanding ability to handle the professional training. To settle your doubts, you can ask the dean of the law school your son hopes to attend what the grade averages of students accepted this year are.

Your son's reaction probably indicates that he isn't sure of himself socially, so he's concentrating on that aspect of living and doesn't have enough steam left over to put into keeping up his grades. If he shows no signs of being more sure of himself after a few months have passed, urge him to talk matters over with his dean and to examine his study habits to determine if some correction in them is needed.

See The Home You Can Own With Less Than $100 Cash

YEARS AGO you needed thousands of dollars to buy a home. Not so today. E&R can build you a new Crestline home with as little as $79.99 cash, $79.00 monthly principal and interest if you're willing to do a little painting and floor tiling. $450.00 cash if you want us to do it. And there's no closing costs! Why keep paying rent?

1. INSPECT THE MODEL HOME. There's nothing like being forearmed with a little basic information about the Crestwood — floor plan, room sizes, designs available, things like that. It can help you out of the puzzled stage and give you a solid starting point from which to get into your own home.

2. CALL YOUR E&R REPRESENTATIVE REALTOR for any information you don't clearly understand. He'll be happy to answer any questions you may have with no obligation on your part, of course.

3. VISIT THE MODEL HOMES. Three Crestwood models are now open for your inspection. One at 1045 Gillingham Road, Neenah, just west of Hiway 41. Another at 1629 W. Ninth Avenue, Oshkosh and still another in Arcade Acres, Ripon. See for yourself how much home for the money E&R gives you.

4. HAVE YOUR WIFE CAREFULLY INSPECT THE KITCHEN AND BATH. She'll especially like the working arrangement in the kitchen with corner sink and new birch cabinets, room for festive dining and extra convenience. You'll both appreciate the advantages of the double entry bath with direct access from both the back door and hall.

5. ASK THE MAN FROM E&R FOR NAMES OF HOME-OWNERS. Over 700 families in this area have built E&R homes. You'll probably recognize a neighbor or fellow worker who owns an E&R home.

6. THOROUGHLY INVESTIGATE THE DETAILS of buying a new Crestwood home. Basic price of $11,600 plus lot includes complete 3 bedroom Crestwood ranch plan, full poured concrete basement, aluminum siding, custom construction, kiln dried lumber, fibreglas insulation, furniture-finish cabinets, natural gas heating and hot water, texture finish walls and ceiling with 2 year warranty, full one year service policy, service walks and driveway, grade entire lot, 100 Amps electrical service with 220 range outlet, and no closing costs.

With a choice of a lot priced at $3,000, buyers may take painting and floor tile work credits totaling $479. Cash required would then be less than $100, monthly principal and interest $79. So why are you paying rent when you can so easily enjoy the advantages of home ownership?

Negligence Found In Fatal Accident

New London Youth to be Charged After Coroner's Jury Finding

A six-man coroner's jury deliberated 45 minutes Thursday afternoon before returning a finding of negligent homicide against Gregory Popke, 19, 604 Wallace St., New London, driver of a car involved in an accident that claimed the lives of three members of a Park Falls family Oct. 1.

Outagamie County Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer and Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said today they will recommend a warrant be issued by the court formerly charging Popke with negligent homicide.

Killed in the accident about 7:20 p.m. Oct. 1 on U.S. 45, just west of Greenville Corners, were Charles R. Bradle, 19, driver of one of the cars, his sister, Ruth, 10, and a brother, Michael, 2. The Bradles were enroute to Appleton.

Popke Okay

Injured were Mrs. Clarence Bradle, 40, mother of the victims, Miss Sandra Wehrman, 16, Park Falls, and Barbara Bradle, sister of the victims. Popke, who was alone in his car, was not seriously injured.

Outagamie County Traffic Officer Edward Metko, one of the investigators at the fatal crash, testified as to road and weather conditions, measurements taken and positions of the Bradle and Popke cars after they crashed nearly headon.

Metko said the accident occurred near a curve and the crest of a hill.

Richard L. Mauel, of the State Traffic Patrol, who was the first officer at the accident scene, indicated that tire marks showed Popke attempted to pass another vehicle in a no passing zone just before the accident.

Wilfred Lindberg, 31, Greendale, and his brother-in-law, Alan R. Waldron, 33, Hales Corners, also were called to testify. Waldron was driver and Lindberg a passenger in a car passed by Popke just prior to the crash, they testified.

The men said the Popke car, after passing their vehicle, attempted to pass a second car in front of them, but suddenly swerved back into the right lane, then crossed back into the left lane, colliding with the oncoming Bradle car.

A fifth witness, Gerald L. Peebles, 23, Milwaukee, driver of the second car Popke allegedly attempted to pass, said he saw the Popke car approaching in the left lane, through his rear view mirror, then saw the Bradle car approaching from the north. He said he could see the cars collide when he looked in the rear view mirror.

Last to testify was Popke who said he was going home from work as a shoe salesman in Appleton when the accident occurred.

Saw Approaching Headlight

Popke, through questioning by Kemps and Schaefer, indicated there were many things he could not clearly recall about the time just prior to the crash. He said he attempted to turn out of the way when he saw approaching headlights. The car seemed to pull to the left, he said.

Kemps read letters of testimony from Miss Wehrman, who now is in a Park Falls Hospital, and from Mrs. Bradle, who still is in Appleton Memorial Hospital.

Miss Wehrman, in the letter, said she could recall nothing about the accident, only that the car in which she was riding "was hit headon."

Holding Son

Mrs. Bradle, questioned earlier in her hospital room, testified as to the positions of each person in the Bradle car, saying she was holding her son, Michael, in the front seat at the time of the accident.

The two hours of testimony ended at 4 p.m. Jurors were John McCarthy, 319 E. Washington St., Lawrence Mackin, 624 W. 4th St., Howard Van Ryzin, 1719 S. Bouten St., Fred Kurth, 1701 N. Outagamie St., Leonard Geiger, 27 Garden Court, and Joseph E. Appleton, 511 N. Gertrude St., Kaukauna.

Appleton Memorial Hospital held an open house for its employes Wednesday, with tours scheduled in many hospital facilities. From left, persons looking at new radiology equipment in the laboratory are John Greenall, laboratory employe, John Stoffel, Mrs. Stoffel, operating room supervisor, and Mrs. Jerome Stoflet, laboratory employe. Youth, 16, Wounded In Hand While He Cleans Shotgun Barrel

A 16-year-old Appleton youth accidentally shot himself in the left hand Thursday while he was attempting to pull debris from the barrel of his loaded shotgun.

Jerome Wilz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wilz, 1112 W. Glendale Ave., was treated at a doctors office for injuries to his index finger and thumb of his left hand, according to Conservation Warden Dale P. Morey who investigated the accident.

Morey said the accident occurred about 11:15 a.m. in the Town of Grand Chute, near N. Capitol Drive. The boy's gun barrel became plugged with weeds and as he attempted to pull out the debris, the gun butt struck the ground discharging the shell.

Negotiated Viet Nam Peace Stressed in Lawrence Talks

Professors Fear U. S. Cannot Win, Should Seek Settlement

A calm appraisal of the United States' role in Viet Nam, and a call for "realistic goals" which would result in a negotiated settlement characterized two key speeches Thursday at Lawrence University's dialogue on the Southeast Asian crisis.

Prof. Wesley Fishel, Michigan State University political scientist, in a morning convocation address summarized the growth of communist activity in Viet Nam since World War II, and spoke out for "a moderate policy which ultimately can bring stability, neutralization and someday prosperity to Southeast Asia."

Prof. David Wurfel, Fishel's counterpart at Missouri University, told an afternoon audience that American strategy in Viet Nam "is self-defeating," and that we would do better to concentrate on maintaining popular, strong nationalistic regimes elsewhere in Southeast Asia "where we have a chance of winning."

'Linked With Progress'

Fishel spoke to an audience of about 1,000 in Memorial Chapel. He described our approach to international politics as "still Euro-centered." As a result, he said, we are oppressed by the fear that "in defending human liberty, we may be involved on the side of tyrants."

Yet in the current crisis we have come to realize "that national welfare and interest is inescapably linked with the cause of human progress," with the emergence of nations and regions which until recently had no place in our scheme of power and policy, he said.

We must remember, he said, that we are not omnipotent, but also that we can and must contribute to the development of man's potential. Where we have traditionally been concerned and overly moralistic in the choice of our allies, we must now realize that "the United States cannot long survive as a great power in a world of poverty, frustration, bitterness and envy.

"If we can avoid giving in to adventurism on the one hand, or extremism on the other — if we will follow a moderate policy — we will have accomplished a service for the peace of the world," Fishel added.

'Historical Accident'

In reviewing the history of the Viet Nam problem, Fishel saw our involvement there as "a consequence of historical accident."

He said that the emergence of "the third world" of new nations following World War II, the U.S. decision to leave Asia, and the resulting power void there all contributed to the rise of the National Liberation Front, or Viet Cong.

Today, as it has always been, the Viet Cong is an instrument of the communist party in North Viet Nam, he said. Its leaders are "totally unknown to the people of South Viet Nam —

Airport Consolidation Hit

Wisconsin Cities Claim CAB Order to End Direct Air Service 'Arbitrary'

CHICAGO (AP) — Attorneys for two Wisconsin cities told the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals Thursday that the Civil Aeronatics Board order taking direct air service away from a number of communities by airport consolidation was "arbitrary and capricious."

A three-judge panel hearing the case took the appeal under advisement.

Howard S. Boros, representing Clintonville, declared that the CAB plant would not improve air service to any of the communities, and that the consolidation plan was determined by an unbalanced and outmoded system.

Gerald O'Grady, representing Appleton, asserted that the CAB has "no set standards nor policies," and declared that the decision in the Wisconsin cases was inconsistent with decisions made concerning similar cities and similar circumstances elsewhere.

Appleton, Clintonville and Ashland, supported by the state of Wisconsin, are appealing a CAB order which ordered consolidation of air service for Appleton and Oshkosh at Oshkosh, for Clintonville and Green Bay at Green Bay, and for Ashland and Ironwood, Mich., at Ironwood. Ten other communities were involved in the order, which was to have taken effect last January but has been stayed during the court action.

In a similar case earlier this year involving the New England communities of Harford, Conn., and Springfield, Mass., the First District U.S. Court of Appeals found a CAB decision "capricious" and ordered the agency to conduct new hearings on the dispute over Northeast Airlines service.

Program Planned For Education Week

Open Houses Planned at Appleton

Open houses and educator meetings will highlight American Education Week from Sunday to Nov. 13 in Appleton, according to Vaughn Gehrt of the Appleton Education Association.

"Invest in Learning" is the theme of this year's activities. The main theme is supported by special topics receiving emphasis on each day of the week.

They include: to enhance moral and spiritual values; cultivate the intellect; enhance personal fulfillment; improve earning power; develop good citizenship; enrich family and community life and deepen international understanding.

Appleton High

Parents of Appleton High School students will attend an open house from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Monday. A short assembly is scheduled in the auditorium where parents will be introduced to Orlyn Zieman, acting principal, and other personnel.

Following the introductions, parents will tour their childrens' classes and spend 15 minutes with each teacher.

Roosevelt, which had open house Oct. 19, will observe the week with a series of skits, slogans, bulletin boards and classroom activities. Roosevelt has invited interested parents and citizens to visit the classrooms which will be open to the public from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

Other junior high schools will have open house from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Tuesday.

A few of the elementary schools will also have open house.

Other Open House

Franklin School will have open house from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Thursday. Edison and Huntley schools will have an open house each day of the week and parents are welcome at any time. The traditional "Grandparents Day" is set for Wednesday at Edison School.

Educators from various sections of the state will be in Appleton Tuesday to study and observe the multi-age grouping at Huntley School.

Attending will be representatives from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Grafton, Sheboygan, Glendale and West Bend.

Two members of the State Department of Public Instruction, Bureau for Handicapped Children, will spend Tuesday at Morgan School.

Purpose Of Week

American Education Week is designed to focus public attention on the needs and achievements of the nation's schools and to remind each citizen that good schools are, to a very large degree, his personal responsibility.

It is sponsored by the American Legion, the National Education Association, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the U.S. Office of Education.

Assisting Gehrt on the planning committee are Mrs. Alan Stoner, Miss Betty Werner, Mrs. Doris Spetch and Lawrence Birch.

Seek Support Of U. S. Policy

Viet Nam Backing Urged by VFW in 'Operation Boost'

All citizens who want to show support of their government's military efforts in South Viet Nam have been asked to take part in "Operation Boost" on Veteran's Day, by Le Roy H. Ruwoldt, Commander of Appleton Post 2778, the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"Operation Boost" is a nationwide project sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars as a counter-measure to demonstrations against America's participation in the Vietnamese war. Citizens are being asked to take part in patriotic demonstrations such as Veterans Day parades and public meetings. The VFW has also suggested that each individual stop whatever he is doing at 11 a.m. and offer a silent prayer for American soldiers now fighting in Viet Nam.

Andy Borg, Superior, national VFW commander who has just completed a tour of the Southeast Asia battle ground said it is vitally important for Americans everywhere to make it clear that demonstrators against the nation's Viet Nam policy represent only a small minority of our population.

"A mass show of support such as 'Operation Boost' is necessary for two reasons," he said. "First, the Communist enemy has come to believe that they can win their victory over the freedom-loving people of Viet Nam because the American people no longer support their own government. Second, while our soldiers are still performing their military duties magnificently, they are becoming disgusted and embittered at the failure of some American citizens to support them in their fight for freedom."

Speaker Pleads for Halt to Aggression

U. S. Official, Kastenmeier Debate Merits of Conflict in Viet Nam

Elimination of the military threat in the countryside and providing services to the South Vietnamese were described as the keys to victory in South Viet Nam by a U. S. State Department official Thursday night.

Dolf Dorge, who served as public information officer in Saigon from 1960-62, told an audience of 200 persons at Lawrence University that "Vietnamese service to the Vietnamese, particularly those in the villages, would be victory."

Dorge and Rep. Robert Kastenmeier (D-Wis.) participated in a debate which concluded a two-day "Viet Nam Dialogue" at the university.

U. S. policy is "very clearly to stop the aggression which has occurred in South Viet Nam," Dorge said. He added that the Saigon government "must gain access to the countryside" in order to implement needed governmental services.

"Veiled Glove"

Dorge said aggression has taken various forms, such as directives from Hanoi to the Viet Cong, infiltration of 44,000 troops as of 1965, terrorism in South Vietnamese villages directed from Hanoi and creation of a National Liberation Front (NLF).

He claimed Hanoi established the NLF because it "was necessary to create a veiled glove to slip over a mailed fist."

"If the war were strictly a Vietnamese war, it would be more difficult to distinguish the local and regional factors involved," Dorge asserted. "One of the mistakes we made was to wait so long to appreciate the extent of the Viet Cong operation."

Dorge said the bombings in North Viet Nam are "aimed at destroying the means used to deliver the necessary supplies to the Viet Cong in the South." He added that the bombings should be restricted to areas of military importance and should not be carried out in heavily populated centers. Dorge was critical of those individuals who urge the bombing of Hanoi.

According to Dorge, the initiation of bombings in February "brought hope to the South Vietnamese." He said that as of December 1964, "the South Vietnamese people thought the war was hopeless because of the progress of the aggressors."

"Least Able to Defend"

Dorge said the "tragedy of the type of aggression" employed by the Viet Cong and Hanoi is that "it affects those least able to defend themselves," namely, the villagers. He added

Child's Three Worlds

Center Social Worker Speaks at Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA—"The three worlds of a child are the child himself, his home and the school, with the focus on the family," said Miss Elizabeth Vredenburgh, staff psychiatric social worker of the Outagamie County Child Guidance Center, at the Holy Cross Home-School meeting Tuesday.

The school and home each has a part to play in the development of a child. The parents are fixed and familiar roots to the child in an ever changing world, she said.

"What children become tomorrow depends on what we give to or withhold from the child today," said Miss Vredenburgh. She felt how well parents communicate with their children is important to the child's development.

Miss Vredenburgh said, we should consider the child as a whole child and not judge him from a single incident. We must love the child enough to discipline him when necessary, she continued. She felt the father was important in the life of a child and he should give guidance as well as the mother. "Fathers as well as mothers should attend PTA and Home-School meetings," she said, "and after the first grade fathers should be at parent-teacher conferences when they have sons in school."

Two Appleton Boys Held for Stealing Car

Two 15-year-old Appleton youths were taken into juvenile custody about 2 a.m. today following a chase on foot during which police fired several warning shots. The youths are being held for stealing a car.

Police said they observed a car driven by two youths near Meade and Longview Streets shortly before 2 a.m. When officers attempted to stop the car, it speeded up. The youths jumped out of the car and began running near Greenfield and Drew Streets.

An officer who chased the youths on foot fired several warning shots before one of the boys halted. The boy was caught near Fox Valley Lutheran High School.

The other youth was picked up later at his home. The boys said they took the car, a green 1960 Falcon, from the Orville Kositzke home, 2701 N. Richmond St.

Police Clear 15 Cases By Arrest of 7 Youths

Fifteen burglaries and attempted burglaries in Appleton were cleared up by police who have taken seven youths into custody.

The burglaries to which the 14- and 15-year-old youths admitted occurred from Oct. 23 to Thursday, according to police who questioned the youths until early this morning. Three of the youths were placed in custody immediately and the others were to be picked up later this morning.

Some of the loot taken in the burglaries was recovered by police in a ravine at BelAir Park. Police had to use shovels to dig for some of the items, including several cases of beer. Other items taken from the Appleton business places had been recovered earlier.

Items being checked out this morning at the police station included two motorcycle helmets, three guitars which police said were of considerable value, an amplifier, a guitar case, a bottle of wine and 30 quarts of beer.

Stole Three Motorcycles

One of the thefts admitted by the youths was that of three motorcycles, two helmets and two jackets plus $5 in change from Harley Davidson Sales, 2125 N. Richmond St. Oct. 24. The motorcycles were recovered a short time after they were reported missing.

Several burglaries and attempted burglaries Wednesday night also were admitted by the youths. Included were burglaries at Riverside Green House, 1236 E. Pacific St., Standard Building Center, 1100 N. Lawe St., Culligan Water Conditioning Service, 1119 E. Wisconsin Ave., and LeRoy's Television Sales, Pitney Bowe office and manpower, all in the same building at 406 W. Wisconsin Ave.

About $48 was taken from the television firm, while minor

Police Question More Than 50 on Hortonville Fire

Outagamie County authorities said today more than 50 persons, many of them youths, have been questioned in connection with a fire late Sunday that destroyed the "Eagle's Nest," a Hortonville land mark.

Lt. Jack Zuelzke, a sheriff's investigator, said today he and State Fire Marshal Earl Schwabe of Green Bay have been working on the matter nearly all week in an attempt to learn if arson were involved.

The three-story building, built in 1848 by a Wolf River boat captain, Enos Drummond, was off Ledge Hill Road, south of Hotonville. The fire was discovered shortly before 9:30 a.m. Sunday and was out of control by the time Hortonville firemen arrived.

The building was being remodeled by the owner, Fred Bernegger, route 1, New London. Fire started in the third floor of the house at the west corner and spread rapidly, according to Ray Richards, acting Hortonville fire chief.

Tavern League Asks Barmaids In Appleton

Controversy About Women Bartenders 25 Years Brewing

The Outagamie County Tavern League wants the barrier against women bartenders lifted in Appleton.

Its position, in the form of a two-page letter, was passed along to the council's welfare-ordinance committee this week.

Appleton for years has had a rule prohibiting the issuance of a bartender's license to a woman.

When the municipal ordinances were recodified last year, it was further stipulated that no establishment with a class B retail liquor license could hire any person under 21 years of age.

For more than a quarter of a century the controversy over repealing the no-women-bartenders policy has erupted within the council. Just last year a move to repeal the policy was voted down.

Discrimination?

However, a majority of the welfare-ordinance committee members feel the law should be erased. It's their contention the City of Appleton is discriminating against the fairer sex by not giving them licenses to tend bar.

Al Breitrick, president of the County Tavern League, said his organization took its official stand after the board of directors met with a membership committee and discussed the woman bartender ban.

The League, according to Breitrick, wants the law repealed with some restrictions.

It has suggested eliminating the mention of "female" in the ordinance.

Breitrick said the League feels any female applying for an operator's (bartender) license should be under the same rules as a male operator.

Employer Responsibility

In addition, the League says the name of the establishment and operator should accompany the woman's application, with the employer signing the application and assuming equal responsibility for any violations of the statutes while she is working in the establishment.

A new section to the ordinance also was suggested by the League to allow the issuance of a temporary operator's permit in case of an emergency, thus by-passing normal application procedures.

The League also feels any dispenser of intoxicating beverages or fermented malt beverages should be required to have an operator's permit.

Appleton is one of the few remaining communities in the Fox Cities banning the issuance of a bartender's license to a woman.

New London had the same rule on the books for years but voted it out last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kimball and their four children, Kay, Guy, David and Kalvin, all in the water, took advantage of the YMCA pool during the open 2-4 p.m. family-swim session Sunday while Dan Gauslin, water safety instructor, watched from the side. The facilities will be expanded to include gym, exercise rooms, handball court and other recreational areas. Special family membership rates are available for all activities. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Seek Referendum On 4-Year Terms

Alderman Wants Appleton Vote To Decide on Longer Tenure

Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) wants a referendum to decide whether terms of Appleton's elected officials should be changed from two to four years in the future.

He submitted a resolution to that effect earlier in the week and it has been referred to the board of public works.

Previously, Ald. Robert Ebben (9th) introduced a resolution calling for four-year terms but made no mention of a referendum. He withdrew it in favor of Thompson's proposal.

Changing the terms of city officials has already become a controversial subject among Appleton aldermen who appear at this point to be split.

File Report

When the report of a special four-member committee was presented to the council Wednesday night there was some discussion what to do with it. Official action was eventually taken to have it received and filed.

In a one paragraph report, the study committee said, "...The voters expressed their desire on Sept. 14 to keep three full-time city officials on an elective basis and this committee is of the opinion that adoption of the resolution for a four-year term for all full-time city officials may at this time not be in the best interests of the majority of people concerned and that a referendum on this issue may be in order."

Thompson wants two questions to be answered via a referendum, namely:

Two Questions

"Shall full-time city officials be elected for a four-year term?"

"Shall aldermen be elected for a four-year term?"

Ald. Harold Hannemann (10th) feels the terms of elected officials should remain on a two-year term basis and is opposed to holding a referendum.

"I think the people expressed themselves at the last referendum election when they said they wanted to elect all their city officials and not have any of them appointed," Hannemann declared.

Primary in March

But Thompson feels because Appleton will be having primary elections in the future, there is more of a need for a four-year term. He explained that during a two-year term an official will incur expenses for two elections, the primary and general.

Ald. Clifford Radder (16th) agreed with Hannemann.

Radder was also critical of Thompson's position, declaring, "I can't see how you can campaign for one thing (keeping administrative offices appointive) and then turn around and ask for another."

And Thompson retorted that he couldn't see why some aldermen who wanted the administrative position to be appointed now objected to lengthening terms.

The primary election will be held in March of 1966.

Vogel Quits for 'Blue Cross'

Winnebago Hospital Head to Direct State Medicare Plan

OSHKOSH — Supt. William O. Vogel of Winnebago County Institutions has resigned effective Dec. 1 to take a position with Associated Hospital Services, Inc., popularily known as "Blue Cross."

Trustees of the county institutions met Thursday night to accept the resignation and to name Donald Zboray as the new superintendent of the county hospital and Pleasant Acres home.

Zboray has been assistant superintendent, coming Dec. 7, 1964, from Woodville State Hospital, Woodville, Pa., where he had been business administrator.

Direct Medicare

Vogel will organize and direct the Blue Cross program for medicare in Wisconsin, working with general hospitals and nursing homes. He was offered the position last August and two weeks ago decided to take the post and submitted his resignation to the trustees.

J. F. Shea, chairman of the trustees, said today the compensation in the new office was more than what Winnebago County was paying its superintendent and more than the trustees could offer.

Udall Cancels Planned Tour Of Slough

OSHKOSH — The itinerary for the tour Tuesday of Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall to the Sixth District has been changed to delete his originally scheduled visit to the Twin Cities, Rep. John Race (D-Fond du Lac) announced today.

A month ago, Udall's office in Washington D.C. said the polluted Neenah slough would be included in the tour. As late as Tuesday a press report was made which included a luncheon in Neenah.

Race, a member of the House Interior Committee, which supervises the Interior Department, will host Udall for the day-long tour of conservation projects and political speeches.

The tour is considered to be a mixture of politics and conservation, since Race has been singled out by the GOP as one of the prime targets in the 1966 congressional elections.

Race's office said that members of the secretary's group would be made available to Neenah officials for discussion of the slough problem.

New Menasha Concept Drawn for Downtown

BY JOHN TORINUS JR.
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — A broad concept for a "New Menasha" was given birth Thursday night when a seven-man committee of business and community leaders approached the common council to ask for its cooperation in shaping the city's future.

The committee, which has dubbed itself the "Wednesday Noon Group," has been meeting every other Wednesday noon for the last four months at the Menasha Hotel to discuss ways of adding "more impetus" to Menasha's growth.

It was formed last June under the chairmanship of Mowry Smith Jr., president of the Menasha Corp. Since then the group has been working as an "action committee" behind the scenes to improve the downtown core. It has been instrumental in many of the remodelings of downtown stores in recent months.

Originally the committee consisted of four men, Smith; George Banta Jr., chairman of the board of George Banta Co., Inc.; Kenyon (Ken) C. Kimball, president of the First National Bank of Menasha, and Ralph McClone, president of the McClone Agency, Inc., an insurance firm, and owner of Fox Valley Builders Exchange.

During the summer three more men were added to the luncheon group, Mayor John Klein, Ralph Risley, retired graphic arts manager for the Marathon Division of the American Can Co. and now chairman of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission, and John Schmerein, president of Gilbert Paper Co.

The group's concept though only formative at this stage, embraces development of a comprehensive plan for the city's growth and a sweeping program for accelerating downtown growth.

The plan is designed eventually to encompass all change in the city, including the proposed new municipal buildings, refurbishing all of Main Street, development of the Racine Street Park area as a commercial area and possibly a department store and supporting retail shops.

Mediator Calls For Meeting in Locks Strike

COMBINED LOCKS—Phillip Simon, Green Bay, representative of the Federal Mediation Service, has called for a meeting next week between striking locals of the Combined Locks Paper Co. and company officials.

Orderly picketing at the plant entered its fifth day today.

Simon, who sat in on two previous meetings, has scheduled the bargaining session for the village hall. The contract between the locals and the company expired Aug. 1.

Union officials decline to comment today.

County Board Won't Allow Port Referendum

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County Board members Thursday afternoon rejected an airport expansion referendum by a 20 to 26 vote with six supervisors absent.

The resolution asking for a referendum on expansion of the airport required 39 votes to carry but received only 20 affirmative votes.

A motion to table the referendum request was declared lost on a 23 to 23 vote.

Supv. Roland Kampo, Town of Menasha, submitted the request for a referendum on the airport expansion and declared it a "sad day" when supervisors are afraid to have a referendum by the people. Supv. Kampo said the referendum would be an advisory vote only and would be only a matter of delaying the project five months until after the April election. He said there as no one from North Central Airlines at Tuesday's airport discussions to tell the board about the proposed jet plane flights.

He said Roger Baird, Kimberly-Clark Corp. secretary, told the board Kimberly-Clark Corp. was satisfied with the eight flights a day and nine flights in summer received from North Central.

11,110 Unemployment Claims Filed in State

MADISON (AP)— The Industrial Commission reported today that 11,110 claims for unemployment compensation were filed in Wisconsin last week, compared with 10,636 a week earlier.

Appleton Construction Gets $1.1 Million October Boost

Appleton's construction industry—hard hit by strikes this year—received a boost in October with the start of $1,165,448 in new projects.

Charles Magnette, the city's director of inspections, said today that new building has totaled $6,281,125 since Jan. 1.

The figure is down more than $8 million compared to the first 10-month period in 1964.

Last year's $14,374,459 in new construction was an all-time high for Appleton and topped records of other Fox Valley cities.

In October of last year the new building amounted to $1,632,146—making last month's total about a half a million shy.

Residential construction has held up well in Appleton this year, however. Last month permits were issued for 34 homes with a value of $609,500.

A new $280,000 church construction project also got underway as did building of three apartments costing an estimated $70,000.

There were no other major construction projects locally.

Board Tables Anti-Poverty Committee

OSHKOSH — A resolution to organize a Winnebago County Community Action Committee which would handle the Anti-Poverty Program in the county was tabled by the Winnebago County Board Thursday afternoon.

The program was explained to the County Board last Monday by Carl Olien, State Director of the Economic Opportunity Program, but board members wanted more information.

Winnebago County had been allotted $118,000 as its share for the balance of the fiscal year ending June 30. The county may be asked to provide $1,500 to get the program started and for the hiring of a staff. The sponsoring agency provides 10 per cent of the cost and the Federal Government 90 per cent.

Supv. Gordon M. Hanson, Town of Winchester, did not believe the county should adopt the program, stating it might be good for some areas but he did not think it was needed in Winnebago County.

Supv. Arthur Struensee, Oshkosh, said voting on the resolution was "voting in the dark. Can we postpone this for more information?"

Objection to the wording "impoverished people" in the resolution was voiced by Supv. E. G. Steinhilber,, Oshkosh, who called the program "part of the boondoggle we have been reading about."

A request to delay the resolution for more study was submitted by Supv. Dan Luebke, Neenah.

Little Chute Sets Work on Installations

LITTLE CHUTE — The village board Tuesday contracted with Bower Brothers Construction Co. for installation of water mains at $1.25 per foot and sanitary sewers at about $4 per foot.

The firm will install 500 feet of mains on Sanitorium Road and about 350 feet of sewers and mains on Charles Street. Cost of work on Sanitorium Road will be shared by the federal government and Riverview Sanitorium. A charge of $1.25 per cubic yard will be assessed for any sand backfill needed.

Approval was given to transfer of $10,000 from the water department budget to the general fund, representing partial payment of utility tax. Trustees also approved installation of a 12-inch culvert on Lincoln Avenue near the Frank DeBruin property, authorized payment of $441 to H. Verbruggen and Sons for extra work on the Hietpas addition lift station and authorized the municipal justice to attend a one-day institute Nov. 11 at Wausau.

A combination class B fermented malt beer and liquor license was granted Roman Salm Jr. for use in the Lamers' Building.

Neenah Man Fined $25 In Outagamie Court On Speeding Charge

Lester J Gibson, 39, route 1, Neenah, was fined $25 and costs Thursday afternoon after the court found him guilty of speeding 56 miles an hour in a truck for which the speed limit was 45.

Gibson, who earlier had pleaded innocent of the charge filed by a state traffic patrol officer, was arrested Aug. 14, on U. S. 41 in the Town of Grand Chute.

His trial was before Judge Gustave J Keller in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Kitchen Blaze Caused By Short in Stove

Appleton firemen were called to the L. A. Medd home, 1225 W. Frances St., at 11:36 a.m. today when an electric stove shorted and set fire to nearby cupboards.

Firemen said the fire was out when they arrived. Damage was minor, they said.

Gilbert Paper Names New Traffic Manager

MENASHA — Morris C. Wiberg, 318 Elm St., has been named traffic manager at the Gilbert Paper Co., replacing Franklin R. Otis, 308 11th St., Neenah, who retired after 37 years with the company.

Wiberg has worked for Gilbert Paper Co. for the past 20 years.

Rural Menasha Man Injured in Accident

SHERWOOD — Harry Swederski, 60, route 1, Menasha, suffered minor cuts and bruises when the truck he was driving collided with a train at 9:12 p.m. Thursday west of St. John.

Swederski was treated and released at Calumet Memorial Hospital, Chilton.

Veterans Day Dinner Planned By Neenah Unit

NEENAH — Neenah Barracks 2318 World War I Veterans will hold a Veterans Day dinner at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Neenah Eagles Club.

Charles Ayer, Fond du Lac, past department commander, will be the main speaker and Arthur Mossong, also past department commander from Fond du Lac, will be master of ceremonies.

Other invited guests are Neenah Mayor Carl Loehning; Edgar G. Burkhardt, department adjutant, and Arthur Adams, department chief of staff, both of Sheboygan; and Roy Kramer, sixth district commander and Walter O. Ziegenhagen, sixth district adjutant quarter master, both of Oshkosh.

About 100 persons are expected to attend. A dance will be held after the dinner.

The Neenah Barracks will hold its November meeting at 2 p.m. Monday at the Recreation Building. Officers will be elected.

Ex-Resident of Appleton Dies

H. L. Davis Jr., 54, Suffers Heart Attack; Worked for Paper

Horace L. Davis Jr., 54, St. Louis, Mo., former Appleton resident and son of the late H. L. Davis Sr., secretary and general manager of The Post-Crescent, died unexpectedly Thursday night following a heart attack at Corydon, Iowa.

Born June 11, 1911 at Alliance, Ohio, Davis graduated from Appleton High School and attended Lawrence University. He was employed in the display advertising department of The Post-Crescent from 1938 to 1945 and was working in sales for Permacold, Inc., of Chicago at the time of his death.

Survivors are the widow; a son, Robert, Denver, Colo.; three daughters, Mrs. Richard Ciske, Appleton; Mrs. Joseph Geenen, Elm Grove, and Mrs. William Verbeten, Milwaukee; his mother, Mrs. H. L. Davis Sr., and a brother, Kenneth E., both of Appleton, and a brother, Richard, Wisconsin Rapids.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Wichmann Funeral Home.

Supervisor Advises Hiring Negotiator

OSHKOSH — Hiring of a professional negotiator or a personnel director for the county was suggested at Thursday afternoon's session of the Winnebago County Board.

Supv. Ray Toner, Oshkosh, declared a "terrific problem" is placed on the personnel committee in bargaining with employes and that the county should have a professional negotiator to handle these matters.

He said there is some animosity and recrimination that could result with the bargaining being done by board members.

Supv. Herbert Ilk, Oshkosh, thought the county should hire a personnel director.

Supv. Robert Skalmoski, Neenah, finance committee chairman, urged the judiciary committee next spring in preparing the committee duty rules should set up a new committee which would coordinate the activities of labor relations with the various groups of employes of the county.

A sub-committee from the personnel committee has been negotiating with the state, county and municipal employes union representing the county institutions employes for several months and has not reached an agreement.

items or nothing was obtained from the other places Wednesday night, police said.

Two Attempts

Also cleared through apprehension of the youths, police said, were attempted break-ins at Wirtz Beer and Liquor Depot, 508 W. Wisconsin Av., and Morning Glory Dairy, 303 E. Calumet St. Both burglary attempts occurred Wednesday night.

Other burglaries solved included those at G and L Beer Distributors, where 30 quarts of beer were taken Oct. 29; Midway Ignition and Auto Supply Co., 415 W. Wisconsin Ave., where several ignition and auto electrical items were taken last week, and at Red Circle Film Processing, Inc., 121 E. Wisconsin Ave., where $35 was taken from a cash register earlier this week.

The youths also admitted breaking into the science room at Roosevelt Junior High School Wednesday night and taking a set of golf clubs from the garage at a home. The owner of the golf clubs has not been identified, police said.

The musical instruments were taken from Concerto Music Studios, 1105 E. Wisconsin Ave., which was entered twice in the last month.

Professors Stress Need for Negotiated Viet Nam Peace

a most remarkable fact," he added.

They have failed to attract the leaders of non-communist groups in the south, and even avoid advertising themselves openly in the south as communists. Rather than promote outright communist political activity there, he said, they capitalize on local grievances.

He suggested that the apparent support of the south is the result of intimidation by the communists' "highly disciplined, well-organized political machine and their military component which operates efficiently and ruthlessly."

Deluded By Confidence

Wurfel, who found himself "in very wide agreement" with Fishel's assessment, attacked "those who refuse to face the question of what is our national interest."

He said the American "urge to omnipotence now eclipses consideration of a negotiated settlement." Whereas early in the year, with the military situation in Viet Nam dim, and our government seeking to prove that negotiation was inevitable, we are now deluded by the confidence that we can help defeat the Viet Cong on the ground and restore the authority of Saigon.

But purely military considerations and "winning in the classical sense" will not be decisive in Viet Nam, he suggested.

The continued use of massive American air power, "the very whiteness of our faces," and the disunity in southern government all should tell us that South Viet Nam is so alienated and without hope that although we can deny the enemy a victory, we cannot win ourselves, he said.

International Terms

Wurfel agreed with Sen. Mansfield (D—Montana), who has urged a cease-fire agreement, an opportunity for the free choice of a government, a free plebiscite on unification of the North and South and international terms for the neutralization of Cambodia, Laos and Viet Nam.

He said that the "falling domino" doctrine "is the utmost nonsense," that it ignores reality and is a trap "which stakes our prestige on our weakest possible position."

Instead of accepting the theory, he said, we should work for the growth of nationalism in Southeast Asia which would give us "an alternative between withdrawal and war."

Wurfel endorsed Fishel's earlier suggestion of humanitarian activities by U.S. colleges—the building of schools, provision of tools, food and medicines—and added that "it is in the best American tradition and in the hope to reduce the suffering of the people of Viet Nam that our colleges should speak out for peace."

Auto Aerials Damaged

KAUKAUNA — Police are investigating the complaint of two residents who had aerials broken from their automobiles Tuesday night.

Richard Kilgas, 917 Sullivan Ave., reported his aerial broken while his car was parked in front of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Seventh Street, between 6:30 and 8 p.m. Raymond Jansen, 414 W. Ninth St., reported his broken sometime Tuesday night while his car was parked in the alley behind his home.

Paul Kulas, 2113 Main Ave., complained about youngsters bending a wire fence at his home, but the youngsters were apprehended and parents of two boys involved agreed to take care of the matter.

Appleton Has 2 Schools for Sale; Inherited Property

The City of Appleton has two schools for sale.

Buildings and sites of the Elmdale and Red Star schools were put on the public block as of today.

Earlier in the week, the common council authorized their sale.

Appleton "inherited" the school buildings and a $40,000 bonded indebtedness on them when they were attached to the public school system.

'Few Nibbles'

City Clerk Elden Broehm is advertising for offers to purchase, the latter to be accompanied by a $100 certified check.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell says the city has received "a few nibbles" on the school buildings.

Red Star School is south of Appleton; Elmdale is to the west in the neighborhood of the new Outagamie County Airport.

The council also:

—Authorized the clerk to advertise for bids for the city's fleet, general liability and workmen's compensation insurance.

—Decided the present policy for payment of deferred special assessments over a five-year period not be changed.

Firemen Plan Benefit for Oneida Parish

FREEDOM—The Freedom Volunteer Fire Department is sponsoring a fund drive and benefit dance for the rebuilding of Immaculate Conception Catholic Church of Oneida, which was destroyed by fire last Sunday. Ed Vandenberg, fire chief, made the announcement.

Donations will be accepted at banks in Green Bay, Appleton, Freedom, De Pere, Little Chute, Seymour, Black Creek and Kimberly, Vandenberg said. Donations also may be mailed to Immaculate Conception Church, care of Freedom State Bank, route 1, Kaukauna. The drive will run through Dec. 15.

The benefit dance will be Nov. 16 at the Pine Castle Ballroom between Freedom and Seymour. Music for the event is being donated by the Steffen Brothers band.

Tipsy Driving Charge Dismissed in Court

A charge against Russell A. Lemke, 38, route 1, Hortonville, of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants, was dismissed this morning in Outagamie County Court Branch 3.

Lemke was arrested April 5, by Outagamie County traffic police on State 54 in the Town of Liberty. He pleaded innocent the same day and filed an affidavit of prejudice against County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Following testimony this morning, County Judge Raymond P. Dohr dismissed the complaint.

Department Heads Confer With Byrnes

Mayor Clarence Mitchell and several Appleton department heads conferred with Rep. John Byrnes (R-Green Bay) at the Conway Hotel today to discuss the city's proposed long-range capital improvement program and projects that might be considered for federal grants.

U. S. Officials Debate War In Viet Nam that about 80 per cent of the population lives in the countryside.

Kastenmeier, who prefaced his remarks by telling the audience he claimed "no expertise on Viet Nam," said he was "not optimistic about the February bombings" and did not think "they have shown any tangible results." He said the result had been a demand for more bombings, particularly of Hanoi.

The bombing of the North has added nothing," Kastenmeier said, and "I don't think it has curtailed activity in the South."

Kastenmeier, whose attitude about Viet Nam stems from the fact he "does not like war," said the U.S. "should not be the world policeman." He added that there is a limitation to commitment.

Alienates People

Kastenmeier said he "would not have expanded the ground forces to the extent the U.S. has, as he thinks this would "tend to alienate the people, whose land is ruined through a land war."

He said President Johnson's policy has degressed from the late President Kennedy's policy of viewing the war as "basically a Vietnamese war." Kastenmeier stressed that he recognizes "the U.S. cannot unilaterally withdraw."

Noting that "truth is the first casualty of war," Kastenmeier warned it would be "dangerous" for the country to "get into lockstep" with the administration's policy in Viet Nam. He cited the need for forums, saying the argument that Hanoi and the Viet Cong will misinterpret dissent "should be ignored."

Dorge agreed that "dissent should not be suppressed."

Kastenmeier said that for Americans to be afraid to criticize American policy because others in the world may misinterpret the criticism is "living in terror."

Biolo Sidelined as Vikes Seek to Snap Loss Skein

Lawrence Closes Home Grid Season Against Scots

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The 1965 football season may be nearing its conclusion, but the tempo of the drills this week at Lawrence University gives little indication of this fact.

Coach Ron Roberts has been giving his gridders extra scrimmage work in an all-out effort to snap the 2-game losing streak of the Vikes. Roberts is hoping his charges will be able to get back on the victory trail Saturday when they play their final home game, entertaining Monmouth College in a Midwest Conference tilt. Kickoff time in the Lawrence Bowl is 1:30 p.m.

Proves Costly

Roberts was naturally disappointed over the team's 18-6 loss to Grinnell in the homecoming battle last week and is concentrating on making a good showing in the final two games. After Saturday's battle with Monmouth, the Vikes close out the campaign at Beloit College Nov. 13.

The loss to Grinnell also proved costly in another way. Defensive back John Biolo, Jr. was injured in the game and is not expected to see action Saturday against the Scots. Biolo suffered a hip injury. He was a key man in the Lawrence defense and had one pass interception to his credit last Saturday before being hurt.

Monmouth has a 2-4 record in MC play so far and the team has scored 69 points while opponents have counted 104. The Vikes, on the other hand, have scored 107 markers while giving up 85.

MIDWEST CONFERENCE	W	L		W	L
Ripon	6	0	Coe	3	3
Lawrence	4	2	Carleton	2	4
Grinnell	4	2	Monmouth	2	4
Beloit	4	2	Knox	1	5
St. Olaf	3	3	Cornell	1	5

Saturday's Games:
Monmouth at Lawrence.
Coe at Grinnell.
Beloit at Cornell.
Carleton at Knox.
St. Olaf at Ripon.

Lawrence currently ranks fourth in total offense in the conference and is second on defense. The Vikes have gained 1,203 yards rushing, second best mark in the league, and have an even 500 yards passing.

Beloit is the conference leader on offense with 697 yards rushing and 1,242 passing. Following Beloit are Cornell and St. Olaf.

On defense, only defending champion Ripon has a better mark than Lawrence. Ripon has allowed an average of 162 yards per game to foes while Lawrence has given up 223. The Redmen of Ripon also have clinched at least a tie for the conference crown as they have a 6-0 record while Lawrence, Grinnell, and Beloit are all tied for second with 4-2 marks.

Scoring Honors

Doug Bradley, of Ripon, and Rick Schimmel, Cornell, are staging a close battle for conference scoring honors. Bradley has 48 points on eight touchdowns while Schimmel has 44 points on seven touchdowns and a 2-point conversion.

Top scorer for Lawrence is Jerry Gatzke who has five touchdowns for 30 points and ranks sixth in the conference.

Monmouth is coming into the Saturday game on the heels of a 23-12 loss to Beloit last week. Beloit broke loose for 21 points in the third period and although the Scots staged a comeback in the second half they could not overcome the lead.

Badgers' Chance Rests on Offensive Line, Says Bruhn

Purdue's Top Rusher, Receiver May be Lost for Saturday's Game

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Wisconsin and Purdue, each beaten twice running and tied at 2-2 in Big Ten football competition this season, meet in Purdue's "Dads' Day" game Saturday.

Wisconsin, 2-4-1 for the season, opened conference competition by beating Iowa, 16 - 13, and Northwestern, 21 - 7, then lost to Ohio State, 20 - 10, and took a 50-14 beating from Michigan last week.

Purdue, now 4-2-1, defeated Iowa, 17-14, and Michigan, 17-15, but then had its title hopes dimmed by Michigan State, 14-10, and doused by Illinois, 21-0.

The Boilermakers will be playing without their leading pass catcher, end Bob Harrick, and probably without their leading rusher, fullback Randy Minniear. Both were injured in the Illinois game. Hadrick has caught 47 passes for 562 yards, and Minniear has carried the ball 98 times for 349 yards.

Jim Faflik will start in place of Hadrick, and John Kuzniewski is expected to start at fullback.

Purdue beat Wisconsin, 28 - 7, last year but has not won two straight from the Badgers in the last 20 years. The Boilermakers have not lost three consecutive games since 1960.

Wisconsin leads their long series 24-4, with 6 ties.

Wisconsin Coach Milt Bruhn said the Badgers' chance for a victory rests with the offensive line. "If it jells and puts things together, we'll have a chance," he said.

Xavier '5' Starts Season Nov. 20 At Marshfield

Heideman, Rechner Are Returning 1964-5 Regulars

Eighteen candidates are seeking berths on the Xavier High School varsity basketball team, which opens its season Nov. 20 at Marshfield Columbus.

Mike Heideman and Paul Rechner are the returning regulars from the 1964-65 team, which won 23 of 25 starts. Returnees who were varsity reserves last season include Don Hurley, Steve Schmieder, John Rankin, Tom Heinritz and Larry Van Dyke.

Coach Gene Clark is currently working with six seniors, six juniors, five sophomores and one freshman. He reports 'hat he will make one more cut, reducing the squad to 13 or 14 players.

Senior candidates are Paul Rechner, Heideman, Hurley, Schmieder, Rankin and Van Dyke. Juniors are Steve Rechner, Dan Hardy, Terry Graff,

Looks Forward to Lions

Lombardi Pleased With Bays' Practice Sessions

GREEN BAY (AP) — Coach Vince Lombardi, armed with a new long - term contract and a favorable medical report, sees an upswing ahead as the Green Bay Packers near the end of their preparations for Sunday's game with the always dangerous Detroit Lions.

"We've had some trouble during the first half of the schedule but we still came out in good shape," said Lombardi, who was awarded a contract Thursday guaranteeing him a job in Green Bay at least until 1974.

"We've had a good week of practice and we should be ready to play a good game against Detroit."

Lombardi said quarterback Bart Starr has looked sound in workouts this week. So has Marv Fleming, the mighty tight end who missed the Chicago game last week because of an ankle sprain. Starr had been badly battered by the Bears in Sunday's 31-10 setback.

But Lombardi doesn't expect a cakewalk against the Lions.

"They'e coming off a fine game against Los Angeles, said the coach, referring to the Lions' 31-7 victory last weekend. "Now they're only two games behind the leaders. They realize they've got to win to stay in contention."

The leaders are the Packers and Baltimore. Both are tied for first place in the Western Division with 6-1 records.

Svare Draws $1,000 Fine For Blasting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Harland Svare of the Los Angeles Rams, said he has been fined $1,000 by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle for criticizing officials.

Svare said he got the word Wednesday. Rozell's office in New York, following policy, declined to discuss it.

On Oct. 25 Svare told football writers here that in his opinion officials "are being intimidated in large stadiums away from Los Angeles." He cited Baltimore, where the Rams lost 35-30, and Chicago. He said he didn't question officials' integrity but felt they were being subconsciously influenced by the crowds.

Svare expected the rap from Rozelle. "I wouldn't have thought as much of him if he didn't fine me," the coach said.

New Orleans Plans to Build New Stadium

Construction of Super-Dome May Attract NFL

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — This city's stock as the National Football League's 16th member soared today after the announcement of plans to build a $24-million super-dome stadium.

But promoter Dave Dixon, who has been angling for a pro football franchise for years, has even greater visions such as the Pan-American track games, the NCAA basketball championship tourney, and world championship prizefights.

Dixon even sees the Sugar Bowl switching from 82,500-seat Tulane University Stadium to the 60,000 super dome "and getting $8 a ticket for air-conditioned comfort on Jan. 1."

And Marvin E. Kratter, the New York financier who recently set up shop in New Orleans to build a billion-dollar real estate development, predicts the city could land the Olympics.

Donating 100 Acres

Kratter is donating a 100-acre tract of land valued at $2 million for the proposed stadium on the shore of Lake Ponchartrain.

The announcement of plans for the stadium came Thursday from Mayor Victor H. Schiro.

Bleier, 6 Other Halfbacks Named For Pitt Game

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Three quarterbacks were named Thursday on Notre Dame's 46-man football traveling squad for the Pittsburgh game.

They include Bill Zloch, Tom Schoen and Dan McGinn. The halfback group was exceptionally heavy with Pete Andreotti, Bob Bleier, Denny Conway, Nick Eddy, Bill Wolski, Jim Ryan and Joe Azzaro being named.

Will Remain in White Sox Organization

Lopez Resigns Pilot's Job

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — The greatest baseball bridesmaid in history has turned in his uniform.

Al Lopez, 57, is through as manager of the Chicago White Sox.

He piloted two pennant winners in 15 years as a major league manager — in 1954 with the Cleveland Indians and in 1959 with the White Sox. His teams finished second 10 times.

Lopez, who guided the Sox for nine seasons, has talked about retirement since 1960. He made his decision finally to do it Thursday at a hastily called news conference.

For the last month, the Sox brass had contended that Lopez was "making up his mind." Owner Art Allyn and General Manager Ed Short apparently had hoped he would stay as field boss.

Will Carry Weight

Lopez will remain with the organization as a vice president, serving as an adviser to short. As such, his decisions will carry weight in all areas, including the choice of a new manager.

Short said he has a working list of as many as 22 names but conceded it would be easy to screen it down to five or six. He would not identify any.

Most frequently mentioned is Mayo Smith, a top scout of the New York Yankees and one of Lopez' gin-rummy and winter-time golfing buddies in Florida. He previously managed the Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Reds.

Another is Charlie Metro, White Sox coach.

Lopez said Metro and his long-time friend, coach Tony Cuccinello, could do a good job but that was as far as talk went about his replacement.

Short said that whether Metro, Cuccinello and two other veteran aides of Lopez — Ray Berres and Don Gutteridge — will remain is a decision to be made by the new manager. At any rate, he added, they will stay in the organization which is headed for an expanded minor league instruction program.

"I'll be on 24-hour call and I'll go wherever Eddie (Short) wants," said Lopez. "If he wants me to spend some time at Indianapolis, or Lynchburg, or Portsmouth, or wherever we have some of our players, I'll drop in."

Short said Lopez had expressed a desire to quit the last few seasons.

"There's no doubt it was a letdown for him when we failed to win the pennant this year and finished second," said Short. "When Mr. Allyn and I talked to him at the end of the season, we told him to go home, think it over, and let us know."

Jack Hand Forecasts Pro Games

Picks Packers, Colts to Win

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — The young phenoms of the Chicago Bears meet the old pros from Baltimore Sunday in the big game of the pro football weekend Can the Colts corral Gale Sayers and Andy Livingston? Can the Bears handle Johnny Unitas?

Before you go overboard on this even ball game, remember one thing Baltimore 52, Chicago 0 in the first game last year This is a new year, of course Sayers Livingston and Dick Butkus have been added to Poppa Bear's cave But Unitas really took that crippled defense apart last year

The old bromide that goes "on any given day any team in pro football can beat any other team" was right in style last week The roof fell in on the old Hand picker for a 3 8 day That left the season totals 34 15 in the NFL, 14 10 3 in the AFL and 48-25 3 overall

It also left the selector in a daze Maybe November will be better Let s try again (all games Sunday)

NFL

Baltimore 31, Chicago 28 — Colts have won five straight since losing to the Packers 20 17 The Bears have won four in a row since bowing to Green Bay in their first meeting Chicago got even with the Packers last week 31 10 and can move into the thick of the race with another victory Colts lead league in rushing defense only four TDs on the ground all year for the enemy Unitas to out pitch Rudy Bukich in a game that could be decided by a Lou Michaels field goal

Minnesota 34 Los Angeles 24 — They played a wild one on the Coast Oct 3 won by the Vikings 38-35 on a field goal by Fred Cox in the final seconds Vikings' attack cracks any defense especially the Rams' secondary Minnesota still vulnerable but improving on pass defense

Green Bay 20, Detroit 17 — This could be real close The Lions held a 21 3 halftime lead when they met Oct 17 but Bart Starr hit for three touchdowns in the third quarter and a 31-21 edge Starr was shaken up last week and will need to be in top shape to withstand Lions' big rush If Terry Barr were playing we d be tempted to pick Detroit Give it to the Packers on a lash of Vince Lombardi s whip

Philadelphia 21, Cleveland 20 — This is really asking for trouble The Browns figure to be hopping mad after that upset by the Vikings Jim Brown made 133 yards against Eagles in first game but it took five interceptions to set up 35 17 margin If Norm Snead has hot hand he can penetrate injury hit Brown defense Signals off if Snead can t go all the way Browns big favorites

St Louis 27, Pittsburgh 13 — Isn t there an easy one any more? If the Cards perform like they did at Yankee Stadium, the City Jail Steelers can knock them off If Larry Wilson can't play St Louis can be hurting Steelers rough on defense when bowing to Cards 20 7 Oct 17 Could be another big day for Bill Triplett

San Francisco 17, Dallas 14 — Loss of John Brodie has dropped 49ers into underdog role but they seem to pack too much offense in well balanced attack George Mira can run the show but he'll find the Cowboy pass defense tough to crack The 49ers beat Dallas in an exhibition game 27 7

New York 14, Washington 10 — Redskins on the move with two straight over Cards and Eagles Much depends on condition of Charley Taylor and ability of Giants rookie Spider Lockhart to handle Bobby Mitchell Giants will try to make it on the ground with Steve Thurlow and Tucker Frederickson

AFL

San Diego 24 Denver 17 — Lance Alworth caught seven for 211 yards when the Chargers edged the Broncos early 34 31 Denver looked bad in game with Jets last week Chargers should bounce back from defeat by Boston and may take advantage of chink left by injury to corner man Willie Brown

Kansas City 21, New York 17 — The Chiefs just did take the Jets 14-10 in their first meeting when Len Dawson hit Chris Burford with two TD passes New York thinks it hit its stride last week in 45 10 romp over Denver Buck Buchanan and Bobby Bell lead rugged rush Jets haven t won on the road since 1962

Buffalo 20, Boston 17 — The Bills rolled over the Pats in the season opener 24-7 but that was before they lost Elbert Dubenion and Glenn Bass Boston finally broke losing streak in San Diego and ache to get even for that loss to Buffalo in the snow last December Close but Buffalo wins on its line

Oakland 21 Houston 20 — George Blanda can t do it every week and the Oilers will have their hands full with rookie Fred Bilentnikoff if Al Davis can solve his quarterback problem heavily in New Orleans' favor in the granting of a franchise

'Currently we are having research conducted by an independent firm in seven cities one of which is New Orleans said the spokesman "And certainly, one of the major considerations in its study will be the availability of suitable stadiums

'Certainly construction of such a stadium in New Orleans would be in its favor, as it would in any of the other six"

The NFL says it will grant a franchise for a 16th team — to begin playing in the 1967 season — sometime next spring Other cities in the running are Houston, which has the Astrodome Portland, Seattle, Boston, Cincinnati and Phoenix

Ortega Jailed for Drunken Driving

MESA, Ariz (AP) — Pitcher Phil Ortega of the Washington Senators is serving a 15 day mandatory jail sentence here for drunken driving

Ortega, 26, was arrested early Wednesday Police said he was fined $215 and sentenced to jail because it was the second drunken driving citation against him this year

Ortega who lives in Mesa was working as a trusty in the City Jail

Falcons Accept 12,264 Ticket Reservations

ATLANTA, Ga (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League have accepted season ticket reservations for approximately a fourth of the Atlanta Stadium's seating capacity owner Rankin Smith said Wednesday

Smith said 12 264 reservations were accepted for the 1966 season

I called Pete Rozelle (NFL commissioner)' he said, 'and he was mighty excited about it He didn t say if we had a record but he certainly was pleased So am I

Smith also announced that he has hired Ray Gilland, former ticket manager of the Baltimore Colts, for the same job with the Falcons, beginning Monday

Iowa, Rice, Kansas Meet Rugged Foes In Saturday Games

Underdogs Face Top Three Teams; Notre Dame Invades Pittsburgh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Iowa, Rice and Kansas are teams in trouble

The reason is simple: they play Michigan State, Arkansas and Nebraska, the nation's top three college football teams, Saturday.

While each of the big three has won seven games without losing any, Iowa has won only one of seven, Rice two of six and Kansas two of seven

Iowa has the difficult task of stopping the No 1 team in the country and in the process prevent the Spartans from clinching a tie for the Big Ten title.

Rice will try and delay second-ranked Arkansas' march to the Southwest Conference crown while Kansas will attempt to foil third-ranked Nebraska's championship intentions in the Big Eight.

In other games involving teams in the Top Ten, fourth-ranked Notre Dame plays Pitt, Alabama, No 5, goes against Louisiana State in a night game; sixth-rated Southern California battles California, Georgia Tech, No 7, is at Tennessee, eight-ranked UCLA meets Washington, ninth-ranked Missouri takes on Colorado and Kentucky, No. 10, plays Vanderbilt at night.

Never Won Title

Michigan State never has won a Big Ten title although it tied Illinois for the 1953 crown But if they get past Iowa, the Spartans have only Indiana to worry about.

Based on their record, the Spartans have little to fear. They own the best defense against rushing in the nation and are the second toughest team to score against. Per game, Michigan State opponents have gained only 57.4 yards on the ground and scored only 6.6 points.

Arkansas has its offense in high gear with Jon Brittenum's passing and Bobby Burnett's running sparking the way.

Larry Wachholtz, whose field goal beat Missouri last week, has an injured foot and may not play against Kansas, but Nebraska still should extend its winning streak.

Notre Dame plays a Pitt team that gave up 51 points last week, and Southern California meets a California team that gave up 56 points two weeks ago, then beat Penn State last week.

Alabama faces a tough battle with Louisiana State while Georgia Tech goes against Tennessee, which has allowed only 6 2 points a game.

Keep Hopes Alive

UCLA tries to keep its Pacific Athletic Conference hopes alive against Washington, Missouri attempts to get back into the Big Eight race and Kentucky sends the nation's 10th best pass offense against Vanderbilt

Among other major contests, it will be unbeaten Princeton at Harvard, unbeaten Dartmouth at Columbia, Oregon State at Syracuse, Georgia at Florida, Clemson at North Carolina, Army against the Air Force at Chicago, Michigan at Illinois, Wisconsin at Purdue, Baylor at Texas and Oregon at Washington State.

Canadiens Tie Black Hawks For NHL Lead

Bernie Parent is just 20 years old and he's played only two games as a National Hockey League goaltender. He's got 16 years and 856 games to go before he can match Terry Sawchuk, the dean of NHL goalies.

But Thursday night there was little difference between the two netminders. They were just a couple of sitting ducks for Detroit and Montreal.

Boston's Parent, who came up with a 40-save show in his NHL debut against Chicago Wednesday, shook off 36 Red Wing shots but let eight others get by as Detroit routed the Bruins 8-1.

Sawchuk was the target of 41 Montreal shots as the Canadiens ripped Toronto 5-1

The victories moved Montreal and Detroit into ties with Chicago and Toronto The Canadiens are deadlocked with the Black Hawks for the NHL lead with nine points and the Red Wings and Maple Leafs are tied for third place with five points.

Cage Program to Begin Saturday For Grade Boys

KAUKAUNA — The recreation department — sponsored basketball program for boys from fourth through eighth grades will get underway at 9 a m. Saturday.

Fourth and fifth graders from the south side are to report to Nicolet School gym where Ronald Margelofsky will be in charge of the program. North side fourth and fifth graders are to report to Park School where Harold Kobin is in charge Boys in grades six through eight are to report to the old gym at the high school where Ken Vander Velden will be in charge.

Each of the adult leaders will be assisted by a high school youth Boys are to bring gym clothes and tennis shoes.

At 9 a m Nov 13, in the new high school gym Vander Velden will conduct a special clinic for all boys in the new high school gym.

Accused of Drunkenness, Gridder Sues

Principal Object Of Suit Filed by Prep QB's Parents

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va. (AP) — The first-string quarterback of the Harpers Ferry High School football team, denying he was drunk during a game, has filed a $10,000 libel suit against his principal.

The suit was filed Thursday against Principal Norman Mullins in Jefferson County Circuit Court on behalf of Lee Ballanger by his father, Calvin Ballanger.

Young Ballanger, a senior, was one of seven regulars suspended by the principal after the Oct. 24 game against Shepherdstown.

The suit says Mullins falsely and maliciously stated in a letter to Ballanger's parents and board of education officials that Ballanger played the game under the influence of alcoholic beverages.

Harpers Ferry won 14-13.

MSU Can Clinch Title Tie

Spartans Favored Over Iowa

CHICAGO (AP) — Passer Gary Snook of Iowa, bereaved over the death of his father, will try to lead the Hawkeyes to their first Big Ten football victory in nearly two years Saturday against the unbeaten, No. 1 ranked Michigan State Spartans.

The game at Iowa City is a top regional TV attraction and celebrates Dad's Day on the campus At first it was thought that Snook would miss the contest because of his father's death Wednesday in California.

"I am sure my father would have wanted me to make the decision to play," said the 22-year-old senior, who will fly to the coast after the game.

The Hawkeyes have lost their last 10 conference games and have beaten only Oregon State in seven starts this season.

Iowa could salvage a disastrous season by upsetting the Spartans and this game has the ingredients of such a possibility. Burns has said that the only time this year his team showed its true potential was in beating Oregon State 27-7 in the second game of the campaign.

Points to MSU

However, everything points to MSU, conference leader in defense and offense, and the oddsmakers have made Iowa a 20 point underdog. A victory would assure the Spartans of at least a tie for the Big Ten crown They end their conference drive against Indiana next week.

In other conference engagements, Indiana (1-3 in the Big Ten) is at Ohio State (3-1), Michigan (1-3) at Illinois (2-2), Northwestern (2-2) at Minnesota (3-1) and Wisconsin (2-2) at Purdue (2-2). No 4 rated Notre Dame is at Pittsburgh.

The Illinois-Michigan game matches the strategy of coaching brothers, Bump Elliott of the Wolverines and Pete of the Illini. Pete never has beaten his brother's team since he took over the head coaching assignment at Illinois in 1960.

The Ohio State-Indiana contest matches pupil and teacher, John Pont, in his first season as Hoosier coach, played for the Big Ten dean of mentors, Woody Hayes, at Miami of Ohio in the late 1940's.

The oddsmakers favor Minnesota, Ohio State and Purdue by a pair of touchdowns Illinois is given a three-point edge over Michigan Notre Dame is liked by 20 over Pitt.

Charles Leads Aussie Tourney

Cards 67 for 36-Hole Total of 139; Devlin, Player Tied at 140

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, was three over par after 13 holes Friday in the second round of the Wills Masters golf tournament at the Australian Club Course at Kensington.

Nicklaus had a par 72 in opening round Thursday and trailed Bruce Devlin of Australia by six strokes.

The early leader Friday was Dennis Sullivan, a 22-year-old Australian who learned to play the course as a caddy He had a 69 Thursday and a 71 Friday for a total of 140.

Nicklaus finished his second round in a four-over-par 76 for a two-round total of 148, diminishing his chance of winning. He carded a 37-39.

The early lead was taken over by former British Open champion Bob Charles of New Zealand, who shot a 67 for a two round total of 139 He had a 33 for the first nine holes and a 34 on the back nine.

Peter Thomson of Australia joined Charles in the early lead with 139, shooting a second round 70. He had a 35-35.

Martin Roesink of Holland shot a 71 for a two round total of 148 and was equal with Nicklaus, although nine strokes behind the leaders, Charles and Thomson.

Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., had a 74 today for a two round aggregate of 144. He fired a 35 on the outgoing nine and came home in 39.

Player and Devlin both finished with a two round total of 140 after Player shot a 70 and Devlin posted a 74. Player's card was 35-35 and Devlin's 38-36.

Oklahoma Students Stage Demonstration

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — A group of University of Oklahoma students, perturbed by their school football team's record this year, gathered in front of the OU president's home and burned their season grid tickets, the campus newspaper reported.

The Sooners have won two of their six games.

Iowa's Snook to Play Against MSU Despite Death of Father

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — The University of Iowa's outstanding passing quarterback, Gary Snook, in seclusion because of the death of his father, said Thursday he would play against top-ranked Michigan State here Saturday.

"I am sure my father would have wanted me to make this decision," the 22-year-old senior said in a statement released through a university press representative.

The father, Charles H. Snook, 65, died of cancer Wednesday at a hospital in California. He and his wife had lived the last three years at Seal Beach, Calif., upon his retirement from the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co here.

The elder Snook and another son, George of Los Angeles, had planned to see Gary play in the Dad's Day football game here.

Gary will fly to California after the game Saturday. Services and burial will be in Westminster Memorial Park at Westminster at 11 a.m. Monday.

The widow and two other sons, Harold of Fullerton, Calif., and Charles of Davenport, Iowa, also survive.

Until young Snook's decision to play, Coach Jerry Burns said the loss of his record-setting passer "would be tough, but the team will be dedicated to winning for Gary and his father."

Iowa has lost its last 10 Big Ten Conference games and has beaten only Oregon State in seven games this season.

Al Geiberger Leads Tourney

Holds 1-Stroke Edge Over Beard With Opening 68

HONOLULU (AP) — Will Pat Beard get her bikini? Or will she have to settle for a muumuu?

It all depends on how the putts drop for her golfing husband, Frank Beard, in the $60,300 Hawaiian Open over the Waialae Country Club course on the slopes of Diamond Head.

Al Geiberger, the slender, relaxed young star from California, will have a lot to say about it, too. He grabbed the first-round lead Thursday in the Open — first official Professional Golfers Association tournament ever held here — with a four-under-par 68, one stroke ahead of Beard.

"It doesn't mean anything," smiled Geiberger. "I led after the first round last week, too — and I finished eighth." That was at Almaden, Calif., where Bob Verwey of South Africa, Gary Player's brother-in-law, won it.

Verwey had a 75 Thursday, and Player is not entered. Neither are Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer or Tony Lema

But the four pros on hand had their hands full with the 7,000-yard, roughed-up course by the sea. Only eight broke par.

Beard, who got married last Saturday in New Orleans and brought Pat, a 21 - year - old blonde with a sheepdog haircut, to Honolulu for their honeymoon, was one stroke behind Geiberger along with slender Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex. Both had 69.

"I want to buy a bikini," said Pat, "but Frank won't let me. If he wins the tournament maybe he'll let me get one.

"Otherwise, I'll just buy some muu-muus." Those are the long flowered gowns that the missionaries brought to Hawaii, that all the girls wear hereabouts.

'Service Day' To be Noted At AHS Game

Saturday's Appleton High School football team has been designated as "Service Day" by the AHS Pep Club.

All members of men's service clubs of Appleton are being urged to attend the AHS-Green Bay West game, which will start at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Goodland Field.

Club members will register at the gates as they enter. The club which has the highest attendance represented will receive an award during the half.

Service clubs included are Downtown Kiwanis, Northside Kiwanis, Lion's Club, Appleton Lions (evening), Optimists Breakfast, Noon Optimist, and Rotary Club.

Keeps Up With Her Man

Mrs. Craig Breedlove Becomes Fastest Woman on Wheels

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Mrs. Craig Breedlove's husband became the fastest man on wheels last Tuesday And a woman has got to keep up with her man at least that's the way she puts it

So Thursday she did something about it.

Lee Breedlove jumped in her husband's Spirit of America Sonic I jet car and streaked across these western Utah Salt Flats to establish a world land speed mark for women — 308 56 miles per hour

Of course, it wasn't quite keeping up — Breedlove roared to the 555 127 m p h mark Tuesday to shatter Art Arfons' 536.71 mark set last year.

But it gave her the same title — fastest

Shatters Record

The pretty, dark-haired Lee's new mark shattered the 277.15 m p.h. record set last September by Betty Skelton of Detroit, who drove Arfons' Green Monster Cyclops.

Lee's ride Thursday was the first time anyone except her husband had driven the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.-sponsored jet car.

Lee, who said she had never driven competitively before, spent a few hours Wednesday getting acquainted with the jet car and its controls. She took only three practice runs Thursday morning before going for the record.

Chuck Burt Ranks Third in Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — Wisconsin quarterback Chuck Burt ranks third in the Big Ten in passing with 46 completions in 90 attempts for 475 yards, it was announced Wednesday.

Floyd Little Bids for U. S. Scoring Lead

Trails Utah State's Shivers by Only Two Touchdowns

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Little, Syracuse's hard-running halfback, is threatening Roy Shivers of Utah State for scoring honors among the major college football teams.

The Syracuse speedster has scored 10 touchdowns in the last three games, four of them last Saturday in the 51 13 rout of Pittsburgh, to move within 12 points of Shivers' pace-setting 90 points, according to figures released Wednesday by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau

Little has 78 on 13 touchdowns for second place, followed by Howard Twilley of Tulsa, the nation's record-setting pass receiver Twilley has nine touchdowns and 20 extra points for 74 points

One of the amazing features of the scoring column is the position of Charley Gogolak, Princeton's soccer style place kicker who has 70 points for fifth place without once handling the ball

Gogolak now boasts 42 straight conversions over two seasons and can break the college record of 44, held by his brother Pete from Cornell, by kicking three more in a row

Gogolak already holds five national kicking marks

Joe Carazo of Wake Forest is the pass interception leader with six Pittsburgh's Eric Crabtree tops the country in kickoff returns with 493 yards, 40 more than Texas ech's Donny Anderson

2 Railroads Approve Pact

Agreement Hinges On North Western, Rock Island Merger

CHICAGO (AP) — Directors of the Chicago and North Western Railway have approved an agreement to sell to the Santa Fe Railway certain portions of the Rock Island Lines in the event the North Western wins control of the Rock Island.

The C&NW approved the agreement Thursday The Santa Fe directors approved the pact last week

The Santa Fe would pay $100 million for all the Rock Island lines south of Herington, Kan, and from Herington to Salina, Kan In addition, Santa Fe would acquire trackage rights over the Rock Island between Kansas City and St Louis under a joint facility agreement

Seek Merger

All other Rock Island properties would be retained by Rock Island

The North Western has an application before the Interstate Commerce Commission for control of the Rock Island for the purpose of merger Both the North Western and Santa Fe are opposed to a proposed merger of the Rock Island and the Union Pacific Railroad

The proposed Rock Island-Union Pacific merger includes a provision for sale of the southern half of Rock Island properties to the Southern Pacific Railroad

Alcoa Boosts Aluminum Cost

NEW YORK (AP) — Aluminum Co of America, the nation's No 1 domestic aluminum producer, today boosted prices The action came despite what has been interpreted as opposition from President Johnson's administration

Alcoa raised the price of basic ingots a half-cent a pound to 25 cents and the price of fabricated metal by an average of a cent a pound

Alcoa's price move follows a week of controversy between the Johnson administration and the aluminum industry which began when Olin Mathieson Corp raised prices last week

The administration has called meetings in Washington to review the price actions The Alcoa increase is somewhat lower than the increase by Olin Mathieson and other smaller aluminum producers

Comparatively Low Prices!

College Students Collect Holiday Gifts for Viet Nam

Campuses Reacting Positively To Protest Demonstrations

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP) — College students are playing Santa's helper i growing campus support for American servicemen in Viet Nam.

Hundreds of students are packing gift boxes to meet the Nov. 17 deadline for mailing Christmas packages to Viet Nam

Thousands of others are donating blood, writing letters, signing petitions and organizing demonstrations in support of U.S. policy.

It's part of the reaction of college students and others to organized demonstrations last month protesting U.S. involvement in the Viet Nam war. Since then the show of support for American fighting men has mushroomed.

Cheesecake Campaign

One coed at Ohio State University at Columbus has decided that cheesecake may be just the thing for the boys. With the help of her dormitory mates, Jane Sault of Scarsdale, N.Y., collected more than 200 posters showing the college's homecoming queen candidates.

She is sending the pictures to units in Viet Nam through the USO. Jane is also sparking a drive to collect baked goods and other items for the troops.

At Washington College in Chestertown, Md., the girls have organized "Project Cheer John."

The project, sponsored by the Women's Residence Association, is aimed at cheering up servicemen by sending them Christmas gift packages.

"We want to show the servicemen in Viet Nam that not all college students are against them," said one of the organizers. The college said notes of encouragement and support will be included in the packages

Carroll College at Helena, Mont., began a two-week program Thursday in support of the nation's position in Southeast Asia. The Roman Catholic campus program includes offering of Masses and communions, sending Christmas cards, signing resolutions backing the servicemen, and a torchlight parade.

The parade will be on Mt. Helena, overlooking the city. Lighted torches will spell out "Win in Viet Nam" and form a huge American flag.

In San Francisco, the deputy regional director of the post office, Ed Mayfield said, "There has been a tremendous increase of mail to Viet Nam in recent days, but it is all being efficiently expedited."

He said most of the mail was being sent out by air.

Shipment of Drugs

Headed south from San Francisco is a truck loaded with $50,000 in drugs for the South Vietnamese people. The drugs, collected in a three-month drive by the Jaycees in Oregon, are en route to Navy supply ships in San Diego.

Samuel Duncan and William Winter Jr. of the Portland Jaycees are in charge of the shipment.

The Post Office said in Washington that the deadline for mailing Christmas packages to military personnel in Viet Nam had been extended from Nov. 10 to Nov. 17.

Channel Storm Kills 36 Cubans

Only Nine Survive After Boat Driven Onto Reef Sinks

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Eleven days ago, a band of Cubans set sail across the turbulent waters of Yucatan Channel, determined to find freedom from the Communists who govern their country.

Forty-five refugees were aboard the fishing boat Jose Marti — named after the hero who led Cuba to independence from Spain — when it sailed Oct 25.

Only nine reached the shore of Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula.

The Jose Marti almost made it across the narrow channel which separates the Gulf of Mexico from the Caribbean Sea But off Contoy Island, in sight of the mainland, heavy seas rammed the 65-foot boat into a reef, and sent it to the bottom Tuesday.

Thursday night, the marine ministry announced in Mexico City that 36 of the refugees apparently drowned.

The bodies of eight refugees — four women, a man, a girl and two boys — have been recovered.

Rescue At Yucatan

A search and rescue operation was launched from Yucatan Tuesday after a survivor, Ramon Salazar, swam to Contoy Island and sounded the alarm. Eight other refugees were rescued.

Havana Radio said the Jose Marti — it called the boat the Jose Martinez — sailed "in a clandestine manner" from Pinar del Rio Province.

Cuban authorities announced Wednesday that no more refugees would be permitted to leave by boat.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said the Cuban order "would foreclose these disorderly and dangerous trips."

Operation Took Four Minutes

Surgeons Remove Live Grenade From Back of Vietnamese Farmer

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Working through a small hole in a wall of sandbags, two U.S. surgeons successfully removed a live grenade from a Vietnamese farmer's back today.

"It's in the box," Maj. Gen. James W. Humphreys Jr. shouted as he released the grenade into a wooden case half filled with sand after pulling it from the back of frail, Nguyen Tran Chinh, 52.

The operation in a shed behind a Saigon hospital took less than four minutes.

Chinh became a walking explosive Sunday when a Viet Cong fired the 40mm grenade into his back. The missile 6 inches long and 2 inches wide lodged in his lower back beneath the 12th rib.

Chest Surgeons

Humphreys, a chest surgeon from Richmond, Va., was assisted by another chest surgeon, Air Force Col. Daniel Campbell of Inlet Beach, Fla. a British anesthetist, Dr. Tony Brown, gave Chinh a local anesthetic. Brown is attached to the U.S. aid mission.

The doctors, who volunteered for the job, operated from behind a 10-foot high stack of sandbags. They were about four feet away from the patient.

Inserting their instruments through an opening below a large pane of bulletproof glass, they made an incision with a scalpel attached to a 6-foot-long steel arm.

Then Humphreys picked out the grenade with a 6-foot pair of tweezers and placed it gently in the box of sand. It was about 2 feet from the wound to the box.

Didn't Drop

"If I had dropped it, the whole show would have been over," Humphreys said.

A U.S. army demolition expert, Maj. Daniel Doty of Marina, Calif., carried the box to a sandbagged jeep. It was to be detonated outside Saigon.

The grenade can kill at five yards and cause serious injury far beyond that distance.

Before the operation, Chinh, a frail man with a wispy beard, showed newsmen the bulge where the grenade had lodged.

He described how it got there: "I was standing outside my house early in the morning when a man shouted through the darkness, 'hands up'.

"Just as I did so, he fired at me and I was thumped to the ground. My family took care of me until daylight, when I was taken to the district headquarters and brought into Saigon."

Chinh lives in Long An Province, about 30 miles south of Saigon.

The grenade was believed to have been fired at Chinh from a distance of about 8 yards. That type of grenade arms itself over a distance of 12 yards.

Chinh was put to bed in a shed behind the hospital and Vietnamese authorities called in Humphreys, who heads the U.S. aid mission's public health division.

The impact of the grenade did not break any bones, and after several days Chinh wanted to go home.

"But we couldn't allow that," Humphreys said. "The jolts of a taxi or even of his own walking could trigger that sensitive fuse on the grenade and he might blow up taking a dozen passers-by with him."

White People Help Farmer

Burned-Out Negro Sees Gifts as Proof of Love

By HORACE CORT
AP Photographer

RUTLEDGE, Ga. (AP) — "This showed us that white folks don't hate Negroes," said Lamar Thomas, a Negro tenant farmer, as tears of gratitude trickled down his face.

Nearly $2,000 and other gifts of clothes, furniture and food have poured in from over the nation to the Thomas family after fire destroyed their small frame home and took the life of a 4-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Thomas said today many of the donations came from white persons.

"The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh," she said, of the gifts and of the death of little Vellson.

Lover Chilydren

"If it were not for the fine Christian people who sent us all these things, I don't know what we would have done."

One week ago, Thomas and a white furniture salesman, Frank McRee of nearby Madison, Ga., were talking in a cotton field when the salesman saw the house in flames.

Thomas, who is almost blind, cried, "Oh, my God, my children are in there."

McRee sprinted to the house, kicked in a window encased in flames, grabbed 10-month-old Lamar Jr., and tossed him out to Thomas.

McRee, blinded by smoke and flame, could not locate the other child. McRee leaped out the window when the roof began to fall. The little girl later was found dead under a bed.

At dusk, white neighbors found the Thomas family sitting on the ground near the rubble of their burned home. The neighbors found them a house nearby, rented it for them and started collecting furniture.

A story and pictures were carried by The Associated Press nationally. Soon, mail began to pour in for the Thomases.

The family now has running water in their home for the first time. They also now have a television set, a new stove and refrigerator and better clothes.

Thomas, 49, since he is nearly blind, receives a $195 welfare check monthly.

"We sure are going to have a better Thanksgiving this year than ever before, thanks to all those warm-hearted people," said Mrs. Thomas. "And don't you think we won't be thankful."

Life May Have Come to Earth On Meteorite, Scientist Says

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Life on earth may be an import from outer space — an organic compound that rode onto the barren planet on a meteorite.

So says a scientist who became intrigued with the distribution of chemical elements in meteorites 27 years ago and has been studying meteorites since.

"We have found meteorites that contain organic compounds," Dr. Brian Mason, 48, of the United States National Museum in Washington said in an interview. "Are these evidence that there is living matter in outer space?"

"I believe that they are non-biological in origin and that they are not the product of life — but that they may be the precursors of life on earth. It may be a meteorite that brought the material by which life could start."

Dr. Mason gave the presidential address Thursday night at the meeting of the Geochemical Society in conjunction with the annual convention of the Geological Society of America attended by some 3,000 geologists and geology-related scientists.

In a paper Thursday, a Harvard University botanist — Dr. Elso Barghoorn — disclosed recently proven findings showing that bacteria-like organisms existed on earth more than three billion years ago. That's the earliest date ever placed on living matter on our 4 ½ billion-year-old planet.

KKK Membership Revealed by HUAC

More Than Four Times as Many In Klan as Had Been Thought

WASHINGTON (AP) — With three weeks of Ku Klux Klan hearings behind them, several members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities feel they've accomplished something significant.

"Nobody knew how big this Klan was ,or where it was located," said Rep. Charles L. Weltner, D-Ga., the original spark-plug behind the investigation. "They know that now. They know the front names of all those klaverns."

Weltner said in an interview the best estimate of present total Klan membership committee investigators have been able to make is 50,000, give or take 5,000. This estimate has not yet been brought out in the hearings.

Thought About 12,000

"We had thought it was about 12,000 back in February when we started the investigation," Weltner said.

Weltner said the hearings so far have shown "the kind of stewardship of funds by Klan leaders. In Georgia we have shown that one bailiff and a former sheriff . were Klansmen. We didn't know that before.

"In New Hanover County, N.C., we have shown that the whole sheriff's department was in the Klan. The people of that state ought to know that. Here are people sworn to uphold the law who uphold the Klan instead."

He referred to New Hanover Sheriff Marion Millis, who had testified that he and six of his deputies — in a force of 20 men — had joined the local klavern. He said he later ordered them to quit, but conceded one of them stayed on and was elected to state Klan office.

Weltner pointed to Police Chief Howard W. Smith of Clayton County, Georgia, who told the committee he agreed that a law officer could not be faithful to both a Klan oath and his oath as an officer to uphold the law.

"I think it is valuable to have a police officer say it is irreconcilable for a police officer to be in the Klan," Weltner said.

In a separate interview, Rep. John H. Buchanan Jr., R-Ala., said "I think we have made a sound beginning. We have a pretty clear picture now of the organizational structure of the Klan.

"We've had a pretty good look at the caliber of the Klan leaders. They are people on the average with very little education. They apparently filed no income tax returns, or failed to report all their income.

"We found the imperial wizard (Robert M. Shelton of Tuscaloosa, Ala.) having Klan checks countersigned by his wife, and cashing many of them and buying a diamond."

Reynolds to Take Oath as Federal Judge Nov. 12

MILWAUKEE (AP)— Former Gov. John W. Reynolds will be sworn in as a federal judge for Wisconsin's eastern district at ceremonies Nov. 12, Donald C. O'Melia, Rhinelander, president of the state bar association said Thursday.

State Supreme Court Justice Thomas Fairchild will administer the oath in the federal building in Milwaukee.

Chief Judge John S. Hastings of the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals, Chicago, will preside at the investiture ceremony.

Pearson Party Expected to Do Well in Canada

Liberals Strong Despite Diefenbaker Bid for Control

By MAX HARRELSON

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's Liberal party seems to be in a strong position in French-Canada despite an intensive bid by Conservative leader John G. Diefenbaker for support in Monday's election.

Several political experts predict the Liberals will do at least as well in Quebec as they did in 1963 when they took 48 of the big province's 75 seats in the House of Commons. Some predict the Liberals may even pick up a few of the 13 seats held by Real Caouette's Creditistes, a minor party in Parliament

Conservative leaders have predicted their men will win as many as 25 seats in Quebec, but the experts say they will be lucky to hold the 7 seats they now have.

Major Steps

Liberal strength is expected to stem mainly from two major steps taken by the Pearson government over Diefenbaker's opposition. These were:

—Establishment of a royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism to study ways of improving relations between French-speaking Canada and the remainder of the country.

—Adoption of a new maple leaf flag to replace the red ensign, which many French Canadians regarded as a symbol of English Canada.

Both Pearson and Diefenbaker have insisted that Canadian unity is the major issue facing the country, but there has been no genuine debate on it in the sense that new plans or proposals were advanced. The debate has consisted mainly of charges that each candidate is dividing the country.

'Two Canada's'

Diefenbaker, for example has charged that Pearson stands for two Canada's. "A Liberal vote," he says, "would mean the end of a Canada in which citizens of all origins would stand as equals."

One of Quebec's leading Liberals, Jean Marchand, has accused Diefenbaker of trying to set English and French Canada against each other.

"It is obvious," he said, "that for Mr. Diefenbaker, national unity would consist of a federal government which crushed the provinces, and a country with only one language."

The only concrete suggestion advanced during the campaign was a suggestion by Diefenbaker for a nationwide conference of constitutional changes. But Quebec's Liberal premier, Jean Lesage, declared the time was not rips for such a conference because of a widespread feeling in English Canada that the French should be assimilated as part of an English-speaking Canada.

To Your Good Health

Chart Can Help Project Mature Child's Height

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Sir: I have been told there is a chart to estimate with a fair degree of accuracy at a certain age what a child's ultimate height will be. Could you print it?—Mrs. R.L.D.

It depends on what you mean by "a fair degree of accuracy."

Dr. Molner

There isn't any entirely dependable way of predicting. A tall child is likely to be a tall adult — obviously.

The rough rule of thumb is to take a child's height at the age of three years and double it. That can prove to be accurate in some cases, and a matter of inches off in others.

Charts or tables have been worked out, averaging the results observed with hundreds of children, and while the entire chart is too long to print here, I'll give you some typical ages.

Take the child's height in inches at any of the given ages, multiply it by 100, and then divide by the corresponding figure in the chart. The answer is in inches.

AGE	BOYS	GIRLS
6 months	37.67	39.84
12 months	42.23	44.67
24 months	48.57	52.15
5 years	61.60	66.64
10 years	78.74	84 76
15 years	94.60	99.31

Adult height means from 17 to 18 years of age.

These figures are correct for averages, but who's average? The average is the figure which is between those who wind up shorter than the chart shows, and those who wind up taller, and that's all you can say for it.

As you can learn out from the chart, at any age, girls have achieved a greater proportion of their final height much sooner than boys.

At 15, girls (again, on the average) are within a fraction of being as tall as they ever will be. But boys at that age will grow another 5½ per cent, or another three inches or so.

Now I've observed growing girls who have put in several inches after they were 15. It isn't common, but it happens. And that's why you can't use this chart as an absolute prediction, but only as a guide.

Heredity (quite important), nutrition, and general health (important, because it can throw off the height at various ages, and hence fool you as to what the final height will be) are factors that are hard to estimate.

And there can be some variation in the exact timing at which children go into their growing spurts. Their growth isn't steady; they spurt and slow down, spurt and slow down.

That's why no absolute formula is possible. However, don't fret if the chart shows that Junior will be only 5 feet 7. And don't be too positive about final results if the chart shows that he will be 72.98 inches tall. Maybe he'll only be 5-11. Who knows?

But working out the chart will give you some practice in long division with decimals, as well as a rough idea of what to expect. The sure way is to wait and find out.

Dear Dr. Molner: I seem to be susceptible to a vaginal fungus infecton (monilia). Would pregnancy dispose to such a condition? If it should develop, can it be treated during pregnancy?—Mrs. R X

Yes, pregnancy does predispose to monilial infection. Yes, in general it can be treated during pregnancy. Your doctor should decide in specific cases.

Your Money's Worth

Coins Without Silver Released for Christmas

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Just since this past Monday 230 million brand new silverless quarters have been flooded into circulation via our nation's Federal Reserve Banks. By now millions of you have had a look at the first examples of the cupro-nickel "sandwich" coins which over the years will gradually replace today's silver dimes, quarters and half-dollars.

The U.S. Treasury timed introduction of the new coins to head off a Christmas shopping season coin shortage: nearly 750 million of the new quarters will be in circulation before the end of the year to supplement the familiar silver ones. But there's still a threat of a serious shortage—if large numbers of you decide to hoard millions of the standard silver coins.

"The biggest problem we face," says Asst. Treasury Secretary Robert A. Wallace, "will not be coin speculators, but ordinary individuals who think silver coins may be worth more some day." Even if each of us puts aside only the handful of silver coins now in our purses and piggy banks, the result, says Wallace, could be an enormous drain.

Arguments Both Ways

What are the arguments for and against stashing away a supply of silver coins? What are your chances of turning a substantial profit on these coins in the years ahead?

One key argument in favor of saving silver coins is that the long-range price trend for collected coins is powerfully upward. A 1955 half-dollar, for instance—which was produced in very limited numbers—now sells for $7.50 in a coin shop. A 1964 "proof set"—a specially packaged collectors' set of newly-minted coins—bought last year from the Treasury for $2.10 now sells for $15.95 in the numismatic marketplace.

Another argument for saving silver coins is simply for "keepsake."

If you are now planning to set aside any sizable total of coins in the expectation of making a profit on them a few years from now, here are significant cautions from both coin dealers and U S Treasury officials.

Coins are worth virtually nothing to collectors unless they are in perfect condition. The ordinary, worn coin in your pocket is probably worth no more than its face value. Professional collectors and coin dealers mainly seek shiny, uncirculated coins and proof sets bought directly from the Treasury. A single nick or scar can drastically reduce a coin's potential value to collectors.

Vital to a coin's value is rarity—and again, unless you possess a sought-after specimen, the run-of-the-mill dime in your purse probably is worth precisely a dime. There are today 7 3 billion silver dimes in circulation in the U.S , plus 3 3 billion quarters and 1.2 billion half-dollars These quantities hardly make them rare (The new silverless dime will go into production in a few weeks and will start to circulate early in 1966)

There is a big difference between retail and wholesale prices for coins—a point most amateurs don't realize The going prices you hear quoted for coins today are considerably higher than the amounts you, as a coin-saver, would actually get if you peddled your hoard to a coin dealer. Typically the mark-up on coins is one-third to one-half. Also coin dealers don't ordinarily buy a handful of coins. Like other retailers they usually deal in large numbers.

What, though, about putting aside a silver coin or two for sentimental reasons?

The Treasury suspects that many of you will do exactly this and it is now stockpiling hundreds of millions of new sandwich coins for circulation next year to offset this drain. If you plan to build a little pile of keepsake coins, you could help avert a Christmas shortage simply by waiting to do so for a while.

Wallace puts it succinctly: "The ordinary individual holds the key to an orderly change-over from the 'old' to the 'new' coinage."

Seymour Farmers Dry Home Grown Corn in New Venture

System Has Multiple Advantages

BY PAT DUFFEY
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

SEYMOUR—Home grown corn, dried and shelled for winter storage, sale on the open or government markets or beef cattle feed, has become a reality in this upper Fox River Valley region this season.

The father-son team of Norman and Warren Maass has pooled resources to meet the challenge of a changing agriculture. They operate a custom corn drying system on Warren's farm.

Together they have 400 acres, a large chunk of it in corn, on separate farms.

Corn drying has been gaining in popularity in Wisconsin having entered the state from Northern Illinois. There are a handful of small dryers operating on individual farms in the region, but the Maass system is believed to be the largest.

600 Bushel Capacity

It has a continual capacity of 600 bushels of green corn. With a sufficient supply of shelled corn it could be operated around the clock, but the Maass' use it for eight or nine hours a day and then only after other farm work is completed.

Kernels of corn currently harvested have a 32 per cent moisture content. The dryer acts as a big hot air furnace and reduces the moisture to about 13 per cent, a safe storage level.

Gone is the danger of mold which lurks with corn cobs in the crib. The time gained is another factor. Favorable warm drying weather for corn in the crib is eliminated.

The investment is sizable and

Farms Open to Vacationers Pay for Junior's Schooling

Some rural Wisconsin youths are attending college this fall with the help of funds their parents raised by opening their farms to summer vacationers.

"It's possible to gross up to $2,000 per summer by accommodating one family per week, for 12 weeks," reports Larry Monthey, University of Wisconsin recreation and travel industry specialist. And some guest farms do even better.

Popularity of farm vacations is growing, Monthey says. He has supplied county extension agents with a list of 30 farms which welcome guests. Most are located in central and southern Wisconsin.

Gather Eggs

"City residents, especially those with young children, enjoy a week or two on the farm. They want to gather eggs, pitch hay, try to milk by hand, and ride a horse. Some of them gain weight on farm cooking," he relates.

A Chicago police captain and his wife, a school teacher, brought their four children to a farm in the Lone Rock area recently. "They had a fine time after they became accustomed to the quiet. At first they missed the big city noise," Monthey reports.

The farm visitors usually explore the area, inspecting tourist attractions and historical sites and attending a county fair.

"Family friendships develop, and rural-urban mutual understanding is increased," Monthey points out. "The farm vacation also is a magnet to introduce more people to Wisconsin's natural beauty."

Winter offers farm residents an opportunity to improve and prepare their homes to entertain vacationers next summer. Remodeling may be needed to provide another exit, bathroom, bedroom, fire wall, or kitchen facilities.

"When you have a paying guest, your home becomes a public accommodation," Monthey reminds farmers. "You must comply with health and building regulations. Insurance coverage also should be checked. You'll find that riding horses cause the biggest jump in your liability premiums."

Rent Quarters

Families offering a farm vacation usually rent a spare bedroom or the second house on

ACP Cost Sharing

Conservation Work $60,000 in Calumet

CHILTON — Calumet County farmers had approximately $60,000 of conservation done during 1964 of which half was paid by cost-sharing with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, according to Armin Schwalenberg, county office manager.

Cost-sharing under the ACP has encouraged conservation of our natural resources of soil, water and woodlands in the county," Schwalenberg said.

Under the 1964 program 222 acres of contour strips were established on 10 farms with approximately 1½ miles of stonefence or hedgerow removed, 7 acres of trees planted.

Thirty-five acres of timber stand improvement was completed on 11 farms; 28 farms completed approximately nine miles of sod waterways; three farms established diversion terraces totaling 6,500 feet.

Forty-one farms improved their drainage on 326 acres of cropland by either land leveling, ditching or tiling, 288 acres of pasture renovation was carried out on 24 farms (such areas to remain in alfalfa at least 4 years). Six ponds were built for wildlife or fish and one livestock water dam was constructed.

A report on 1965 accomplishments will not be available for some time since numerous projects have been started but can not be completed this fall due to abnormal weather conditions.

Achievement Night Is At Manawa

WAUPACA — The annual award program for the Waupaca County 4-H Achievement Night will be at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Manawa High School Gym.

Awards and special recognition will be given to county winners. Each club will receive achievement pins for their members. Fair premium checks also will be presented.

ASCS Asks Farmers' Social Security Number

County offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) in the Fox-Wolf Valley region are requesting that farmers who participate in its cost-sharing programs inform them of their social security number.

A special form for this purpose together with a return envelope will be mailed to known producers who receive payments.

Joseph Rickert, manager of the Outagamie County office in Appleton, said that after Jan. 1 the identifying Social Security numbers will be entered on payment-drafts to producers. They also will be used by the Department of Agriculture in reporting such payments to the Internal Revenue Service.

The Internal Revenue Code also requires such identifying numbers on other income payments from financial agencies or companies.

Win District Co-Op Honor at State Council Convention

CHILTON — The Future Farmers of America chapter from the high school was represented at the recent annual meeting of the Wisconsin Council of Agricultural Co-Operatives in Madison.

The chapter was one of 10 in the state to receive the Land O' Lakes district 25 Co-Op award. The district paid $25 for the delegates expenses.

The award, given by Lloyd Mower, was in recognition for outstanding work in cooperative activities.

Attending from Chilton were Richard Schmidt, Ronald Hilman and Wayne Klessig accompanied by their advisor Norman Pautz.

Plainfield Youth to Get $150 Prize at Canner's Convention

Allan G. Brooks, 17, route 2, Plainfield, was selected last week as winner of the 1965 Wisconsin canning and freezing crops contest of the National Junior Horticultural Association (NJHA).

Brooks, a University of Wisconsin freshman, grew green beans for the Markesan plant of California Packing Corp. on which the yield was over five tons per acre, and Brooks' profit was more than $92 per acre. He placed second in 1964, third in 1963, and fifth in 1962 in the Wisconsin contest.

The Wisconsin Canners and Freezers Association will present its check for $150 to Brooks at the association's 61st convention in Milwaukee Monday.

His entry will be sent on to compete in the national judging at the 31st annual convention of NJHA in Cincinnati, Ohio.

David L. Johnson, 16, route 2, Plainfield, will get $10 for his junior division snap beans for California Packing Corp.

Farm Short Course Begins at Madison

Wisconsin's 80th Farm Short Course at the University of Wisconsin will begin, Monday. It's a 15-week course divided into three terms each five weeks in length.

Students will receive training in some 50 courses by regular university instructors in the best of class rooms, laboratories, shops, livestock and other facilities.

Such things as production and use of hybrids, artificial insemination, soil conservation, disease and insect control and new feeding proactices are examples of the application of science to the art of farming.

Some of the courses offered include farm chemistry, welding, public speaking, farm records, farm law, farm power, crops, financing and farm buildings.

A farmer today needs a knowledge of these scientific applications; needs to develop skills in handling livestock and machinery; know sound business principles, economic trends and something about people and their social tendencies.

Anyone who is 17 years or older is eligible to attend. Students live on the campus. The university serves short course students with privileges and facilities the same as any other students.

Room and board for the entire 15-week course is $200. Fees run around $125.

Calumet County has a Short Course Alumni which meets periodically. It's officers are: Jim Scholz, president; Denten Aebischer, vice-president; Milan Gasch, secretary; and Donald Schwobe, treasurer.

Orrin Meyer Awarded For DHIA Program

CHILTON — Orrin Meyer, veteran Calumet County Agent, was one of four agents presented an award by Gov. Warren Knowles for efforts by Meyer in the promotion of dairy herd improvement work in the county. Over 400 attended the state DHIA meeting at the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

Meyer has been agricultural agent of Calumet County for more than 20 years. Previously, he was on the faculty of the Rib Lake and Brillion High Schools after graduating from the University of Wisconsin.

He is a native of Manitowoc County and a graduate of Manitowoc Lincoln High School and the former Manitowoc County Normal. He also taught rural schools in Manitowoc County before entering the university.

Extensive Program

The program which won Meyer the distinction was: publication of an annual county dairy herd improvement report book, booths at county and state fair on dairy herd improvement; television and radio programs on herd improvement; farm to farm campaigns and continual publicity releases stressing the need of cow testing. During the past 10 years membership in the program has doubled.

The DHIA promotion was part of a state wide campaign, "Milk Cows That Pay—Go DHIA." Over a half million Wisconsin cows are now on production test. Fond du Lac county won the state award for adding the most herds to their testing program.

Lyman Benson, Chippewa Falls was named the fieldman with getting the most members. James Gloeser, Manitowoc, and Tony Klingelhoets, formerly of Barron and now of Calumet, were runners up. Awards were made in the Great Hall of the Memorial Union.

Enlist Support

George Hyatt, Jr., director of the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service, pointed out the DHIA groups should enlist the support of bankers, feed dealers, and creameries in cow testing. One North Carolina dairy cooperative pays a premium price to farmers in the testing program and 97 per cent of its producers are enrolled.

Rate of increase in production efficiency of DHIA herds has been about double that of herds not in DHIA. In the three fiscal years since 1962, milk yield of each DHIA cow increased by 348 pounds per year, compared to a 176 pound increase for cows not in the program.

can only be operated on an equally large farm, Maass commented.

If beef prices are favorable the corn can be fed to the cattle. If not it can be kept in storage or sold to local mill outlets which are serviced by truckloads of corn each week from the Southern States.

While much attention is given to its feed corn possibilities the cabin to make it usable during inclement weather, and otherwise improved it," his father said.

The dryer is parked on cement blocks next to the barn. A pair of conveyors lift the green shelled corn from a delivery truck into the dryer. Another boosts the dried corn into the barn for storage.

The dryer is run by a tractor equipped with power takeoff bar. It also is equipped to empty directly into a waiting truck.

The system is one small example of the increasing advances being made in a highly diversified agri-business.

Their investment in the future is no less important than the expanding urban industries. Both require farsightedness and a strong dose of hard work from the investors.

system is equally adaptable to seed corn.

When the temperature gets around 20 it kills the germ in the seed corn, the elder Maass explained. It is still good for feed purposes.

Wet conditions in the field is the biggest stumbling block to a full harvest this season. Combines and tractors frequently become mired. The dryer is operating at 50 per cent capacity because of it.

If the fields get several inches of frost to harden the ground before the snow cover, farmers will be able to make considerable progress in harvesting problem sections of their corn fields, Maass explained.

"With the high moisture in the corn this year," Maass said, "the dryer is a relief to us. Without it we wouldn't know where to go with all the corn."

"The dryer idea was Warren's. He purchased a used combine, added an enclosed

Flood Control Effects Farm Land Value

What happens to land values when a flood control program comes into a farming area of Wisconsin?

Sydney Staniforth, University of Wisconsin, agricultural economist, and Rudolph Christiansen, of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, studied Twin Parks and Mill Creek watershed projects in Iowa County for an answer.

It can't be given totally in dollars and cents, the agricultural economists conclude after a study of the entire watershed project. They found that 54 of the 340 farmers who live on the flood plain of Mill Creek have land which now can be converted from pasture to cropland as a result of the flood control project. This amounts to 437 acres of new cropland or about 8 acres per farm.

Increased Value

Converting pasture land to cropland increased the value of every acre about $25 for a total increase of $11,000 for this land in the flood plain.

This gain in value of cropland is probably only a small part of the total benefit because the increased crop acreage may bring about a conversion of the entire cropping and livestock program on the farm. Another benefit from the watershed project is an increase in value of land for non-farm uses, such as hunting, fishing, camping, and other recreation.

The economists feel that the value of any watershed project cannot be mesured simply in increased dollar value of the cropland. Those underway in many parts of Wisconsin will have great value to farmers and the whole community.

Valley Clinics On Butter Set

Two of the eight butter grading clinics in the state will be in the Fox Valley during November under the cooperative sponsorship of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and the University of Wisconsin Extension Service.

Dates and locations of area clinics are: Nov. 15, Brown County Courthouse Annex, Green Bay, and Nov. 16, Wisconsin Power & Light Co., Fond du Lac.

The clinics have been designed to assist butter graders in improving their skills. Grading problems will also be discussed, according to A. P. Bressman, of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture's Marketing Division.

Soil Surveys, Public Education Key to Sound Land-Use Planning

UW Specialists Explain Board of Health Use of Subdivision Land Informaton

Soil surveys, public education and acceptance play key roles in developing sound land-use plans, according to a report Tuesday by University of Wisconsin soil scientist Marvin T. Beatty and agricultural economics specialist Douglas A. Yanggen at the American Agronomy Society meeting in Columbus, Ohio.

Soil surveys — samplings based on color, texture, structure, acidity and depth of the soil, help land planners predict how an area will respond to any given treatment or use.

Beatty outlined four stages of land use planning: creating community awareness of land use problems, analysis of available soils information, preparation of plans and putting them into effect.

He stressed the importance of education in putting these plans into effect through zoning, official mapping, subdivision ordinances and sanitary and building codes.

Beatty explained how the Wisconsin State Board of Health uses soil survey information to review plans for proposed subdivisions: "In 1965, the board has objected to about 25 per cent of the plats submitted on the basis of soils information," Beatty said.

Plats are surveyers' maps showing exact distances, directions and sizes of proposed building lots.

He said this resulted in approximately 400 home sites removed from plats, usually because of soils not suited for supporting septic tanks, foundations, roads, or which may be subject to flooding.

Buffalo County

"We feel not having these homes built is of great value, since it might have eventually lower property values, created a health problem and increased public maintenance costs," he said.

Beatty also cited the Buffalo County zoning ordinance project in soil survey maps are used as zoning base maps, with nearly half the districts in the area directly related to soil surveys.

Such maps are usually drawn on aerial photographs of the area, showing the kinds of soil present, their location and extent. "The soils information had a major role in educating the people of Buffalo county about the ordinance," Beatty said. "We think it hastened local acceptance."

Marketing Is Iowa Theme

Strong Programs Aim at National Agricultural Parley

More than 300 of the nation's leaders in agricultural marketing will meet in Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 9-11, for the 13th annual National Marketing Service Workshop.

Methods of strengthening marketing programs for agricultural commodities will be discussed.

Theme of this year's meeting, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service in conjunction with state departments of agriculture, is "A Look at Current and Prospective Marketing Needs and Opportunities."

Specialists from industry, trade groups, state and federal departments of agriculture and land-grant universities will analyze marketing problems associated with recent changes in the agricultural economy, and seek to develop possible solutions that could assist producers and marketing agencies in adjusting to these changes.

Special attention will be given certain phases of the marketing process—transportation, foreign markets, improving the marketing structure, and new challenges in market development and market information.

Supplemental Irrigation Cuts Corn Planting Barrenness

Higher Competition, Shortage of Water Reduce Per Acre Yields

Farmers are planting higher populations of corn as they seek ever higher yields. As stands go to 20,000 plants per acre and higher competition becomes intense, and some plants fail to produce ears. With water shortages, barren plants become a real problem.

Speaking at the American Society of Agronomy meeting in Columbus, Ohio, this week, University of Wisconsin Agronomists R. H. Andrew and M. O. Groskopp told how serious barrenness can be and how supplemental irrigation can reduce it.

Tests of plant populations on loamy sand in central Wisconsin, corn barrenness averaged 19 per cent without irrigation. Watering the crop relieved much of the problem, but fields still had 2 per cent barren plants. It increased approximately 3 per cent on the average with every increase of 4,000 plants per acre. Pushing up plant population from 12,000 to 24,000 plants per acre could mean 10 per cent barren plants in the corn field even under irrigation.

Drouth increased the problem in 1964. Irrigated fields had only 1 per cent barrenness, but fields that got no supplemental water that year had as high as 49 per cent barren plants.

In high populations competition for water, light and fertilizer becomes too great, and some plants just can't produce ears. But the critical factor is water. If thickly planted fields get enough extra water, they will usually produce satisfactory ears.

Some varieties will show barrenness at high populations even if water is adequate. At heavy planting, high fertility will help reduce barren plants.

Andrew, speaking on a related topic said that the number, size, and type of roots may give some clues to the response you can expect from the above-ground parts of the plants. Plants with more roots in proportion to tops will yield better, resist faster from root damage.

The argonomist told how he was able to observe and measure roots of living plants by growing them in jars in a nutrient solution. He could measure, weigh and count roots without destroying the plants.

Andrew found that sweet corn has a lower proportion of roots in relation to tops than does field corn; corn inbreds had different patterns of temporary and permanent roots and different rates of root growth; plants with high root volume and number recovered faster when some of the roots were removed or pruned.

Check, Repair Lawn Furniture

BY COURTNEY SCHWERTZ

Checking and repairing lawn and patio furniture now will save you the job next spring — and it will be ready to use for that first barbecue or outing.

You can prevent aluminum from tarnishing or darkening by waxing with auto paste wax. Before waxing, clean the aluminum with a powdered wall cleaner or mixture of baking soda in water. Avoid getting any wax on plastic webbing.

Paint wrought iron furniture to prevent rusting, scrub with a stiff wire brush and sand before painting. Rust must be removed or it will spread under the coat of new paint.

Use metal primers that contain zinc chromate or red lead. Finish off the job with a coat of high quality exterior enamel, implement enamel or non-chalking house paint.

You can also paint aluminum or galvanized metal with the above paints. Clean aluminum and weathered galvanized steel with a wall cleaner or mixture of baking soda in water. Then rinse with water before applying the above primers.

Wooden furniture also needs fall care. The presently manufactured clear finishes break down quickly and need frequent refinishing jobs.

To refinish faded stained furniture, apply steel wool to the surface and put on another coat of stain. Thin the stain at the rate of one cup of mineral spirits paint thinner or turpentine to a quart of stain.

If you need to repaint blistered or peeled wooden items, remove the loose paint and sand. Prime bare wood with premium quality zinc-free house paint primer. Then apply non-chalking house paint or exterior enamel.

Treat the bottom of wooden legs with a water repellent wood decay. If you plan to paint afterwards, be sure to use the paintable type preservative. Allow several days drying time before painting over the preservative.

Badger Co-Op Schedules 2 Fall Rallies

SHAWANO — Two fall rallies remain for members of Consolidated Badger Cooperative, Brussels, on Monday and Shawano Nov. 15.

Two other rallies were held at Appleton and Seymour this week.

Topics ranged from the dairyman's class I base plan, the firm's manufacturing milk bulk program and financing program and federal milk market orders.

Speaking were General Manager George Rupple, Frank Meyer, public relations director; Clyde Brunner, procurement director, and Neil McBeath, marketing director.

Farm Labor Shortages

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — State Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner says farm labor shortages have appeared in Florida, even before winter harvest gets started. In mid October there were three per cent fewer domestics and 67 per cent fewer foreign workers than 12 months ago, Conner says.

the property. The farm woodlot can be used for visitors who want to camp on a farm.

Rates charged are $6-$9 per day for board and room for adults, $3-$6 for children. Food service accounts for most of the profit because milk, meat, and vegetables are produced on the farm. "But the woman is the key to meal time," Monthey points out. "If the extra food preparation is too heavy a burden, you may have to hire help."

Summer is the farmer's busiest season. But it's important to spend time with the guests so they will have a satisfying experience. The most successful guest farms are those with a minimum of farming — grassland farms, or beef farms, for example.

Start Associations

There are advantages to working as a group, sharing costs of advertising material and referring inquiries to nearby farmers when your space is filled. Ohio farmers have formed county and state vacation associations.

Interested prospects live not only out-of-state in Chicago and the Twin Cities, but in Wisconsin cities, too — Milwaukee, Madison, and elsewhere. Former rural residents often like to return to the farm to relive their earlier days, and to give their youngsters a farm-style vacation.

600 Cattle Expected At Bonduel

BONDUEL — More than 600 head of feeder cattle have been consigned by members of the Northeast Wisconsin Beef Producers Cooperative to a sale here Saturday at the Equity Livestock Auction Market.

There will be approximately 250 steer calves, 225 heifer calves, 75 yearling steers and 50 yearling heifers. These are mostly Hereford and Angus with some crossbreds, and a few dairy-bred steers.

Animals will be graded by a grader trained and approved by the University of Wisconsin Meat and Animal Science Department and sorted into uniform lots according to grade, sex, weight and breed. The auction will start at 12:30 p.m.

Equity Livestock Sales Association is cooperating by making their sales facilities available to members of the Northeast Wisconsin Beef Producers Cooperative.

Inventors Get Patents on Handling of Farm Silage

Three Fox Valley region inventors have received patents from the U.S. Patent Office for improvements in handling silage.

Urban J. Coenen, Kaukauna, has invented a silage distributor which directs the material to the side so it forms a cone-type pattern and aids flow of juices toward the center of the silo.

Coenen's distributor is a high speed impeller or fan that rotates so the silage is discharged through a side outlet toward the silo wall. It is suspended from the silo roof.

Silage Kept Compact

The housing receives the silage from a filling blower either directly or through an auger conveyor. By keeping the silage relatively compact in a stream the fine material does not separate from the heavy material.

Coenen has not assigned his patent rights.

James Beebe, New London, and Eivind Rambo, Ogdensburg, received a patent for their "Self Sealing Gate and Trough Construction." They have assigned their patent to Avco Corp.

The patent is for improvements to the design of gates on a bunk feeder shaft. They must be properly balanced so they withstand pressure and deflection from the feed within the trough.

The center of gravity on the gates is such as to resist opening. The trough is seated automatically and efficiently when the gates are closed.

Better Marketing Advocated For Farm Bargaining Power

AFB President Schuman Testifies At National Commission Hearing

WASHINGTON — Bargaining power of farmers can be improved "through the organized, but voluntary efforts of producers to improve the efficiency of the marketing system," said Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Wednesday at a hearing conducted by the National Commission on Food Marketing.

He said the disadvantages inherent in government control programs have led the Farm Bureau to explore ways and means of improving per family net farm income through non-governmental action.

"The American Agricultural Marketing Association (AAMA), was organized in January 1960 as an affiliate of the American Farm Bureau Federation to assist State Farm Bureau-affiliated associations in carrying out existing marketing programs and in setting up new projects to cope with the many revolutionary marketing changes which have been taking place in recent years," he said.

Use of Contracts

The action resulted from changes in "specialization, concentration of buying by fewer purchasers, volume buying on specification, increased direct marketing, more general use of contracts in production and marketing. They call for new approaches and a greater emphasis on the bargaining type of organization."

"Key aspect of program involves the negotiation of advance contracts," Shuman said, and "an increased emphasis on efforts to organize and coordinate contracting activities."

Shuman said, "Sales have been negotiated by state association for producers of both apples and tomatoes. Attention has also been given to asparagus, broccoli, cucumbers, lima beans, snap beans, timber, fowl, feeder cattle, apricots, potatoes, soybeans, swine, and peaches.

"Studies are now under way to determine Farm Bureau's role in the marketing of broilers, potatoes, dry beans, wool, livestock, soft red winter wheat, and dairy products.

Made Progress

"We have made progress in building a better understanding of our market-bargaining concept through this approach," he said.

"However," he added, "processor resistance to negotiations with a bargaining association is still very strong."

"Legislation has been introduced to make it an untair trade practice for a processor to discriminate against a member of a marketing association and we are hopeful that the appropriate committees soon will hold hearings."

Lucky Star 4-H Club Picks New Officers; Joins Fund Drive

New officers of the Lucky Star 4-H Club have been elected for the season.

They are president, Karen Fehrman; vice president, Russell Boers, secretary, Linda Springstroh; Mary Fisher, treasurer; Gary Springstroh, reporter; James Wendt, sergeant-at-arms.

Envelopes for the fund drive for the mentally retarded children have been distributed to each family in the club.

Grange Wants Bargaining Right Protected

Harold Graham Says Organization Must Copy Labor Actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Grange said today the time is near for legislation to protect the right of farmers to organize and bargain collectively "without suffering blacklisting and boycotts."

"Just as labor has demonstrated its right to protect its own markets through collective bargaining," legislative representative Harold L. Graham said, "the time is fast approaching when agriculture must do precisely the same thing."

Unless public responsibility increases to the point that it is willing to permit agriculture "to improve its market and receive a return from the users of their products" as other segments of the economy do, he said, "the problems of inequities in farm income will remain with us."

Marketing Hearing

The Grange position was given in testimony prepared for the opening of the 11th series of hearings by the National Commission on Food Marketing, headed by chairman Paul S. Gibson, retired chief justice of the California Supreme Court.

The Grange recommendations included proposed legislation strengthening cooperatives and permitting additional mergers among them.

Farm Union Wants Long Term Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farmers Union called today for legislation setting up a revolving fund for making long-term, low interest loans to farmer - consumer cooperatives "on a massive scale."

NFU President James G. Patton recommended this as part of a legislative package he said also should include extension of the minimum wage law "to all of those engaged in agricultural production."

He outlined the union's aims in testimony for concluding public hearings by the National Commission on Food Marketing, which is studying the marketing of food from producer through the retail outlet.

He suggested a program of long-term, low-interest rate loans administered along the lines of those made by the Rural Electrification Administration.

Specialist Says Soil Should be Sampled Now
UW Expert Reports Results Are Better if Tests Done in Fall
Farmers planning to have their soil tested before next crop season will beahead if they take samples now, says Harold H. Hull, University of Wisconsin soil testing specialist.
Soil test results tell the amounts of available soil nutrients and soil acidity. They are the best guide to buying lime and fertilizer.
Phone PL 7-5409 Today
Now you can have all the benefits of fall fertilization without having money tied up in fertilizer all winter. We will give you delayed April 1 payment on fertilizer bought now. You pay for it about the same time as fertilizer bought for spring application!
Here's why Greenville Co-op is offering this new service. Even in a normal spring there's little enough time to spread fertilizer, get the land in shape and the planting done. By getting fertilizer on in the fall, you avoid a gamble with the weather. Then, too, most farmers have more time now to carry out a complete fertilizer program including soil testing. Your fields are more firm in the fall . . . application is faster & easier with less soil compaction. You'll find, too, that fertilizer prices are normally lower in the fall.
Add up these many advantages of fall fertilization including Greenville Co-op's new service of April 1 payment. See if you don't come out way ahead.

Liens Against Cars Will be Centrally Filed

Motor Vehicle Department Will Keep Listings

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Central filing of automotive liens with the State Motor Vehicle Department, as directed in a new act of the legislature awaiting the approving signature of Gov. Knowles, is "epochal" in its importance, according to the Wisconsin Automotive Trades Association.

The association hailed the legislature's acceptance of its plan for the listing on certificates of title issued by the state department of all liens against the vehicle.

The measure will provide a protection for dealers and finance agencies that has long been needed, said the association, which persuaded the legislature to abandon the traditional system of filing for the record such liens in the county registers' of deeds offices.

June, 1966

The effective date for the proposed new system is June, 1966. A delay is required to permit the state department to design a new certificate of title to provide for lien notations, copies for lien holders, and the staffing of a new lien recording section. There will be a one dollar charge for the recording and releasing of a lien, to be paid by the debtor, under the new legislation.

The measure provides that no lien will be valid unless it is recorded on the certificate of title.

Outstanding liens on record on the effective date must be cleared within three years of their original filing dates. Special colors or notations will be used to designate uncleared titles at that time.

'Great Story to Tell About Agriculture'

Farm Group Warned to Erase Hostile Public Image Regarding Ban on Oleo

Post-Crescent News Service

MADISON — The determined lady with the green hat and big, black purse was waging a table-hopping campaign in the hotel coffee shop.

"Look, my dear," she accosted a feminine breakfast customer, resting her reticule. "Look — the farmers won't allow colored oleo in Wisconsin and we need your help in circulating these petitions."

The lady customer was hardly enthusiastic. She indicated belief that the oleo ban was good for the Wisconsin dairy farmer and that the farmer was good for business.

"This is really going to help the farmer," the lady came back. "Right now there are seven states that don't allow Wisconsin cheese to be sold . . . Seven states are outlawing our cheese because of the Wisconsin oleo law."

Talking Through Hat

Later in the conversation the states numbered eight, and the feminine customer accepted a sheaf of petition forms yielded by the big, black purse. "I'll have to think about it," she said.

The determined lady was, of course, talking through her green hat. No states are banning Wisconsin cheese, and couldn't if they tried.

But the incident illustrates what farmers everywhere today are up against. They have fences to fix. Or perhaps, as in the case of oleomargarine, to tear down.

A better public image is what agriculture needs.

Public relations was the main topic on the agenda at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Council of Agricultural Cooperatives in Madison last week.

Experts in the business analyzed the problem and ventured advice.

'Selfish Power Group'

"The urban mind sees agriculture as a small, selfish power group — not as the provider of food and fiber for our very existence."

That was the realistic observation of Dr. Scott Cutlip, professor of journalism at the University of Wisconsin.

Farmers need to get the public better acquainted with them and farmers need to know each other better, remarked A. F. Kemnitz, of Bloomington, Ill., public relations director for F. S Services, Inc.

"It is difficult to get real mad at someone you know real well," Kemnitz observed.

"We have a great story to tell about American agriculture, where 6 per cent of the world's people have 16 per cent of the world's food and fiber," declared Donald N. McDowell, director of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture.

Hostile Attitude

Cutlip defined what he called a hostile urban attitude toward agriculture:

"They see high food costs, big farmers getting rich, costly subsidies financed by taxation and planned food shortages

"They see farmers getting special favors through such things as cooperatives and easy credit. They see a bureaucracy of the USDA, agricultural research creating a surplus and farmers wielding a disproportionate political power."

There is little understanding or appreciation, Cutlip observed, of what agriculture is and what it requires.

He stressed that farmers must face the fact that their political powers are waning.

Oleo, he said, is in.

"You may win the present oleo battle, but you will lose the war," Cutlip predicted.

"This is an antiquated and discriminatory law — and I speak as one who prefers butter but resents the lack of choice."

Improve Relations

In view of their image, in view of the big changes occurring in our society, Cutlip continued, it is imperative for agriculture to improve its public relations.

"Too many in agriculture think public relations means political pressure or whitewash," he commented. "But an effective public relations program requires skill and constant attention. Today we see staffs of paid public relations practitioners in all places, including the highest levels of government."

He explained three functions of a public relations staff — to interpret public opinion to management, to counsel management on how to cope with public opinion, to interpret the organization to its various publics.

"The steady growth in the power of public opinion compels adequate communication. Remember that the struggle to align people is becoming increasingly competitive," the professor of journalism admonished the farmers.

Gone for sure are the days when a politician could run successfully for the Wisconsin Legislature on a platform of vehement opposition to the cottonseed cow.

Or when a legislature could enact a law requiring a serving of cheese with every restaurant meal.

There are too many big, black purses today.

Deny Effort to Aid Viet Cong

Red Cross to Assist In Blood Collection For South Viet Nam

A statement denying any connection with efforts being made in this country to collect blood, funds or other relief supplies for Viet Cong or North Vietnam has been made by American Red Cross officials.

The statement was released in connection with a news story on college blood collections which had been released by the Defense Department Oct. 26.

In part, the Defense Department release read, "In response to offers from college and university students throughout the county to donate blood as a gesture of support of U.S. efforts in Vietnam, the department has asked the Red Cross to make the necessary arrangements to collect it."

Red Cross officials said, however, they are working with many student groups which have expressed a desire to give blood and provide other services in support of United States efforts in South Vietnam.

Arrangements are being made to send bloodmobiles to college and university campuses where student leaders are recruiting volunteer blood donors.

More than 70 American Red Cross field directors, their assistants, hospital, social and recreation workers and clubmobile girls are now working in the war-torn country.

Staff Named For School Yearbook

5 Departments List Workers For '65 'Clarion'

Editorial staff members of "Clarion," Appleton High School yearbook, have been selected. New staff members will work under the direction of Mary Rae, editor-in-chief, and Gayle Davies, assistant editor.

Anne Joseph, Elizabeth McIntyre, Mary Murray, Kay Olm, Karen St. John and Kris Van DeWeghe have been appointed to the organizations section to work with associate editors Denise Lipske and Martha Miles.

Jan Dutcher, Margaret Hollinger and Constance Schuh will work on the faculty section under the associate editors Laura Williamson and Julia Pierson.

Classes Section

New staff members for the classes section are Susan Fraser, Karen Herbolzheimer and Ellen Schumaker, who will work with associate editors Virginia Freschl and Beth Schmalz. The sports section staff will include James Fine, Robert Richards and Jeff Riester. Russ Berggren is sports editor.

Daniel Weiland and Mark Wollage have been named to the photography staff to work with photography editor Dale Christensen.

The 1965 "Clarion," produced by the 1965 business and editorial staffs, received a first class honor rating from the National Scholastic Press Association.

"Clarion" adviser is Joel Newman of the AHS English department. Mrs. Arthur Borchardt, AHS mathematics teacher, is assistant adviser.

Open House Scheduled at AHS Monday

Open house at Appleton High School for parents of all AHS students will be held Monday. Visitors will meet in the auditorium at 7 p.m. where school administrative personnel will be presented and the evening's procedure explained.

Following the general meeting, parents will follow a shortened version of their child's schedule. Class periods will last 15 minutes each. Earlier this week, invitations and the individual daily schedules were sent home with each student.

Members of the AHS Ushers' Club will be stationed throughout the building to aid parents in finding rooms. Student Council representatives and officers will assist in the office area.

Parents may go to the study hall locations or the cafeteria during free, lunch, or study periods. They also are invited to visit the library or the art exhibit of student work in the third floor west corridor during such hours.

Police Investigating Hit-Run Complaint

KAUKAUNA—Police are investigating the complaint of Michael Hartzheim, 16, 221 Jefferson St., Kaukauna, that the car he was driving north on Lawe Street about 9:40 p.m. Wednesday was damaged by an unknown vehicle traveling in the opposite direction.

Hartzheim told police, the other vehicle crossed the center line of the road, hit the back end of his car and continued south on Lawe.

Newsletter About Schools Mailed

KIMBERLY—The first publication of a school board "Newsletter" has been mailed to residents of the district, purpose of the publication being to acquaint all residents of things taking place in the school system.

The publication handles information not ordinarily released through regular news media. Comments and suggestions were requested on the effort by school board members and Ray Hamann, superintendent of schools. The publication is a 4-page sheet and includes a statement on educational aims and objectives by Darrell Larson, high school principal, and a calendar of school events for November and December.

The publication was designed to be released in conjunction with National Education Week. Tentative plans call for the newsletter to be sent every two months. Future issues will carry reports from other school principals.

Indians Ban Subversive Group Membership

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — The National Congress of American Indians has passed without dissent a resolution expelling any member found to belong to any ground listed by the U S attorney general as subversive.

The resolution was one of 17 passed Thursday at the Indians' 22nd annual convention.

Legislature Finishes 5-Week Fall Session

Associated Press Writer

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles could claim today an important personal victory in passage of an open housing bill, but couldn't count himself a big winner in the Legislature's fall session.

The Republican chief executive stepped out of his normal hands off role with legislators and swung enough weight in the GOP - dominated Senate to gain passage of what will become Wisconsin's first open housing law.

The five-week session, which ended Thursday night, received its instructions in a speech by Knowles on the opening Tuesday. The broad seven-point program included bonding proposals to accelerate highway construction and the development of state recreational land.

Other Measures

Knowles also championed measures in the areas of highway safety, water pollution and open housing. Most of the proposals were laid aside until spring.

It took four amendments, personal persuasion by the governor and 15 hours of talk extending over three days to pull the housing measure through the Senate.

The 18-14 roll call was recorded Saturday and three days later the Assembly concurred in the Senate changes, completing action on the subject that produced more words than any other.

The bipartisan bill would prohibit racial or religious discrimination in the sale, rental or financing of private housing. It also would broaden Wisconsin's public accommodations law.

Other Exemptions

A homeowner, selling or renting the house in which he lives, would not be subject to the bill. Owner - occupied apartments and rooming houses of four units or fewer also would be exempt.

Newly constructed houses are automatically included under the bill which was originally drafted by two Assembly Republicans, William Steiger of Oshkosh and Thomas Barland of Eau Claire.

Fighting Mood

The bill would liberalize the State Public Accommodations law. It would prohibit discrimination in public places such as hotels, motels, resorts, restaurants, taverns, barbershops, nursing homes and cemeteriese.

To the thinking of the Legislature's only Negro, Assemblyman Lloyd Barbee, D - Milwaukee, this section is the most important. It was virtually ignored throughout the long months of debate.

The Legislature returned

Lawmakers In Recess Until May

By HARVEY BREUSCHER
Associated Press Writer

MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Legislature put a finishing flourish to its fall session Thursday night that made the five-week meeting more productive than predicted.

The state lawmakers won't return to Madison until May 2 and legislation left dangling during the seven - month recess will provide the fuel for a heated election year session.

Most of the important action awaited the last three days of the fall meeting. It was the period in which legislators worked without the $15 a day expense allowances alloted during the first 110 days of the session.

Housing Bill

The period began with final passage of an open housing bill. It wound up Thursday with favorable action on proposals to add $16.5 million to university construction funds and appropriate $681,000 to four state agencies and the University of Wisconsin for a study of water pollution abatement.

For every measure that made it, there was one or more that didn't.

A last ditch effort failed to gain approval of a bill that would repeal Wisconsin's ban on colored oleomargarine and lift the 15 cents a pound tax on the uncolored product.

"If butter can't stand on its own taste and quality we better take it off the shelves," said sponsoring Sen. Casimir Kendziorski, D - Milwaukee. When it became obvious that the senator lacked the votes, he dropped his motion to withdraw the bill from the Agriculture Committee where it has rested since January.

School Aids

An additional school aids bill also was bottled up until spring. The Senate voted to boost the aids $5.6 million in the biennium. The Democratic controlled Assembly made the figure $11.2 million.

Most Senate Republicans called the increase irresponsible and the measure ended up as a special order of business on the May 3 calendar.

The last piece of legislation to clear both houses was a bill primarily of local interest. It would allow Sun Prairie and other communities north of Madison to join the capital city's sewage district and attempt to alleviate the pollution problem in Lake Koshkonong in Jefferson and Rock counties.

Quick approval was given a $462,000 appropriation to match the federal funds for the hiring of psychologists to teach mentally retarded children. The money will defray 70 per cent of local school costs.

Branch Banking

A final move to pass a branch banking bill failed and the measure was laid over until spring.

Sen. Richard Zaborski, D-Milwaukee, noted that the Legislature earlier passed a bill to al-

Rusk Says U. S. Progressing in Viet Nam War

But 'Severe Fight' Lies Ahead, News Conference Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the U.S. struggle against Communist conquest of Viet Nam "has been progressing well" but "severe fighting" still lies ahead.

Rusk told a news conference "we do not yet see," in the behavior of the Communist North Vietnamese, evidence "of the crucial point that they are ready for peace."

On the contrary Rusk noted that they said Thursday that a pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam would not bring peace talks. He also said Communist recruiting of guerrilla fighters in South Viet Nam and heavy infiltration of troops from North Viet Nam continue.

Progressing Well

"Our efforts there have been progressing well," Rusk declared, reflecting the official view that the massive buildup of American forces is turning the tide against the Communists.

"They will not succeed, but there will be difficult times ahead. Severe fighting lies in front of us."

On other subjects, Rusk said:

1. It would be wrong for the U.S. government to try to restrict demonstrations against its Vietnamese policy in any way. He declared there must be "debate and dissent" in a democracy. Yet he said the United States has a dilemma on this issue because the Communists are misled by evidence indicating people are critical of U.S. government policy.

NATO Forces

2. Integration of NATO forces in Europe is required by the hard facts of the situation there, where American troops hold defense positions "surrounded by a sea of foreigners." Rusk thus took sharp issue with French President Charles de Gaulle's call for an end to

The 32nd and the 250th are the new arrivals.

No Comment

Military authorities would not comment on how these two regiments came into the country. They said they had come in since midsummer and were operating in the western part of the 2nd corps area, in the central highlands near the borders of Cambodia and Laos.

A U.S. spokesman said the presence of the North Vietnamese units had been confirmed through interrogation of prisoners and captured documents and from persons who had come over to the government side. He said there was no evidence that the North Vietnamese regiments are operating together.

Spokesmen said little significant contact with the Viet Cong had been reported throughout the country in the past 24 hours.

Officers said they had few details of the helicopter collision. The two helicopters were en route to An Khe from the Plei Me area, where troops of the 1st Cavalry have been hunting down Communist troops since the siege of the Plei Me camp was lifted 11 days ago.

Operation Zone

It was not known whether the helicopters were returning troops from the operation zone.

An eyewitness said one of the helicopters caught fire, hit the tail of the second and both then crashed and burned.

De Gaulle Tells Candidacy; French Race Virtually Over

At Least Five Will Oppose President, but Without Hope

PARIS (AP) — The French presidential race was in effect over today, even before it officially starts, with President Charles de Gaulle generally conceded a sure victory.

The only suspense of the campaign was ended Thursday night when De Gaulle announced he is willing to be re-elected. Most Frenchmen felt he would run. But De Gaulle has been unpredictable in the past, and no one could be completely sure until he spoke.

At least five candidates will oppose De Gaulle. All have been campaigning vigorously for several weeks, but each admits privately that he has no hope of winning. Unofficial soundings have indicated that De Gaulle might get as much as 65 per cent of the total vote.

Only Hope

The only hope of the opposition candidates is to corral 50 per cent of the vote in the Dec. 5 election. Then there would be a runoff on Dec. 19 between the two top men. De Gaulle's ego might be bruised by failure to get a majority on the first round, but his victory on the second ballot probably would be certain.

The closing date for candidates to file is Nov. 16, and the campaign will not officially open until the next day. In addition to the six principal aspirants, several political unknowns have said they would file.

Party Backing

De Gaulle apparently intends to run with no formal party backing, underlining his often-expressed contempt for the political parties which kept French political life so often in turmoil before De Gaulle came to power. Officials of the Gaullist Union for a New Republic have said they expect to have no part in the campaign as a party. But this will not prevent UNR members from making a maximum personal effort to get the vote out.

Opposing De Gaulle will be: Francois Mitterrand, many times a minister in the Fourth Republic, who has the backing of Socialists, Communists and other left-wing groups. Jean-Louis Tixier-Vignancour, a Paris lawyer long associated with right-wing causes and a minister in the occupation Vichy government; Paul Antier, a former agriculture minister who hopes to get votes from farmers irritated by De Gaulle's Common Market policies; Pierre Marcilhacy, a senator, and Jean Lecanuet, former national president of the Catholic Popular Republican Movement.

Hale, Hearty

De Gaulle, finishing his first seven-year term and turning 75 on Nov. 22, looked hale and hearty, firm and vigorous in his brief television address announcing his decision.

He recalled that he had stepped in 25 years ago to speak for France after the Nazis overran the country. He said he returned to power in 1958 "to avoid civil war."

Now, he continued, "I believe I must hold myself ready to carry on my task, judging fully what an effort it will be, but convinced that presently it is the best way to serve France."

It will be France's first direct election of a president, and the first time that De Gaulle's name has appeared on a ballot presented to the general electorate.

In the past, French presidents have been chosen by an electoral college made up of members of Parliament, regional councilors and municipal councilors.

Fear Saboteurs

State of Emergency Called in Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A countrywide state of emergency was proclaimed in Rhodesia today.

The action sparked speculation in the Rhodesian capital that Prime Minister Ian Smith was paving the way to seize independence from Britain.

A surprised government official, who first heard of the emergency when handed a press statement by a newsman, said: "You don't have to read between the lines too closely to guess what is going on."

Security Threat

Rhodesia's minister of justice, law and order, Desmond Lardner-Burke, who ordered the state of emergency for three months, said it was necessary because of a threat to security in Rhodesia. He said trained African saboteurs were either at large in Rhodesia or poised in territories to the north.

"The public is, of course, well aware of incidents of arson, violence, intimidation and other subversive activities taking place in this country at present," said Lardner-Burke.

Newsmen, however, could not recall immediately any incidents of this nature in the last few weeks.

"Trained Saboteurs"

A government spokesman said there were "numerous trained saboteurs sponsored by both proscribed African nationalist organizations" — the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union and the Zimbabwe African National Union. The leaders of both have been confined to remote areas of the country.

The spokesman said some of the saboteurs were at large in Rhodesia and in neighboring countries.

Rescue Parties Search for Wrecked Plane

PANAMA (AP) — Rescue parties searching for a missing Argentine air force plane set out today for a spot in the Costa Rican jungle where helicopter pilot reported signs of an air crash.

The plane, a DC4 carrying 55 Argentine military cadets, 5 officers and 9 crewmen, disappeared Wednesday on a flight from the Canal Zone to the United States.

The helicopter, one of 36 aircraft, taking part in the search, reported that trees in the jungle 25 miles east of San Jose, Costa Rica, appeared to have been felled by a crashing plane.

The missing plane had reported one engine on fire. It was one of two DC4s that took off from the Canal Zone for a scheduled refueling stop in San Salvador. The other plane reached San Salvador without difficulty.

$3 Million WSU Facility

Platteville Building Falls Injuring 16 Men

PLATTEVILLE (AP)—Sixteen workers were injured, one of them seriously, when an upper section of a $3 million building under construction at Platteville State University collapsed Thursday night, plunging them 30 feet in a flood of wet concrete, wood and steel.

Louis Correll Jr., about 21, of Platteville remained in serious condition today at a Cuba City hospital. A total of eight workmen were hospitalized, most of them at Platteville. State inspectors were called to the scene to determine the cause of the collapse.

A spokesman for the general contractor, the WSC Construction Co. of Winona, Minn., said the building was scheduled for completion in late 1966.

Police Chief Clay Mellor said 20 men were pouring concrete for the southwest wing of the Science and Engineering building when the accident occurred. Five escaped without injury, he said.

The chief said the building is so designed that there is no second floor beneath the wing that fell.

"When they brought the men out of that wet concrete, you couldn't tell one from the other," the chief said. "All were covered with the stuff and the rescuers had to wade in concrete that came to the top of their rubber boots."

After 8 p.m.

The concrete reportedly was hardening at a rapid pace, adding to the ruin of the partially completed structure still without walls.

The workmen began pouring the concrete Thursday afternoon. The accident occured shortly after 8 p.m.

A student said he heard "an awful crash and then I saw the building going down."

28 Per Cent Gain Forecast In Clintonville's Population

Planning Consultant Report Cites Need for Continuing Economic Expansion of City

CLINTONVILLE — A 6,300 Clintonville population in 1990 was forecast by Max E. Anderson Associates, Madison, planning consultants, in a preliminary population report presented to the Clintonville planning commission as part of the comprehensive planning program.

The estimate is based on the premise that economic activity will expand to employ all those in the Clintonville labor force. However, if economic activity fails to expand and the present net out-migration of the past decade continues, the 1990 population would probably be closer to 5,300. The maximum indicates a 28 per cent increase in the next 25 years.

Max Anderson, who presented the report, declared industrial expansion in the community could carry the total population figures well beyond the indicated levels. The next report from the Madison firm, dealing with the area's economic base, will examine industrial expansion potentials.

Exceeds Neighboring Cities

While Clintonville's growth the last 111 years has been slow, in the last 20 years Clintonville has grown faster than New London, Waupaca or Shawano. Between 1940 and 1960, Clintonville grew from 4,134 to 4,778, an increase of 644 or 15.6 per cent. Clintonville's 1965 population is estimated at 4,935.

Between 1940 and 1960, Shawano and New London had rates of gain which were only two-thirds or less of the Clintonville rate, while Waupaca was only slightly less than Clintonville.

New London went from 3,671 to 4,066, a gain of 395 persons or 10.8 per cent. Shawano had a gain of 538, going from 5,565 to 6,103, a 9.7 per cent growth. Waupaca rose from 3,458 to 3,984, an increase of 526 or 15.2 per cent.

However, the report pointed out that the rates of increase in New London and Shawano exceeded the increase in Clintonville in the more recent part of the period.

Two Growth Periods

Census reports show Clintonville with a population of 573 in 1880 and 1,466 in 1890, a growth of 155.8 per cent. Establishment of saw mills, grist mills, hostelries and other businesses and agricultural industries accounted for the growth.

The second fastest growth was in the 1910-1920 decade, when population went from 1,747 to 3,275, a change of 87.5 per cent. From 1940 to 1950 the population went from 4,134 to 4,657, an increase of 12.7 per cent. Both decades correlated with expansion of FWD Corp. During both World Wars the company expanded to build thousands of trucks and other vehicles for the Allies.

During the 1940's, Clintonville experienced a net migration into the city of 69 persons. Excess of births over deaths in that span accounted for 454 of the 523 increase. The natural increase of births over deaths is approximately 10 per 1,000 population annually.

Out-Migration

However, during the decade of the 1950's the migration trend reversed itself as the population suffered a net loss of 351 through out-migration. There were 472 more births than deaths but the actual census increase was only 121 persons.

Changes in the age composition of the population are as significant as changes in the city's total population, Anderson reported. The age structure of the city's population has been altered radically by low birth rates during the depression, high birth rates during and following World War II, heavy out-migration of young and middle-aged adults, and longer life spans due to advances in medicine and health.

The total population of the city has grown about 15 per cent in the last 20 years. However, the report shows:

—The number of persons in

Wisconsin Cities Claim CAB Order to End Direct Air Service 'Arbitrary'

CHICAGO (AP) — Attorneys for two Wisconsin cities told the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals Thursday that the Civil Aeronatics Board order taking direct air service away from a number of communities by airport consolidation was "arbitrary and capricious."

A three-judge panel hearing the case took the appeal under advisement.

Howard S. Boros, representing Clintonville, declared that the CAB plant would not improve air service to any of the communities, and that the consolidation plan was determined by an unbalanced and outmoded system.

No Set Policies

Gerald O'Grady, representing Appleton, asserted that the CAB has "no set standards nor policies," and declared that the decision in the Wisconsin cases was inconsistent with decisions made concerning similar cities and similar circumstances elsewhere.

Appleton, Clintonville and Ashland, supported by the state of Wisconsin, are appealing a CAB order which ordered consolidation of air service for Appleton and Oshkosh at Oshkosh, for Clintonville and Green Bay at Green Bay, and for Ashland and Ironwood, Mich., at Ironwood. Ten other communities were involved in the order, which was to have taken effect last January but has been stayed during the court action.

In a similar case earlier this year involving the New England communities of Harford, Conn., and Springfield, Mass., the First District U.S. Court of Appeals found a CAB decision "capricious" and ordered the agency to conduct new hearings on the dispute over Northeast Airlines service.

Expansion Set At Clintonville Nursing Home

Two Wings, 26 Beds To be Added to Unit; Plan New Facilities

CLINTONVILLE — Jack Waite, owner of the Pine Manor Nursing Home, route 3, announced an expansion program this week which will provide additional beds and facilities increasing the present 75-bed accommodations to 101.

Two wings, which will extend to the north in a "V" pattern from the addition which was built in 1960, are scheduled to be completed in six months. Each of the one-story wings is 112 feet long and 40 feet wide.

Twenty-six additional beds will be provided in the new area. Also provided will be a new kitchen, dining room, recreation room which will double as a chapel, laundry room, one large bathroom, eight patient bathrooms, four public rest rooms, barber shop and beauty parlor.

Dining Room

The dining room will seat between 60 and 70 persons and will be available to all patients who are able and prefer not to eat on trays in their rooms, according to Waite. The laundry room will be built in the basement of the 40 x 48 foot kitchen.

The Friendly Aides, who visit Pine Manor every Tuesday afternoon, will conduct programs in the 40 by 42 foot recreational room.

Waite said a sprinkler system for the entire building will be installed for fire protection.

In 1949, when Waite bought Pine Manor, it had 13 beds. In a remodeling program and with a building addition in 1960, capacity was increased to 76 beds. Waite said 34 employes are currently involved with the operation of the nursing home and an additional 10 employes will be needed when the present project is completed.

Clintonville Lumber and Supply Co. is the general contractor.

New London Property Taxes Expected to Decrease in 1966

40-Cent Drop Predicted; Rate to Be Adopted After Nov. 16 Hearing

NEW LONDON — Property taxes here are expected to decrease slightly next year, but how much depends on budget requirements of the state, and Waupaca and Outagamie county boards.

Though the city's total budget is incomplete and won't be set until the city learns how much it has to pay in state taxes and to the two counties, a decrease of about 40-cents per $1,000 assessed valuation is indicated at present. The rate will be adopted after the public hearing at 8 p.m., Nov. 16.

A decrease would be brought about by a slight drop in the school needs and the use of $100,000 in surplus funds to meet the local requirements of the city operational budget. A broadened tax base and increased outside income, coupled with stable state and county requirements, also would help in holding down the amount of property tax.

School Costs

For 1966, the city will be asked to contribute $424,973 as its share of the school district budget. This is $12,528 less than for the current year, when $437,501 of the city's $1,078,387 budget went for schools.

Because the city is in two counties, it has two different total tax rates. Responsible is the variation between Waupaca and Outagamie County in county and state taxes.

This year, for example, the total rate in wards in Waupaca County was $55.21 per $1,000 assessed valuation while in Outagamie it was $51.99.

School Rate Down

The school rate next year will drop $1.80 per $1,000 assessed valuation to $33.38. The decrease more than offset the increase in city spending.

A record total of $621,636 has been proposed as the local portion of the 1966 budget. This is $113,382 more than the city spending plan of $508,254 adopted for the current year's operation.

The hike will be met by $100,000 in surplus funds, increases in outside income and drop in school requirements.

Total revenues other than property tax are estimated at $427,183, $91,937 more than the $335,246 from outside sources included in the 1965 budget.

Increase In Levy

A $21,446 increase in the levy, bringing it from $173,007 this year to $194,454 for 1966, makes up the difference.

The levy increases, though spread over a broadened tax base, results in a $1.38 increase of the tax rate for local operation, raising the portion of the budget for city operation from $13.90 per $1,000 to $15.28 for 1966.

New London this year had a total assessed valuation of $12,442,375 with $2,774,300 in Outagamie County and $9,668,075 in Waupaca County. Taxable property on which the 1966 rate will be based amounts to $12,731,625 with $2,859,250 in Outagamie and $9,872,375 in Waupaca.

Major local expenditures proposed are $168,450 for outlay and $126,750 for streets and other transportation facilities. Outlay more than doubled as it increased by $84,258, while street work increased by $2,370. A storm sewer project in the southwestern section of the city accounted for most of the outlay increase. The sewer project will cost an estimated $83,200.

Other proposed expenditures are general government, $63,831, up $5,900; protection of persons and property, $97,701, up $8,172; health and sanitation, $46,655, up $2,430; education and recreation, $41,648, up $3,121; charity, $16,600, no change; indebtedness, $16,350, down $1,687, development, $1,100, no change; and unclassified, $48,551, up $13,850.

The 1966 state and county rates cannot be determined until the counties adopt their budgets and apportion the levies out to their component tax units.

Mobile Homes Fee Increased

Fremont Hikes Cost Of Keeping Unit in Court to $10 a Month

FREMONT—A fee increase for mobile homes parked in the trailer court will become effective Dec. 1.

The fee to the village was increased from $5 to $10 per month which is now the same for all mobile homes parked anywhere within village limits. The trailer court is owned by Walter Brey.

Persons wishing to locate their trailers are required to fill out an application form. If it is accepted, the owner will be issued a permit which must be displayed on the home.

Village board members Tuesday stated the increase was not unjust. In many areas of the state the parking fee is based on school taxes within the community. The average school tax per person multiplied by the average number of occupants of a mobile home and divided by twelve would bring the parking fee in the village up to $16.50 they claimed.

Negligence Found In Fatal Accident

New London Youth to be Charged After Coroner's Jury Finding

A six-man coroner's jury deliberated 45 minutes Thursday afternoon before returning a finding of negligent homicide against Gregory Popke, 19, 604 Wallace St., New London, driver of a car involved in an accident that claimed the lives of three members of a Park Falls family Oct. 1.

Outagamie County Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer and Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said today they will recommend a warrant be issued by the court formerly charging Popke with negligent homicide.

Killed in the accident about 7:20 p.m. Oct. 1 on U.S. 45, just west of Greenville Corners, were Charles R. Bradle, 19, driver of one of the cars, his sister, Ruth, 10, and a brother, Michael, 2. The Bradles were enroute to Appleton.

Popke Okay

Injured were Mrs. Clarence Bradle, 40, mother of the victims, Miss Sandra Wehrman, 16, Park Falls, and Barbara Bradle, sister of the victims. Popke, who was alone in his car, was not seriously injured.

Outagamie County Traffic Officer Edward Metko, one of the investigators at the fatal crash, testified as to road and weather conditions, measurements taken and positions of the Bradle and Popke cars after they crashed nearly headon.

Metko said the accident occurred near a curve and the crest of a hill.

Others Testify

Wilfred Lindberg, 31, Greendale, and his brother-in-law, Alan R. Waldron, 33, Hales Corners, also were called to testify. Waldron was driver and Lindberg a passenger in a car passed by Popke just prior to the crash, they testified.

The men said the Popke car, after passing their vehicle, attempted to pass a second car in front of them, but suddenly swerved back into the right lane, then crossed back into the left lane, colliding with the oncoming Bradle car.

A fifth witness, Gerald L. Peebles, 23, Milwaukee, driver of the second car Popke allegedly attempted to pass, said he saw the Popke car approaching in the left lane, through his rear view mirror, then saw the Bradle car approaching from the north. He said he could see the cars collide when he looked in the rear view mirror.

Last to testify was Popke who said he was going home from work as a shoe salesman in

School Board Plans Aid Use For Shiocton

Federal Funds Available to Help Deprived Students

SHIOCTON—Programs to utilize the $29,311 allotted the school district under the federal elementary and secondary act, or anti-poverty program, were discussed at a recent board of education meeting.

Possibilities included adding two teachers—one elementary and one high school—to work with other teachers in giving special help to the educationally deprived; remodeling some high school rooms to improve class facilities, and purchase of special instrumental materials in music, art and physical education for deprived children.

In other action, the board approved purchase of two Latin American drums, four chimes and an electric chord organ for the music department at about $200. Also approved were purchase of twelve varsity warm-up jerseys for $225 and installation of two 20-foot rows of fluorescent lights in one of the basement classrooms at $250.

Education Week

Marvin Obry, superintendent, was authorized to proceed with making arrangements for digging and laying 300 feet of drainage tile from the athletic field to a village catch basin. Water this spring did not drain from the field.

American Education Week will be observed in the system next week with parent-teacher conferences 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., next Friday.

Classes will not be conducted that day. Parents will meet with teachers to discuss curricula and their children's progress.

Report cards are scheduled to be distributed Tuesday.

County Patrol Report

57 Mishaps in October Recorded at Waupaca

WAUPACA — The 57 accident reports filed with the Waupaca County Traffic Patrol during October has raised the year's county total to 481 or 77 more than last year's 10-month figure, according to Patrol Capt. John Penney.

One of the accidents resulted in the death of an Ogdensburg youth. The death toll on roads and highways in the county for 1965 is nine, the same as last year at this time.

Fifty accidents were investigated by the county patrol, five were handled by the sheriff's department, one by the state patrol and one by another police department in the county.

There were 16 persons injured in the accidents involving 74 vehicles.

The county traffic patrol made 55 traffic and eight criminal arrests during October, said Capt. Penney. There were 69 warnings issued to drivers and 33 motorists received 5-day tickets.

Other activities included 25 blood runs, 13 funeral escorts, transportaion of 19 prisoners, assisting 24 motorists in trouble and directing traffic at six fires.

The five squad cars logged 14,237 miles.

Governor to Speak At GOP Dinner Dec. 6 In New Holstein

CHILTON —Gov. Warren P. Knowles has accepted the invitation of Calumet County Republicans to speak at their annual fund-raising dinner Dec. 6 at the Altona Club in New Holstein.

This will be the governor's first official appearance in the county since he took office last January.

Knowles is expected to talk on the problems encountered by the governor during his year in office.

Proceeds of the dinner are used for county campaign activities and to help the party meet its congressional district and state quotas. Tickets for the 7 p.m. dinner will be available from county Republican leaders.

Register of Deeds Report to County Board

Fewer Births, Deaths in Waupaca Last Year

WAUPACA — Both births and deaths in Waupaca County decreased during 1965 while mariages increased, according to the annual register of deeds report submitted to the County Board today by Lester E. Breier.

During the 12-month period ending Oct. 31, there were 624 births recorded, which is 173 less than the 797 recorded in 1964. The number of deaths during the same period totaled 550, which is 41 less than the previous year. Marriages increased from 317 in 1964 to 330 this year, Breier said.

Other vital statistics filed with the Register of Deeds office during the year included 73 delayed birth records prepared and filed compared with 38 last year and 250 armed service discharges.

Delayed Birth Records

As in the past, the number of identification cards issued by the office increased. This year, Breier issued 501 cars compared with 357 last year.

Breier also reported that in the past year 4,604 entries were made in the real estate fee book of which 103 were filed including eight plats and seven survey maps. The office had filed 8,121 personal property instruments, such as chattel mortgages.

Photo Copies

The office prepared 1,479 certified and photo copies of discharges and other documents which are made free of charge according to the Wisconsin statutes in regard to veterans. Of this number, 513 were requested by the local veterans' office. Paid certified and photo copies and documents issued totaled 457. Thirty-seven provisions for perpetual care of cemetery plots were recorded and 516 Grand Army Home liens and releases along with 124 old age assistance liens and releases were filed with the office.

Receipts for services provided to the public by the office totaled $18,648 which is $810 more than last year, Breir reported.

$7,468 Fines, Forfeitures

Cases, Collections Increase In Waupaca Municipal Court

WAUPACA — Municipal Justice Court during October handled 256 cases, 54 more than the previous month.

Collections from fines, forfeitures and fees totaled $7,468 in October, an increase from the $5,095 collected in September, according to the report of Justice George Whalen.

The state traffic patrol headed the list in number of cases with 74, followed by the county traffic patrol with 56 and the Conservation Department with 42. The 74 state traffic patrol cases resulted in four motorists being jailed, one placed on probation and one case was dismissed. Two county traffic patrol cases resulted in jail commitments while one was dismissed and one bound over to County Court for trial. The sheriff's department had 34 cases in court with three persons being committed, five dismissed, 12 still pending, five bound to County Court and three persons were placed on probation.

Fine Breakdown

There were 33 City of Waupaca cases with one dismissed and one pending. Other cases brought before the court were three from the City of Weyauwega, seven from Manawa, six from Iola and one from the Town of Farmington.

Mobilization of Wisconsin National Guards Unlikely

Appleton Captain Says Extra Training to Provide Backup

Mobilization of National Guard forces is not likely, according to Capt. Eugene E. Frahm, commanding officer of Headquarters and Headquarters Co., 1st Battalion, 127th Infantry, one of the state units picked for extra training.

"According to latest information available to us," Capt. Frahm said, "the purpose of the training acceleration is to provide a backup force while additional enlistees and draftees are trained for the regular army."

The company has openings for 100 more men because, as one of the selected units, it will be brought up to 100 per cent authorized strength compared to only 60 per cent previously. As part of the accelerated program Headquarters Co. will have 72 four-hour drills a year instead of 48 two-hour sessions as in the past. Capt. Frahm said the increased training was ordered in lieu of mobilization similar to that in 1961 when Wisconsin's 32d Division was called to duty at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

More Equipment

Additional equipment of all kinds, to conduct more extensive and realistic training, is anticipated because of the company's position as a select unit. At 100 per cent strength, the unit will be the largest company in the state located within one city. The other companies selected are located in two cities in one instance and three cities in the other.

Capt. Frahm reminded young men of draft age they can enlist in the National Guard after they have taken their Selective Service physical examination and are awaiting the call to active duty. In addition, they may enlist in the unit after reaching the age of 18 and before they are required to report for their Selective Service examination.

Units of the selected reserve force have been given priority for sending personnel on six months active duty, which has been a requirement for all new enlistees since 1955. In many instances, this could be an advantage to the enlistee in planning his future educational and employment ambitions.

"No Easy Task"

"It is not going to be an easy task to bring the unit up to full strength, but I am confident it can be accomplished with the help and cooperation of the City of Appleton and the surrounding communities," Capt. Frahm said. Information about joining the unit may be secured from Sgt. Richard Lango or C.W.O. Bernard Engel at the National Guard Armory, 327 E. College Ave., between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday or at the Tuesday night drills.

Capt. Frahm also asked the cooperation of the employers of present members and new enlistees in accomplishing the assigned task. The unit now is preparing a list of all the company's scheduled training assemblies up to July 1, 1966. Until the information is received in the mail, Capt. Frahm asked employers to allow their employes to attend all scheduled training assemblies with the unit. "Only in an emergency will an individual be excused from attending a scheduled training assembly and working is not considered such an emergency," he said.

Saw Approaching Headlight

Popke, through questioning by Kemps and Schaefer, indicated there were many things he could not clearly recall about the time just prior to the crash. He said he attempted to turn out of the way when he saw approaching headlights. The car seemed to pull to the left, he said.

Kemps read letters of testimony from Miss Wehrman, who now is in a Park Falls Hospital, and from Mrs. Bradle, who still is in Appleton Memorial Hospital.

Miss Wehrman, in the letter, said she could recall nothing about the accident, only that the car in which she was riding "was hit headon."

Holding Son

Mrs. Bradle, questioned earlier in her hospital room, testified as to the positions of each person in the Bradle car, saying she was holding her son, Michael, in the front seat at the time of the accident.

The two hours of testimony ended at 4 p.m. Jurors were John McCarthy, 319 E. Washington St., Lawrence Mackin, 624 W. 4th St., Howard Van Ryzin, 1719 S. Bouten St., Fred Kurth, 1701 N. Outagamie St., Leonard Geiger, 27 Garden Court, and Joseph E. Appleton, 511 N. Gertrude St., Kaukauna.

Chilton School Plans Open House, Class

CHILTON—Classes will be conducted during open house events scheduled Tuesday evening, at the public elementary school, according to Principal George Herrmann.

Parents are invited to observe the classes, which will begin at 7 p.m. and run for an hour. All students are asked to be present.

Parent-teacher conferences also will be conducted next week, National Education Week.

Conferences in the elementary school are set for all day Wednesday; in the high school during the afternoon and evening Wednesday, and for kindergarten pupils, next Thursday.

New London Youth Loses Right to Drive

NEW LONDON—Gary Nolan, 16, 1006 Menasha St., lost his right to drive for 60 days when he pleaded guilty to a city police charge of driving too fast for conditions. He appeared before Municipal Justice Charles G. Egli Wednesday.

Nolan was involved in an accident Oct. 25 on Junction Road in which he and Patrick Wegner, 16, received minor injuries.

28 Per Cent Rise Seen In Clintonville Count

the school age group, including those now less than 15 years of age, has grown about 25 per cent.

Older Group Doubled

—The number of persons in the older age group, those now 65 or older, has doubled. Many of these people are retired and live on fixed incomes. There is a relatively higher proportion of older people in Clintonville compared to the state as a whole.

—The number of persons in the age group which will add substantially to the city's number of senior citizens over the next several decades, those now between the ages of 45 and 64, has grown about 38 per cent. Clintonville has a slightly higher percentage of persons in this group, compared with state averages.

—The number of persons in the youngest working age groups, those between 15 and 44, has declined by about 16 per cent. In the bracket from 20 to 39 years of age, Clintonville has a smaller porportion of its population compared with state averages.

Labor Force Trends

Labor force trends covered in the report show the number of persons 14 years old and over in Clintonville increased at a somewhat slower rate between 1940 and 1960 than the population as a whole, due to the outmigration of persons in the 15-44 age group and the relatively, rapid increase in the younger age group. The number of persons between 15 and 64 years old increased only slightly (about 15 persons) and those in the remaining age groups of 0-14 years old and 65 years and over increased by about 43 per cent (629 persons).

Although the number in the most productive age groups increased only slightly over the past two decades, the number of persons in the labor force increased by about 28 per cent, due primarily to the increasing number of females seeking work. Less than a fifth of the city's females 14 years old and over were in the labor force in 1940, while the proportion increased to nearly a third in 1960.

The city's female work force in 1960 was more than double that of 1940. The male labor force consists of about three of every four males 14 years old and over and has remained about the same since 1940.

In the 10-year period from 1950 to 1960, the number of occupied dwelling units increased at a faster rate than total population. Population increased 2.6 per cent while the number of occupied dwelling units increased by 9.8 per cent, or more than three and one-half times as fast. This means that the average number of persons per household is declining. The average per occupied dwelling in 1950 was 3.25 persons, and in 1960, the number had declined to 3.03. As this decline occurs, more dwelling units are needed to accommodate the same number of people.

Police Request Kappell Inquest

Oshkosh Chief Says Check Needed to Clear Up Questions

OSHKOSH—City Police Chief Harry A. Guenther Thursday requested an inquest into the death of Stephen Kappell, the Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh student, whose bound and weighted body was found floating in Lake Winnebago Oct. 16.

Guenther said the inquest is requested to clear up several misconceptions concerning the alledged mutilation of the body.

Kappell, 18, a freshman student from Kaukauna, was reported missing from Breese Hall on Sept. 30 and was last seen about 6:30 p.m. Sept. 28. He was found floating in Lake Winnebago by a fisherman. The body was first reported to have been mutilated but later reports denied it.

The body, when found, was nude and was bound with strands of cloth about the hands, and from the knees down to the ankles and was weighted down by a rock about 12 inches in diameter and weighing about 30 pounds.

Date Pending

Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller said the date and time of the inquest is still pending on a meeting with Guenther and Dist. Atty. Gerald Engeldinger. He said he will meet with them in order to coordinate a date.

Guenther said several facts must be brought before the inquest to discount many rumors which have been spread concerning the alledged mutilation.

Investigation by the city police with Sgt. Earl Disch, and Sheriff's Lt. Richard A. Guenther are continuing in an attempt to learn the moves of Kappell prior to his being placed in the lake.

So far investigations have brought forth no evidence as to his whereabouts. Lt. Guenther said this morning.

Scuba Divers Search

Chief Guenther has had scuba divers from the Oshkosh Fire Department combing the bottom of the lake at the municipal boat ramp at Menominee Park just 500 yards southwest of where the body was found.

Traces of cloth were found at the ramp which leads them to believe the apparent murder took place on the shore before the body was placed in the water. A report by Dr. Helen Young of the Milwaukee medical examiner's office, who conducted an autopsy on the body, indicated that death was caused by drowning.

No clothing has been found either on the shore or in the lake but investigators have taken to the air in an attempt to spot something which might lead them to the clothing which is believed to be in the area.

The body was beaten severely about the head but the skull was not fractured, according to of the lake at the municipal autopsy reports.

Will the Chest Fail Again?

The annual Appleton Community Chest fund campaign stood at 57 per cent of its goal at the final report meeting last week. And while there are a number of reports still outstanding, and while it has become traditional in the community that the campaign is never completed within the target period, it will take an heroic effort and a new burst of community support if the campaign is not to fail again

This is a very serious smudge on the reputation of the entire community.

The Chest campaign has exceeded its goal only once in the last eight years. Appleton's record stands in stark contrast to neighboring communities like Green Bay and Oshkosh.

Why should this be?

It would be pointless at this stage to launch into an essay on the merits of the Community Chest concept. Certainly anyone who reads or listens should know by now that the Community Chest is a vehicle for community action to meet vital community needs, a vehicle through which the community is assured that the financial goals sought are realistic ones and that the money donated will be stretched as far as is humanly possible to meet legitimate needs.

The answer to the failure cannot be ascribed to the concept. If there be any logical criticism it is that it has not been carried far enough in the community Like Green Bay and Oshkosh we should be thinking in terms of a United Fund, a campaign which would embrace more appeals and more agencies than the Community Chest now serves.

We also should possibly be thinking of a larger area of operations, certainly all of Outagamie County at the least. Merger of the Chest efforts in all of the Fox Cities including Neenah and Menasha is also worth serious evaluation.

But how can we aspire to larger efforts and larger goals when the present effort is not successful, the present goal not met" It is extremely difficult for the Chest to interest outside agencies in joining the appeal when the current campaign does not succeed.

Let's face up to the real facts The Appleton Community Chest is failing because most people in the community are not doing their fair part. There are too few leading citizens taking part in its efforts, far too few volunteers out making calls, and most important of all, far too few people contributing.

Many of us are giving to the Community Chest what we would tip a waitress for a supper club dinner, or the price of a few martinis. We consider the annual appeal a nuisance, and we get rid of the solicitor with a nuisance gift.

Now is the time to reevaluate this thinking, not on the basis of what does the Community Chest do for me, but what does it do for the community, for everyone living here. Giving to the Chest is like buying insurance. You may not need the service of its agencies now: if you don't, consider yourself fortunate. But there are many less fortunate who are in need And it is our responsibility as citizens to see that these needs are met, met right here at home and not as a handout from Washington.

'It Followed Me Home. Can I Keep It?'

What Did the New York Election Mean?

There will be all sorts of conclusions drawn from the New York mayoralty election for months to come. But one thing seems particularly clear. The winner, John Lindsay, certainly has enhanced his chances for consideration by the Republican Party on a national level His victory was in spite of a considerable split among Republicans in New York and the siphoning off of the more conservative votes by William Buckley.

Lindsay consistently tried to avoid connection with the Republican Party and even had his name listed on the ballot in three places — under Republican, Liberal and Independent columns. This was a plan aimed at luring the New York voters who usually vote Democratic and it obviously was successful. But it should also be noted that the Democratic candidate, Abe Beame, was singularly colorless. As comptroller of the city he had to share some of the disillusion with the regime of Mayor Robert Wagner. The charges of bossism were there. And the luke-warm endorsement by President Johnson was easy to interpret by those who wanted to as really backing for Lindsay.

Was the support for Buckley truly conservative or only amused reaction to his biting wit and devil-may-care attitude? Would a conservative Republican do as well as Lindsay in New York or even as well as Buckley? How much of the enthusiasm for Lindsay will fade when he meets the almost insurmountable obstacles of successfully managing the huge city?

A Republican won in predominantly Democratic New York City. But we can't be sure whether he won because he was a Republican, because he tried to disassociate himself from the party, because the Democrats were badly split or whether Lindsay's youth, enthusiasm and boyish sincerity caught the attention of the voters and can also be exported to other parts of the nation.

The Fair Housing Law

The adoption of the fair housing bill by the Wisconsin Legislature marks something new in state law for this area. Although the bill has many exemptions as far as enforcement is concerned, it does emphasize that legal efforts will be made to prevent discrimination in housing for race, religion, color or national origin.

The new law does not concern owner-occupied single family homes, certain owner-occupied apartment houses and cottages on small pieces of property also occupied by owners even though in a separate dwelling. Primarily it seeks to prevent discrimination by real estate brokers, builders and developers. The aim is not only to make things easier for minority householders seeking better living conditions: it is to get away from the increasing trend toward "ghettoes" in the large cities.

The existence of these ghettoes is one of our most damaging problems. The circle is complete and vicious Negroes unable to find housing in other areas are packed into low quality tenements and decaying old residences. The apathy, violence and immorality is contagious. However much responsibility should fall upon those who live under such conditions and make no effort to improve them, the hard fact is that small improvement is ever made. The schools are of lower quality, recreational facilities are lacking, the yards, streets and homes remain filthy.

Of course there is fear among people who have maintained better home conditions that Negroes in particular will move into their areas and drag the neighborhood down with them. This is particularly true among more recent white immigrants from Central Europe, jealous of their newly found prosperity which they have struggled to attain. But the plight of the ghetto Negro is going to spread. The violence and crime, the hatred and filth cannot be contained within neighborhood boundaries.

The conflicting rights of individuals are always difficult to settle. The new fair housing bill has compromised with the issue but it is a wise compromise at this time. Nevertheless the statement in the bill that all persons should have equal opportunities in housing may be referred to in later legislation and the present law strengthened if flagrant discrimination continues.

Taylor Writes

Tiger Replaces Bulls and Bears In Stock Market on Wall Street

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

The stock market rides its pogo stick on the front pages again, newsworthy, important and loaded with its usual mass of inconsistencies.

When the Dow-Jones averages were 420 points lower nearly everybody was a pessimist. At 420 points higher nearly everybody is an optimist There's a tiger in the Wall Street tank.

Taylor

On Oct. 28 the price of a New York Stock Exchange seat hit $250,000 — its highest since 1933. The record was $625,000 in 1929. The professionals who bought one then bought at the top of the boom. "Wall Street," said Variety's immortal headline, "Laid an Egg."

The record low price for a seat was $17,000 in 1932. And that was the bottom of the stock market abyss. Oh, no, there'd never be a good market again.

Commissions are to brokers what hay is to a horse, and the trading volume is the profit factor in the worth of a seat.

THEY'RE OFTEN WRONG

But, the secret everybody in Wall Street knows is that the professionals can often be as wrong as the public.

Impressive opinions can tumble out of market letters like apples from a basket, and this is another inconsistency. Professionals on the trading floor hold few illusions about their own infallibility.

Some old Wall Street hands even regard the cyclical peak that professionals pay for Stock Exchange seats as usually coming in the final stage of a bull market. Many consider the price a "contrary indicator" for the market itself

When markets go up few people ask why When prices fall nearly everybody asks why. Every bear market starts like a decline in a bull market Every bull market starts like a rally in a bear market The illusion is considerable, and it's demonstrably impossible to recognize the beginning or end at the time of the change in the trend.

Moreover, in Wall Street you can talk about the averages but you cannot buy the averages. It's been a bull market for owners of General Motors, IBM and others, hitting new highs. But it's not a bull market for owners of AT&T, which has been making new lows.

Over-all only one rule apparently prevails: when bull markets go up they go higher than you would imagine and bear markets fall lower than you would suppose.

Buying begets buying. Selling begets selling. It is easy to concern one's self with the present but the market, of course, concerns itself with the future. Obviously, the time to think about the next powerful movement is before it happens.

Sometimes it pays to think what everybody esle thinks. Often markets go up because everybody thinks they should go up. For a while this can make Wall Street a one-way street. But it is seldom safe to fall asleep on this though, or to depend on the obvious in respect to business conditions and the stated outlook. Unanimous opinion may even be a "contrary indicator."

KENNEDY MARKET

In the fall of 1961 millions married the market and its future with connubial confidence. The public called it the "Kennedy market" and buyers gobbled up everything in sight. In the first six months of 1962 the market dropped $116 billion.

Will the Dow-Jones average now go to 1,000? In today's enormous volume it's easy to forget that for everybody who buys a share of stock somebody sells it. Both can be wrong — temporarily Both can be wrong — permanently.

Some stocks, held long enough, have never been bought at too high a price. Countless others have never "come back." Even a $625,000 exchange seat, bought 36 years ago, still has some distance to recover.

The fundamental difference between a seller of a stock and buyer is that the seller withdraws whereas the buyer enters. The seller is free to "go fishing," as a trading floor adage puts it. Reversely, the buyer has made a commitment.

At present the market has the traditional charm and affable manner expected of royalty. But the market thinks fast, is ruthless and never looks back. This truth has caused many a dismal dismissal from Eden.

There are "new eras," Cock a careful ear to the purr of the tiger in the Wall Street tank.

Political Potshots From Motor

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Nov. 2, 1865.

It has recently come to light that one Col. Cunningham, chief of staff for Gen. John Morgan, the notorious rebel guerrilla and raider, was a delegate to the National Democratic Convention last year. He represented a district in Southern Illinois. His purpose was to organize a force to release rebel prisoners at Camp Douglas.

Another Broad Plan Of Scholarship Aids Passed by Lawmakers

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — In the enervating atmosphere of the legislature's closing, there is always the tendency to minimize the results of its deliberations. In the feverish and often confusing climate of the last days, the failures and the frustrations tend to obscure the positive elements of the record

Wyngaard

Whatever else may be said about the 1965 legislature, however, it will be difficult to avoid the conclusion that it has written more significant acts in the field of education than any other that has convened in this century. So accustomed has been the press and the public, indeed, to far-reaching educational enactments this year that the other day there was slipped through both houses another educational bill that would have been regarded as historic if it had stood alone and won the attention that is usually given to measures adopted in the more leisurely early months.

NEW SCHOLARSHIPS

As if to prove its devotion to the most liberal admissions policy possible on higher education, the legislature without fuss or fanfare put through a new aid program for worthy and talented and needy students according to the prescription written by an advisory commission set up earlier by Gov. Knowles.

The new program will approximately triple the number of beneficiaries of state-financed scholarships and will liberalize the terms of such grants in the most generous terms yet conceived. Until this year, the so-called scholarships were limited to tuition waivers at state-supported schools.

The new program will authorize actual money grants to students to cover their tuition and other needs and will permit them to enroll at the schools of their choice, private or public. It will recognize the fact that there are talented high school graduates who cannot finance residence at college or university, even with tuition waived, because they lack the resources to pay for their food and shelter and other incidental costs. The new program at the same time recognizes for the first time, in higher education scholarship policy, the growing importance of the local schools of vocational and adult education in post-high school training. It will provide the same scholarship opportunities to students enrolled in those schools on a full-time basis in collegiate transfer courses or in associate degree programs related to job training.

The new act meshes with a more historic law enacted earlier in the year which for the first time makes available tuition grants to students on the basis of merit or need who choose to enroll in private institutions of higher learning. That law was based on the supposition that if some students through such assistance can be encouraged to enroll in the schools of their first choice, the pressure upon the tax-supported institutions for teaching staff and space, already severe, may be significantly reduced.

HISTORIC

Such measures and others that have been enacted recently almost without comment would have been regarded as bold and revolutionary a decade or two ago when the numbers of students at college and university were modest by today's measure. They supplement an existing student loan program which is one of the most liberal in the country and which will probably need replenishment in the form of another legislative appropriation which will also be provided cheerfully.

The student population has doubled during the last decade. It will almost surely double again during the next decade. The price tags on the scholarship and other assistance bills are formidable today. But everybody who pushed his button in the legislature this year must have known that they will become even more costly in the future. They stand as the most eloquent proofs possible of the powerful dedication of the people of Wisconsin to the ideal of fullest possible educational opportunity for its young people.

Strictly Personal

Show and Tell Game Sign of Childhood

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When one of my daughters had just entered second grade, I brought home some strange kind of shell I had found, and said to her, "You might want to take this to school tomorrow for 'show-and-tell.' "

She drew herself up to her full 40 inches and replied scornfully, "Daddy, we don't have show-and-tell any more: that's baby stuff, in second grade, we have 'sharing interests.' "

Harris

I apologized profusely for my horrible gaffe. It seemed a trivial mistake in terminology to me, but it was important to her, and rightfully so There is a profound difference between "show and-tell" and "sharing interests."

This is, in a large sense, what growing up is all about. Very small children like to show and tell. They bring some treasured object to school and talk about it. The whole idea is egocentric, and is based on pride of possession. A quite young child doesn't know what "bragging" is.

As we get older, our emphasis should shift to sharing interests. Objects are brought to school not so much to boast about them as to involve other stundents in them: to expand their horizons and to create some mutually enjoyable field of inquiry or discovery.

This is a lesson, alas, that many adults never learn. A distressing number remain in the show-and-tell stage throughout their lifetime Their conversation consists of displaying their gifts — their house, their car, their trip, their children, their social or intellectual superiority — rather than trying to find a broader base of commonality with others.

I happened to overhear some conversations of strangers on a train not long ago, and it struck me that each of them was using the other as a sounding - board and little else. One would speak about himself; the other would dutifully listen; then the second would take his turn, and the first would listen

But the "listening" was a matter of surface courtesy and nothing more Each was going through a set of verbal gymnastics, a kind of exercise in self-disclosure, but no contact was really made. They were like golfers taking turns addressing different balls; they walked the same course, but no genuine transaction ever took place

Mostly, they were seeking to reassure themselves that all was well, they were looking for identity and stability and acceptance, by means of constructing an image in the other person's mind This is a futile and unsatisfactory way to do it — for in personal relations, the other structures that can stand are bridges, not skyscrapers Unless we reach across, we are reaching out in vain.

Tourism Swells in West Berlin Over '63

Unofficial statistics for 1964 tourist and overnight visits to Berlin indicate an overall picture of a 20 per cent increase over 1963's figures. Overnight stays in West Berlin hotels totalled 2.04 million by 690,000 guests In addition to this, 44,000 people spent a total of 130,000 overnights in private rooms booked through the tourist office, bringing the grand total of Berlin visitors to 734,000 and overnights to 2.15 million Traffic from the U.S. was up 25 per cent.

De Gaulle Sees Himself as Angel of France

Election to 7-Year Term Would 'Keep Nation From Peril'

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)— French President Charles de Gaulle has a dream of a France made splendid by a guardian angel, himself, hovering over it until at last he totters out of sight in old age.

It's a dream of France as one of the great world powers again. But it's a rickety kind of dream, inextricably mixed up with De Gaulle's vision of himself, as he revealed Thursday.

He is almost 75 and Thursday, to no one's surprise, he said he wants to be chosen president again in the Dec. 5 elections for a seven-year term, which would keep him in office until he is 82.

This was no surprise. Everyone expected it. But De Gaulle has made his life and his presidency a lesson in dramatics. So he had to dramatize the expected and even try to make it a mystery.

No Advance Word

After the radio-television technicians taped his eight-minute broadcast, the crew was kept inside the Elysee Palace, to be sure no advance word leaked out, until the moment it went out over the airwaves.

"I believe I must hold myself ready to carry on my task," he said, adding that the "future of the new republic will be decidedly assured" if the French people keep him in office.

Then came the revelation. If he didn't remain president, he said, "then no one can doubt that this new republic will promptly collapse and that France would have to endure — but this time without any possible recourse — a confusion within the state even more disastrous than that which she has known before.

Indispensable Man

In these words, hardly surpassed for sheer egotism by any figure in history, De Gaulle pronounced himself the indispensable man. But it was hardly a tribute to his beloved country.

In those words he was saying the French nation, which he has tried to compel the rest of the world to accept as the equal of the strongest, is so basically chaotic that it could not survive without the guidance of one man, him.

Yet, there is realism in what he said, although it contradicts his pretensions about France. With its multitude of political parties and its inability to establish anything like a solid government, France was disintegrating until De Gaulle took over in 1958.

He has pulled the nation together, renewed its pride, given it fresh confidence. But now, as he revealed, it all revolves around him.

Political Maturity

This doesn't speak well for his ability to think of France in terms other than himself for, from what he said Thursday, it can be concluded he has not steered the French into any more political maturity than when he came along.

In his obsession with the glory of France, which he now really relates to his own glory, he has been a pain to President Johnson and other Western allies just as he was to President John F. Kennedy.

Oddly, if he is elected Dec. 5, which seems certain, his new term of seven years will keep him facing, and no doubt annoying, Johnson as long as Johnson could hope to stay in the presidency.

Johnson is finishing the first year of his elected term now. He, too, then wold have another seven years in office if re-elected in 1968.

Threatened NATO

Among other annoyances De Gaulle has condemned the American intervention in the Dominican Republic and in effect, without going into details here, has threatened to disrupt the North Atlantic Treaty Organization unless France can be a free-wheeler in a way to suit herself.

What he seems to have in mind is abandonment of NATO as it has existed and a return to the old type of loose alliances in Western Europe which almost got it destroyed in two world wars.

And De Gaulle had the gall to condemn the war in Viet Nam, calling for neutrality and independence of Southeast Asian nations although France kept Viet Nam in colonial bondage until driven out in an eight-year war by the Vietnamese.

Housing Bill Victory for Gov. Knowles

from its 65-day summer recess in a fighting mood. During the opening week it dealt Knowles his toughest setback since the 1965 session started.

The Joint Finance Committee, a powerful group that controls legislative money matters, recommended that a proposed accelerated highway program—financed through bonding — be killed. The Republican chief executive pleaded twice during the first week for its adoption.

His most likely opponent in the 1966 election — Democratic Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey—did not escape unscathed either. Both Knowles and Lucey voiced their approval of the measure during a public hearing before the Finance Committee.

Knowles' most dramatic proposal was not even talked about in the halls, much less considered on the floor. It called for a 10-year extension of the $50 million outdoor resources act which is financed by a penny-a-pack tax on cigarettes.

Fifth Year

The program, initiated by former Gov. Gaylord Nelson, is in its fifth year and has been directed almost entirely to putting suitable land into a state reserve for recreation purposes.

Knowles said a portion of the tax money now being collected should be used to finance a $10 million bonding program to speed development of land already acquired.

A statewide 21-year-old beer law.

A mandatory vehicle inspection law.

An implied consent rule for drunk driving enforcement.

On the last day the Republican governor received an unexpected bonus — passage of a Senate bill that would appropriate $681,000 to four state agencies and the University of Wisconsin for research on water pollution abatement.

Mandatory tests for phenylketnuria—PKU — a condition that can lead to mental retardation in the newborn were approved by the Legislature and sent to the Governor. Development of a testing program would fall to the State Board of Health.

The age-old question of oleomargarine popped up continually during the five-week session. The only affirmative action taken was Assembly passage of a bill that would repeal the 15 cent a pound tax on uncolored oleo.

State-chartered savings and loan associations were authorized to establish branches within 35 miles of their home offices. For Milwaukee County institutions, the limit would be 20 miles.

Hard Fight

Banks fought hard through the last day to get the same privilege, but their efforts failed in the Senate. The Assembly has approved a branch banking bill.

Pre-trial publicity was the subject of an Assembly debate during the third week. The House granted overwhelming approval to a bill that would curb pre-trial statements by attorneys and police on the guilt or innocence of a defendant or published commentary on the existence or lack of a statement or confession.

Only one assemblyman voiced opposition to the bill that was harshly criticized in the editorial columns of many Wisconsin newspapers. The vote for passage was 73-23. The bill wound up in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

State Gets Funds for Cleanup Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wisconsin has been allocated $70,147 for control of advertising and $72,753 for control of junkyards, the Bureau of Public Roads has announced.

The funds, announced Thursday, are part of a $6 million allocation to help states clean up the land along highways.

Frank McRee, Left, a Madison, Ga., furniture salesman, turns over to Lamar Thomas some of the checks that have been sent to the Negro farmer following nationwide publication of a picture showing Thomas watching helplessly as his home burns. McRee rescued Lamar Thomas Jr. here being held by his mother. One child died in the fire. Thomas said most of the contributions of money and household items have come from white persons. low state savings and loan associations to establish branches, and commented:

"We're saying the hell with state banks—let everybody else branch but them."

The Assembly refused to act on a bill that would delay two years a requirement that Wisconsin cities and villages of more than 10,000 population purchase voting machines.

If there is no favorable action in the spring, 14 Wisconsin cities will have to buy the machines for use in the September, 1966 primary. The cities are:

Milwaukee, Kenosha, Superior, Beloit, Ashland, Chippewa Falls, Marinette, Menasha, Neenah, Stevens Point, Two Rivers, De Pere, Beaver Dam and Watertown.

Utility Service

Legislative action was completed on a bill to permit cities and villages to extend municipal utility service to specified outlying areas.

The bill blunts a Public Service Commission order that municipalities moving their utilities beyond corporate limits must serve all requesting customers in the area.

Assemblymen adopted a Senate bill that would create the office of state public defender. The State Supreme Court would appoint him and he would represent indigents appealing felony and misdemeanor convictions.

On the last day of the fall session, the Assembly received a reminder that Wisconsin's $1 a barrel beer tax has been unchanged since beer's return in the 1930s.

With tongue in cheek, Assemblyman Vincent Mathews, D-Waukesha, introduced a bill to cut the tax to 95 cents.

"The poverty stricken industry apparently needs relief," said the champion of several vain attempts to boost the levy.

a prisoner camp where they released 10 Vietnamese soldiers and killed one Viet Cong.

They said they also found a workshop containing a generator and a store of mines, grenades, ammunition and several Viet Cong uniforms.

Light contact with the enemy was reported during the sweep.

Near Chu Lai, in the northernmost region of the country, a joint operation by U.S. Marines and Vietnamese troops was in its third day. Some equipment, uniforms and documents were picked up but there was little contact. Two Viet Cong have been killed so far in the operation, spokesmen said.

Big Damage

Ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet pounded Viet Cong targets near the coasts and observers reported extensive damage to buildings and trench systems.

U.S. Navy and Air Force planes hammered at targets inside the country and in North Viet Nam. Nineteen missions were flown over North Viet Nam Thursday. Among the targets was the Ron Naval Base, 25 miles north of Dong Hoi. Four buildings were reported destroyed and five damaged.

NATO military integration as far as France is concerned.

Rusk said the situation requires that the NATO Allies know what they will do in any emergency "to avoid confusion at the moment of crisis," and added that means integration.

3. Rusk said the United States expects proposals from De Gaulle on NATO reorganization and is prepared to consider them. But he declined to speculate on the meaning to NATO of De Gaulle's decision to stand for election to a new seven-year term as president of France.

East-West Treaty

4. The United States considers an East-West treaty to prohibit the spread of nuclear weapons a matter of urgency because of the danger that a number of other countries may get nuclear weapons. Rusk was not optimistic, however, about early progress in this respect. He said differences over the Vietnamese war cast a shadow over U.S-Soviet relations.

5. At the same time Rusk rejected what he called a "most extraordinary point of view" that interest in the proposed treaty should give the Soviet Union a voice in determining NATO nuclear weapons organization.

In this connection he attacked the secrecy which he said covers the handling of nuclear weapons in the Soviet-led Warsaw pact in Eastern Europe. He said whatever arrangement the Soviets have made with their allies is a mystery to him. Thus he rejected a link between the NATO nuclear force project and a proposed nuclear weapons control treaty with the Soviet Union.

Advice on Warrant Problem

MADISON (AP)—The attorney general's office advised all Wisconsin counties today that arrest warrants should be issued by court commissioners or justices of the peace.

Deputy Atty. Gen. John Bowers issued the recommendation to guide local authorities confused by a State Supreme Court ruling Tuesday which said that district attorneys no longer could issue warrants.

Commissioners would issue the warrants on the basis of sworn testimony or sworn complaints by police officers or citizen complainants, Bower said.

He noted that the procedure had been in effect in Racine County for many years. It was instituted Thursday in Milwaukee County, where—as in most of the state's counties—county prosecutors have served for decades as issuing magistrates for warrants.

The new system was used in Milwaukee's County Court to reissue two murder warrants that were dismissed Wednesday under the court ruling. They charged 16-year-old Eugene Rogers and 18-year-old Odell Young with third degree murder in the beating death of John Zamora, 49, during an attempted robbery last September.

21 Sheets Plywood Stolen at Seymour

Herbert Wendt, Seymour, reported to the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department Thursday that 21 sheets of plywood, valued at about $160, were stolen over the weekend from his new drive-in building at State 54 and Ivory Street in Seymour.

The Paper City Four Quartet of Menasha was one of the foursomes which sang on June 9, 1945, when the Neenah-Menasha SPEBSQSA Chapter became the 10th in Wisconsin to receive its official charter. This group also won national fame as one of the few with an honest-to-goodness barber in it, tenor Victor Fritz, left. Harmonizing with him are baritone John Pinkerton, president of the Twin City chapter, lead Ed Boehm and bass Arnold Patterson.

Each of These Barbershop songsters in the old Gruesome Double Twosome Quartet could qualify as an active "Mr. Harmony" in promoting quartet singing in the area A charter quartet of the Appleton SPEBSQSA, pre-dating the Land O'Lakes District, the group first sang together in 1941 They are, standing, lead Harvey Reetz, and, seated from the left, tenor George McElroy, Kimberly, baritone E. L. "Les" Biselx, and bass Al Falk, now deceased.

In Earlier Years, quartets often changed costumes with every stage appearance. Neenah's Valley Four went in for comedy routines and here they are dressed as old-time barbers, complete with handlebar mustaches. They also gave shows during their singing career as burly lumberjacks and boy-girl couples They are, from the left, tenor Emil Hagman, lead Kenneth Chappelle, baritone Gib Neff and bass Fred Nixon

21st SPEBSQSA Convention

Land O' Lakes Unit Comes Of Age in Own Hometown

When the Land O' Lakes District of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet (SPEBSQSA) holds its 21st annual convention and harmony competition in Appleton this weekend it will in a sense be coming of age in its own hometown

The district was organized in Appleton May 5, 1945, under the leadership of the late Alvin H. Falk, Delmont Bradford, and other members of the Appleton SPEBSQSA Chapter. The meeting was held in the Conway Hotel, convention headquarters for this year's activities that open tonight.

That first organization was state-wide, —known as The Wisconsin Association of Chapters of SPEBSQSA. It changed its name and larger identity to the Land O'Lakes District in later years as SPEBSQSA International grew in scope and divided into regional areas.

Temporary officers were chosen at the organizational meeting and all but the vice president were elected at the association's first annual meeting July 20 in Milwaukee.

First Officers

Frank Carey, Racine, was the organization's first president, Appleton's Alvin "Al" Falk its secretary, and Ed Walthers of Manitowoc the treasurer Alex Mayer, Milwaukee, was named vice president at the Appleton meeting but when he withdrew from the office J M Dollen maier, also of Milwaukee, was elected in his place at the later Milwaukee meeting

It also was in 1945 that Falk was elected a director of SPEBSQSA International

The state association was composed of 15 charter chapters according to the listing in the program of the organization's first barbershop quartet contest 'This event was held in the Milwaukee Auditorium Saturday night, Nov 3, just 20 years ago this weekend

The charter chapters included Racine, Appleton, Wauwatosa, Green Bay, Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Beloit, Sheboygan, Manitowoc, Neenah-Menasha, Baraboo, Janesville, Waupaca, Madison and Kenosha

Contest Winners

Winners of that first contest were the champion Hi-Lo's of Milwaukee, two Appleton quartets in second and fourth places and the Inter-City Four from Manitowoc taking third

Appleton's Four Keynotes, who went on to become district champions the next year, were the second-place winners with Gordon Heule, tenor, Leonard Krueger, lead, Delmont Bradford, bass, and Meyer Gabriel singing bass Members of the Gruesome Double Twosome, in fourth place, were tenor George McElroy lead Harvey Reetz, baritone E L. Biselx, and bass A H Falk

Three other area quartets competing in the 20-quartet competition were the Hopeless Four from Appleton, the Paper City Four from the Neenah-Menasha Chapter, and the Oshkosh B Gosh Four from Oshkosh

The first chorus competition wasn t held until the next year, July 12, 1946 in Oshkosh

Those original 15 chapters have expanded to 70 in today s Land O' Lakes District, representing a total membership of 3,000. The earlier state area also has expanded to include not only Wisconsin but the states of Minnesota and North Dakota as well, plus Upper Michigan, the counties of Kenora, Thunder Bay and Rainy River in the Canadian province of Ontario, and the provinces of Saskatchewan and Manitoba

International Honors

The Land O' Lakes District has made an enviable record in International circles since it organized in 1945. It has supplied three International presidents and three International champion songsters

O H Cole, Manitowoc, was elected International SPEBSQSA president in 1948 John Z Means, also of Manitowoc, in 1953, and Dan Waselchuk of Green Bay in 1963

The Schmitt Brothers of Two Rivers representing the Manitowoc Chapter, won the International Champion crown in 1951 and the Four Teens, from the Eau Claire Chapter, in 1952 The Janesville Chorus was International champion in 1955 One of Appleton's two district champions, The Sing-Copates, won third International honors in 1951

That's quite a handsome record for an organization just come of age.

Manawa Girl Named State Honey Queen

RICE LAKE — Margaret O Brien, 18, route 1, Manawa, was crowned state Honey Queen Thursday night at the banquet of the Wisconsn Honey Producer's Association annual convention

Miss O'Brien is one of 13 children of Mr. and Mrs Joe O Brien She was a 1965 graduate of Manawa High School and is studying secondary education at the University of Wisconsin.

She reigned last year as Miss Manawa and also is Miss Waupaca County Honey Queen She succeeds Cheryl Mueller of Seymour as State Honey Queen

In other convention action, Bernard E Gerster of Lake Mills was re-elected president of the Association

The organization, known for 88 years as the Wisconsin State Beekeepers' Association, adopted the change in name and also re-elected John Long of Westfield first vice president and Art Kehl of Watertown, secretary-treasurer Walter Smith of Elmwood was chosen second vice president.

Pharmacists Told to Stop Use of 2 Types of Cherry-Flavored Syrup

WASHINGTON (AP) — A warning that all pharmacists should stop dispensing two lots of cherry flavored tetracycline syrup which was distributed in pint bottles under many brand names was issued Thursday

George P Larrick, commissioner of food and drugs said analysis shows the lots have deteriorated to less than 50 per cent of the potency declared on the labels

Therefore, he said the product will not accomplish the results expected by the prescribing physician

He said the antibiotic product bearing lot numbers 3459 and 3366 was manufactured by Kasco Corp in New York City, but is distributed by other firms under their own labels

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words Often Misused: Avoid such expressions as "Equally as good," "Equally as capable," etc. "Equally" is sufficient. Or, still better, say, "This wine is just as good as that." "The boy is quite (or, fully) as capable as his father."

Often Misspelled: Allude; two "l's." Elude; only one "l."

Synonyms: Healthy, hale, hearty, healthful, salubrious, salutary, strong, well, wholesome.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Teacher Retirement Benefits Increased

MADISON (AP) — Retired public school teachers with more than 20 years of service will have their benefits raised to levels ranging from $100 to $160 a month under terms of a bill signed Wednesday by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

The Republican chief executive said the law will aid about 3,200 teachers and called it a "worthy companion to the other fine education measures enacted this year."

The new law provides supplemental benefits at the rate of $5 a month for each year of service up to 32 years. Teachers with 20 years experience who now receive less than $100 per month will have their annuities raised to that level. Those with 32 years experience will receive $160.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Players Hop on One Foot in a New Game Called 'Hop Stick'

BY CAPPY DICK

"Hop Sticks" is an outdoor game for two or more players.

Lay nine to 10 sticks on the ground, 18 inches apart. The players take turns hopping down the row on one foot. At the end of the row the player must turn around, bend down and pick up the last stick over which he hopped, then hop back over the row to the starting place.

At no time may he touch a stick with his foot. If he succeeds in hopping down the line, picking up the last stick and hopping back to the starting point, he picks up the first stick and, still on one foot, hops down the line again. He can continue hopping and picking up a stick at each end of the row until his foot touches a stick or until he touches the earth with his other foot.

A player's score is the number of sticks over which he hopped, plus 10 points for each stick he picked up.

As soon as a player misses by touching a stick, or putting his other foot to the ground, it becomes the next player's turn. All the sticks are returned to their places before the second player begins hopping.

Play five turns. The player with the highest total score is the winner.

How Many Words?

How many words of four letters or more can you form from the letters in the word PRESAGE? Words that acquire four letters by the addition of "S," as in the words "eats" or "dogs," do not count, and no proper names. We managed to score a total of 38 words on this, but maybe you can do better with the letters in PRESAGE.

Long-Awaited Daughter Knot Finally Tied

BY TV SCOUT

8:30-9 — Channels 11-9 — Patient admirers of The Farmer's Daughter rejoice: Katy (Inger Stevens) finally makes it to the altar and weds her Congressman (William Windom) as the comedy moves into still another new time slot. It's a fancy ceremony, with all the trimmings and few brides have been prettier than Katy. Only complications to the impressive affair are slight moments when the eager Katy with "something old, something new and something blue" almost goes down the aisle without her wedding dress and Morely frets for a while over a "missing" best man. (Color)

* * *

6:30-7:30 — Channels 2-7-12 — The Wild, Wild West has an off and on good adventure with "The Night of the Dancing Death." Following a script that seems more fitting for the Man From U.N.C.L.E., secret agents Jim West and Artemus Gordon combat a sinister band of toughs from Albania with their usual assortment of tricks that seem highly far fetched for the 1860s.

* * *

7:30-8 — Channels 11-6-9 — "Morticia, The Writer" on The Addams Family has some (but not too many) funny moments when Carolyn Jones begins rewriting children's stories. She is aghast that Pugsley and Wednesday have to read books at school such as "Sir Lancelot Slays The Evil Giant."

* * *

7:30-8 — Channels 2-7-12 — Hogan's Heroes has a routine yet effective episode as the POWs again try to undermine Kommandant Klink. This time they try to convince their German warden to star in a documentary film which will show how humane he is to Allied prisoners. (Color)

7:30-8:30 — Channel 4-5 — There is more than the usual suspense on Convoy in "Admiral Do-Right" as guest star Andrew Prine is asked to deactivate a torpedo that has failed to explode in the flagship.

8-8:30 — Channels 11-9 — Honey West tackles the meanest little girl that has ever been on television and at the same time gets mixed up with a band of jewel smugglers. Her assignment is to tote Maureen McCormick, who badly needs a smack, from one divorced parent to the other.

9-10 — Channels 4-5-7 — "The Tigers Are Coming Affair" is a growling bit of nonsense that should tickle fans of The Man From U.N.C.L.E. Jill Ireland, the pretty wife of co-star David McCallum, plays a botanist whose insecticides are being stolen by a Far East dictator.

9-10 — Channel 2 — Slattery's People has a good but somewhat obvious drama with "The Hero." Earl Holliman, a much honored major, locks horns with Richard Crenna after the latter sees him shoot a deer out of season. Crenna refuses to support the chap for U.S. Senator and consequently his legislative buddies begin to think. Crenna is fair game for some brutal attacks.

Court Rules For Green Bay In Appeal

MADISON (AP)—The State Supreme Court ruled Tuesday in a split decision that the City of Green Bay was within its rights in ordering a service station to remove two signs at its street approaches.

Justice Horace Wilkie wrote the four-three decision which upheld a judgment by Brown County Circuit Judge Donald W. Gleason. The dissenting justices were E. Harold Hallows, Myron Gordon and Bruce Beilfuss.

The J & N Corporation of Green Bay erected gas advertising signs in 1956 and did not apply for a permit. In 1961 the city's building code was amended to regulate signs at service stations. On April 21, 1964 the corporation was ordered by the city to remove the signs. The firm brought court action to restrain the city from enforcing the ordinance. The city wanted the signs, four by six feet and advertising prices, removed from the station approaches as a safety measure.

Wilkie said in the decision that it would be possible for the station to place the signs in a different location without loss of their value.

But Then, What Would You Do at 4 a.m.?

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — "Hi, there," said the man drilling on a safe. "Good morning," replied baker Frank Figuero reporting for work at a store at 4 a.m.

Figuero said he responsed to the burglar's greeting automatically before he realized what was going on. Another burglar was crouched behind a counter. Everyone did a doubletake -and ran, the burglars to freedom and Figuero to a telephone to call police.

Denmark Cheese Maker Wins At State Meeting

EAU CLAIRE (AP)—Louis I. Biddle of Soldiers Grove, winner of the State Fair Governor's Sweepstakes the last three years, captured the Wisconsin Cheesemakers Association sweepstakes award for cheddar at the group's state convention Wednesday.

Albert Deppeler of Monroe was the sweepstakes winner in limburger.

Biddle topped the cheddar classes with an entry of one and a half year old cheese that scored 98 points out of a possible 100. Deppeler's entry scored 98.5. He, too, has been a state fair winner and in other contests.

Winners by classes with their scores: American cheese made in 1964, Biddle, 98; American cheese made between Jan. 1 was stolen the night after his and July 31, 1965, Robert C. Turk, Mount Sterling, 97.83; American cheese made between Aug. 1 and Sept. 15, 1965, Ervin Purdeu, Gillett, 97.
